A Preface

"Alas! The fleeting years slip by." Thus the classical Roman poet, Horace, reminds us of the swift and unrecalable passage of time. But the memories and impressions of passing years, especially those very formative ones which are spent in college—these must linger with us for the rest of our lives. Now we are faced with the task of cramming these memories into one brief moment of reflection.

At our birth that autumn, we cried out with the psalmist, "How long, O Lord? How long?" And our answer came back—"Four years long." And we faced it with the pessimism with which nature faced the long barren winter ahead. During these four years we would witness and mourn the death of ideas within which we were once so warm.

Safe in your presence you hide them far from the wiles of men;
inside your tent you shelter them far from the war of tongues!

(Psalm 31)

We would have our resurrection. Our lives would blossom full with the growth within our minds and hearts of the Spirit of St. Francis of Assisi. His was not a philosophy corruptable and ephemeral as others. His was a genuine "spirit" built on the inevitability of nature and people and the myriad character of their ways. What better way to train for the experiences of the world, experiences of people, than to foster this great "spirit" in a strong personalist atmosphere? What more maturing philosophy is worthy to fill the gaping crevasses of the forsaken ideals of youth?

Along with this growth of spirit we have seen another kind of growth; the physical growth of Saint Francis College. The "Design for Greatness" immediately seems to threaten the humility of our new "spirit." But soon we understand. And although we will not see this flower in full bloom, ours will have been the experience of its growth, the sounds of the hard steel and concrete of construction remaining so ever-present to us.

Now we are at the end of the spring. At our commencement, our feelings are feeble for those who will begin their autumn facing the bronze doors to which we, not unaffected by the experience, now turn our backs. St. Francis, his hands still bleeding love, stoops to gently cut the new flowers of his spirit, now in their last stages. He will bring them to adorn the great marketplace.

This has been our moment of reflection—and anticipation. We will probably find cause to do it again in different circumstances and for different reasons as the stages of our lives unfold. But we will never remember as we now remember. This is our first remembering—a fresh remembering, mingled with the hope that, as Milton said, "Time will run back, and fetch the Age of Gold."

DEDICATION

As in years past, one of the most difficult problems which we in Room 500 face is the decision as to whom we should dedicate this year's book. All of the suggestions made were extremely worthy and in attempting to narrow down the choice, we followed the criterion of picking someone who best exemplified our experiences in four years of study at Saint Francis. Although Saint Francis College is represented in different ways to different people, it was felt that those should be chosen who best represented the school to a majority of the students.

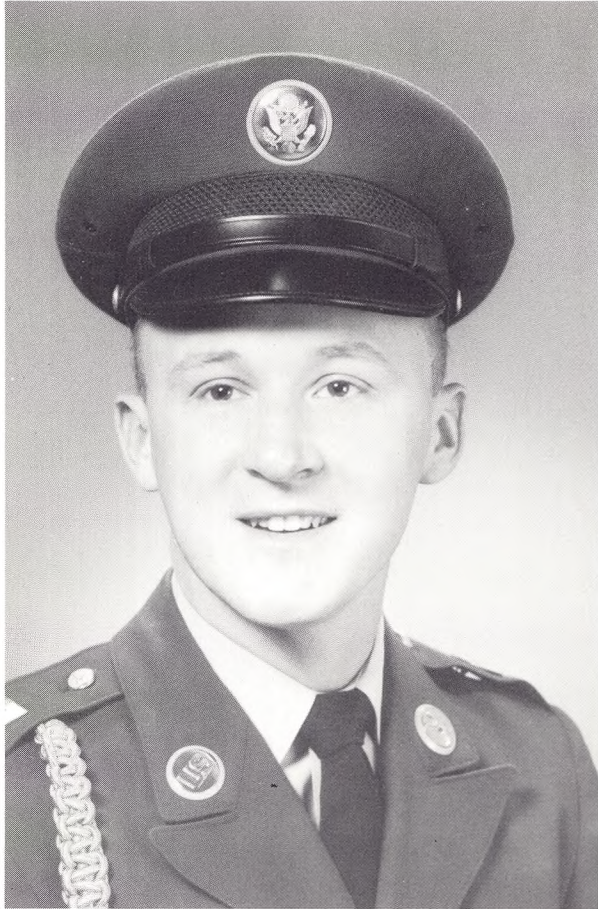

In another and more important sense, obvious and personal dedication to the students and their well-being, as well as qualities of Christian character, intelligence and Franciscan spirit, provided the final and over-riding factor in the making of the choice. It is with these thoughts in mind that we, the Senior Class, respectfully dedicate this 1967 Franciscan to Doctor Edgar Taschdjian and Doctor James J. Flynn.

Dr. James J. Flynn

Through the efforts of Doctor Taschdjian and Doctor Flynn, many students will leave Saint Francis, with not only an educational background, but perhaps, a clearer understanding of life itself. They have worked arduously to extend their knowledge both educationally and personally. Yet, we must realize that they strive for a complete success on behalf of the student, which we feel they have done quite well. The Seniors' only wish is that, both Doctor Taschdjian and Doctor Flynn, continue to be successful in helping those who follow us have a clearer understanding of themselves and their world.

and Dr. Edgar Taschdjian

THOMAS WHITMAN

*May God grant him peace.
To his family strong faith.
To one another fraternity.*

In Memoriam

He was among us for such a brief time. Hardly any of us really got to know him. Suddenly we learn that Thomas Whitman has been killed in action in that place we all have become too fearfully aware of—Vietnam.

We wish we could have known him more intimately; we wish we could have shared something of his aspirations, his desires, his dreams, for we all hope the same things.

Now, he is dead, but somehow, let us truly bring his life to fruitful reality through becoming more interested, more caring, more concerned for one another. Somehow, if Thomas Whitman's sacrifice of his life, will make us truly more fraternal, then, difficult as this new tragedy is to take, we shall not let his torch die out, because we truly live through one another.

And, confused or not, thank God for the Christian faith which makes of death an ascent to the light and love of God.

We regret exceedingly to speak of our fellow student in this context. We pray to God that he really has more meaning to us now, than he did before.

Office of the President

June 10, 1967

Dear Graduate:

It gives me great pleasure to convey to you the congratulations of the Board of Trustees and Faculty of St. Francis College on the happy occasion of your graduation. I am pleased to add to this my personal good wishes.

During your college career you have witnessed numerous fundamental and dramatic changes in your college, your church and indeed in the entire value system of your world. It is my prayerful wish that the liberal arts education which you have received at St. Francis will provide the principles by which you may evaluate future changes that are veritably inevitable. As you evaluate these changes, as you arrive at personal decisions and as you contribute to the implementation of new educational, religious and social conditions, I trust that the theology and philosophy as well as the other academic disciplines of the core curriculum of St. Francis College will stand you in good stead.

Please continue to pray for St. Francis College.

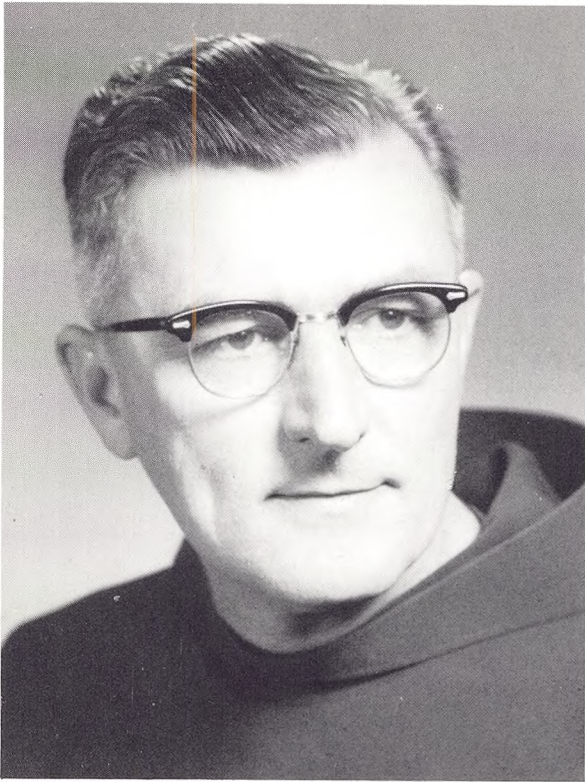

God Bless You.

Sincerely yours,

Brother Urban Gonnoud

ACTIVITIES

DEBATE TEAM

"Why don't we have a debate club?" This question was asked of Brother Blaise, O.S.F., Dean of Students, in November of 1965 by a collegian deeply interested in debating as an activity here at St. Francis.

Spurred on by this question and the subsequent answer, interest in debate was sought out on a person-to-person basis.

After a group of ten students expressed an interest in debating, a Constitution was proposed and approved, application to S.A.C. for recognition was submitted and approved, and a part-time coach and small budget were procured.

The activities of the debating club consisted of participation in three collegiate debating tournaments in the Spring of 1966 at C.C.N.Y., C.W. Post College and American University, Washington, D.C.

Early in August of 1966, an invitation to appear on C.B.S. television's "College Counterpoint" was relayed to the school. Though the season had not started and the team was without a coach, they committed themselves nevertheless in the name of the college. As if this wasn't enough of a challenge, the loquacious sophomores took a chance to debate a visiting team from Oxford University of England.

In the T.V. debates, our men defeated Rutgers University but lost in a subsequent match with Pace College.

Oxford University's debating team was defeated at the college on October 14, 1966. The topic of debate was "Resolved: That this house deplors America's unilateral Declaration of Independence." Our collegians argued the negative and did so exceedingly well.

Our debating team has thus far participated in tournaments at Wagner College, Queens College, Princeton University, Iona College, Temple University, Kings College and Harvard University. A series of student-faculty meetings to stimulate an interest in debating here at the college have also been held.

Debating in many more intercollegiate tournaments and perhaps the holding of a collegiate debating tournament are also in the planning stage.

Members of the club are Pete Feeney, Pat O'Mara, Louis Martinenko, Tom Quinn, William Hughes, Bill Leininger, Pat Reavey and Robert Mishko.

Most of all, our collegians have demonstrated the viable and dynamic Franciscan spirit, through which they hope to make their small contribution to St. Francis' "Design for Greatness."

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The fall semester of the 1966-67 academic year was probably the most successful half year in the history of the International Relations Club. The annual Political Forum, concentrating on the gubernatorial race and various local races, provided the student body and faculty with an exciting and interesting program.

Gene Swanzey-President, began working on the program in early August. He contacted Governor Rockefeller's office and in late August he received a reply indicating that the chief executive was extremely interested in speaking at the college. Contacts were then made with all the possible Democratic Party, Liberal Party and Conservative Party nominees. Definite commitments were established in late September and Rockefeller was the first candidate to appear in the forum. He addressed an extremely large audience in the first week of October. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the Liberal Party nominee, then appeared the following week. The Democratic nominee, Frank O'Connor, addressed a large portion of the student body during the third week of October; and during the final week before elections, Paul Adams and Kieran O'Doherty, the Conservative nominees, addressed an equally large throng.

Thus, with the concerted efforts of Mr. Swanzey,

Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Frank O'Connor presents his case before the students.

Professor Paul Adams sought the Governor's chair on the Conservative ticket and outlined his platform for the students in the "Pit".

I.R.C. and Latin American Society Chiefs of Staff conspire on a joint venture.

I.R.C. listens to debate on Civilian Review Board.

Brother Theodore Campbell and Dr. James J. Flynn, Saint Francis College achieved the distinction of being the only school in New York State to have all four candidates.

Adding to this success were the appearances of Member of Congress Hugh Carey and Secretary of State of New York John P. Lomenzo; a debate between two prominent lawyers on the Civilian Review Board issue; a mock election, and club treasurer John Szulwach's appointment to The Post of Member-at-Large in the national IRC.

The Spring program was somewhat less successful. Invitations to Martin Luther King, Jr. and Arthur Goldberg were extended. However, both were unable to visit the college. However, before semester's end John J. McCloy, member of the Warren Commission and former High Commissioner of Germany, will have addressed the club and the annual High School Convention will have taken place.

The attempt to revitalize the Young Conservatives, Liberals and Democrats was fairly successful. However, participation in the Republican Club, the CCUN and the AIRC was less than desirable.

After that first hectic month both the Moderator and President prophesized that the remainder of the year would be anticlimatic. They were quite correct.

GERMAN

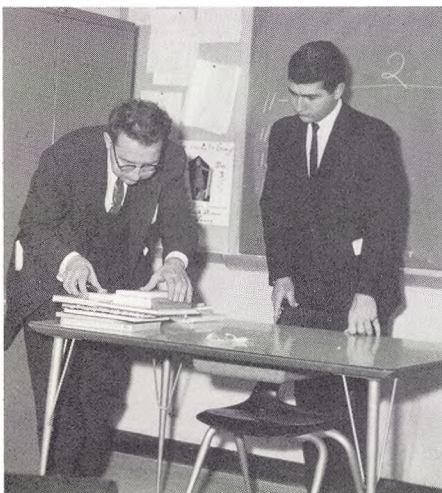

CLUB

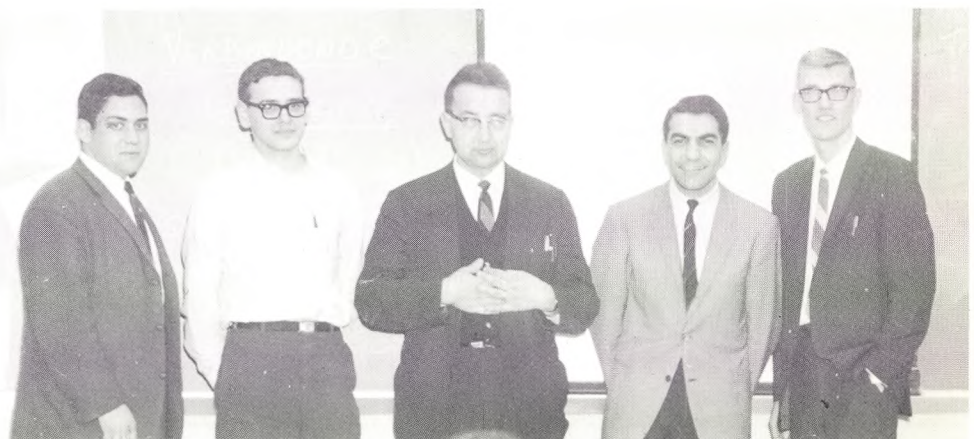

Professor Rutar mans the projector to unveil another reel of German culture.

Under the direction of Professor Sidney Rutar the German Club had another successful year. The club gave the serious German student an opportunity to see examples of German culture by means of the motion picture media. The films were obtained from the German Consulate in New York. The club also concerns itself with gaining a greater knowledge of the German language.

The officers of the club worked closely with Professor Rutar in their efforts to make things run smoothly. The officers are: Lou Juhasz-President, Vice President Jerry Benez, Treasurer James Mitchell, Recording Secretary Wally Clare and Corresponding Secretary Frank Bonavita.

TROUPERS

A new dance step invented by Bob Leahy and Anna Martini captivates Bob Henderson in The Curious Savage.

ON THE MARCH

"I'd rather do it myself", Bob Henderson tells Chuck Rossi and Joe Campanero as Anna Martini looks on.

Three years ago, the Pi Zeta Cast (Chapter) of the Alpha Psi Omega National Honorary Dramatics Fraternity was chartered at St. Francis College. Each year, Troupers who have demonstrated a high degree of theatrical ability either as actors or as stage hands have been honored by induction into this fraternity. The roster of the fraternity reads as follows: Cast Director Brother Anthelm Drowne, O.S.F., President Victor Barranca, Vice President William Farrell, Secretary-Treasurer Charles Rossi, Members: John Albertella, Ron Gori, Joseph Pandolfo, Bill Trentman, and Michael Davino.

The Troupers, under President Victor Barranca and Vice President Robert Henderson, officially began the year's activities with a short comedy sketch at the Freshman Smoker and then began planning their Fall Production. A joint major production, with the Chapel Players of Saint Joseph's College for Women, John Patrick's comedy The Curious Savage, directed by Mr. John Clifford, was received by a large and enthusiastic audience. Although a joint production had not been attempted by the Troupers for many years; this play, performed at Saint Joseph's College on November 11th and 12th, 1966, was an unqualified success. The play involved a realistic setting with both normal and abnormal characters and confusion over what normality is. It posed a unique challenge to both actors and stage crew, and under the superb direction of Mr. Clifford, the challenge was met.

Many Troupers then had the idea of presenting a "minor production" in the time between the Fall and Spring productions when the club, aside from organizational activity, is idle. The fruit of this idea was An Evening of Entertainment, presented on February 10th, 1967: a musical show in which Trouper Mike Yeong demonstrated his ability to provide an immensely enjoyable evening for anyone who likes to hear good songs well sung.

The Troupers, on April 14th, 15th, and 16th, in a change from modern and contemporary drama, presented Sophocles' Oedipus Rex, the classic play whose theme has been echoed in other plays through the centuries; but whose treatment has never been surpassed. The play was presented at Packer Collegiate Institute and was directed by Mr. John Clifford.

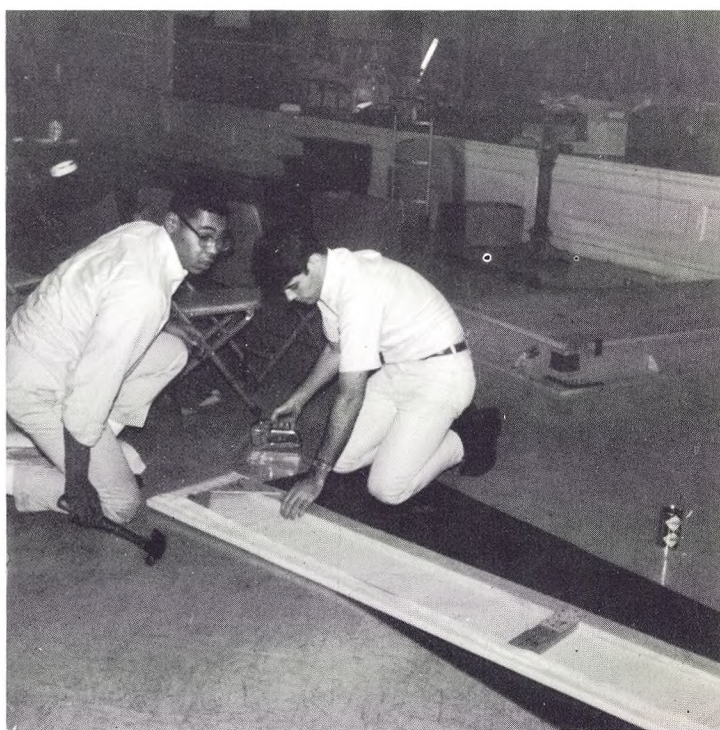

It has indeed been one of the most active years in Trouper history, embodying two major productions and one minor production and thanks to the dedicated efforts of faculty Moderator Brother Anthelm, Mr. Clifford and a large and interested membership, a very successful one.

Brother Anthelm, Moderator, looks for the light in Trouper's meeting.

Troupers Vic Barranca, Pete Bruno and Bill Farrell find the material interesting.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President Tom Cuite presides over a meeting of the "Six O'clock Parliament."

Tom Cuite goes over some last-minute business before an important meeting of the Council.

Much out of character with past Councils, this year's has moved along with unusual smoothness and a lack of "power" plays. A spirit that the Council should be truly impartial and fair and a desire to be effective led to a fairly smooth running Council.

The Council adopted a definite procedure for awarding the John F. Kennedy scholarship, which previously had been done haphazardly. Due to the construction in the lounge the Council was unable to sponsor its Annual Carnival and turned to outside support for the Scholarship Fund with chance books. It also held a Carnival Dance at the St. George on April 28th.

This year's Council has been able to bring about a change in the dress regulations. This situation was viewed by the Council as a test of its ability to effectively get things done which were of meaning to the whole student body. Its emphasis in the discussions regarding this were primarily that students should be mature enough and have the responsibility to dress properly. It was also held by the Council that jackets and ties are not directly related to academics, and there was no reason to actually require them.

The Council has also directed efforts to improve the cafeteria service in the lounge and to have beer served on campus at social functions.

This year's Student Council has been redirected and did not float around aimlessly, or at least not as much as past Councils. It demonstrated an ability to get things done, in a cooperative spirit with faculty committees and members, and the administration.

If nothing else, it has brought about a spirit of confidence and independence in the student government which will bolster its attitude in getting things done in the future.

S.A.C.

The Student Activities Council grew out of an awareness that the Student Council was becoming too big and unwieldy. Starting as a Committee of the Student Activities Council, the "Student Activities Committee" under Dan Clancy slowly took the form which we know today as the Student Activities Council. This year has been the first year that S.A.C. has been a Council in its own right. Under Chairman Arthur Schwerdt, S.A.C. has become an indispensable aspect of student government. Although independent councils, S.A.C. and the Student Council have worked together to promote an atmosphere in which the students' needs can best be met.

With a spirit of mutual respect these two bodies of student government have indicated that today's students at Saint Francis College are willing and, indeed, anxious to accept the responsibility which is demanded of the student in the modern institute of higher education.

Arthur Schwerdt instructs the incoming Freshmen in the art of "getting along" at the orientation meeting.

"I find it hard to believe gentlemen that you all have to leave the room at once" quips Chairman Schwerdt.

WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN

Scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities; citizenship and promise of future achievement! These are the impressive basis upon which students are selected for inclusion in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Each award winner receives a certificate of recognition, in addition to a write-up of his college record in the organization's annual publication. A more practical aspect of the honor involves a student placement Service which helps assist these students in making employment contacts and in supplying letters of recommendation to graduate schools.

This year's selections more closely achieved an ideal rarely obtained in recent years. In contrast to the usual heated struggle among Student Council members to reach some satisfactory agreement, this year saw a room of hushed and timid Council men unanimously and quickly accept the award committee's report to nominate nineteen distinguished Seniors for the coveted prize. Not one whimper or sigh was heard.

The secret lay in the maneuvering already accomplished within the closed doors of the committee room. The result was a well-balanced list of generally highly deserving young men. Of course, some compromises had to be conceded for the good of the corps and some members regretted the exclusion of one deserving fellow. However, democracy had done its best.

Concert time finally arrived and our hard work was about to pay off.

Glee Club

One of the most active and prominent clubs at St. Francis College is the Glee Club under the able and inspired direction of Prof. Nicholas A. Fiorenza. It is through this group and its participation in many civic and community functions that the public has become aware of St. Francis College and its fine young men. Ground-breaking ceremonies for our new Science Building afforded our friends and neighbors a fine opportunity to see and hear our Glee Club on May 3, 1966. Even the men of the "Dig We Must" group stopped their drilling in the street to watch and listen.

Hard work is the key to the success of the Glee Club. Rehearsals are held twice each week. One hour is spent in the individual rehearsal of each group, that is, First and Second Tenors, Baritones and Basses. The second rehearsal is a ninety minute general practice session putting together the efforts of the voices. It is hard work, and very tiresome to repeat over and over again the same song, particularly if it is one you do not enjoy. But the gay songs and the ones you do well add a note of fun and pleasure and make it all worthwhile.

Nick and the guys look forward each year to the Christmas concert in the Grand Ball Room of the St. George Hotel. Their religious songs and Christmas carols add a note of gaiety to the festivities. The members of the club and their able conductor are particularly happy when their efforts are rewarded with shouts of "More, more," and a standing ovation from their fellow students, faculty and friends.

The first concert of the 1967 season was held on the new campus of Molloy College in Rockville Center. This combined effort of both Glee Clubs was well received by a large and appreciative audience. A dance was held in the Anselma Room of Kellenberg Hall for the combined clubs and their friends in which many new friendships were formed.

April was a busy month for the Glee Club. A trip to Lakewood, New Jersey, on April 8, resulted in a most enjoyable concert with the young ladies of the Glee Club of Georgian Court College. The following week found our heroes back in New Jersey, South Orange to be exact; to sing a concert with the nurses from Seton Hall School of Nursing. You can be sure many bruised fingers needed nursing care that day. The final Spring concert was held at St. Francis on April 29, this time we were the hosts to the Glee Club of Mount St. Vincent. We hope the young ladies enjoyed the day as much as we did. Also we like to think this was our best concert of the season.

Each year the Glee Club of St. Francis College sings at the Charter Day ceremonies as well as at the induction of new members into the Duns Scotus Honor Society. It is with pride that the Glee Club takes part in honoring the College, as well as those students who worked so diligently to earn membership into Duns Scotus.

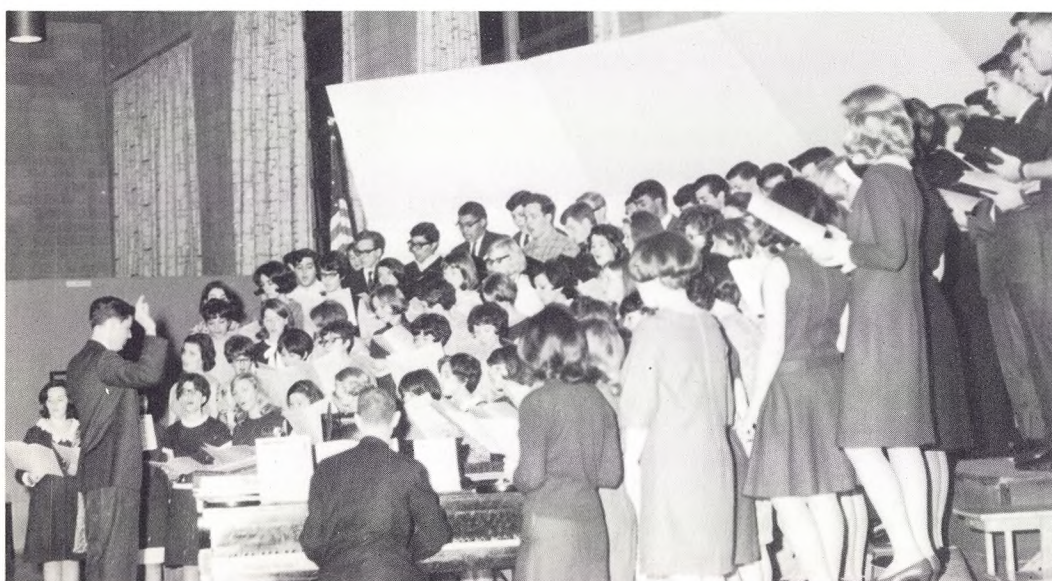

Such a busy schedule means much more than just singing. There are many details to be attended to, including wardrobe, arranging concert dates, transportation, advertising, printing tickets and programs. All these are handled by very capable officers. They and all the members of the Glee Club, as well as Prof. Fiorenza deserve a round of applause for a job well done. All the members are looking forward to the party at the Sky Room of the St. George Hotel at the end of the year. This is an evening of fun and pleasure and also a farewell to those who are soon to graduate and will no longer be members of the Glee Club of St. Francis College.

Prof. Fiorenza directs the Glee Club through one of their medley of songs at Molloy College.

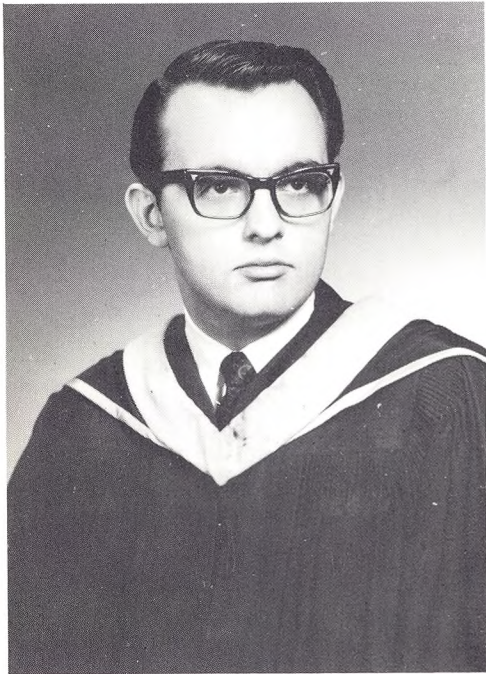

Nick goes through one of the tenor parts individually as the rest of the guys await their turn to sing.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

Under the leadership of its new President, Greg Dalton, the Sociology Club experienced one of its most satisfying years. During this period, the club sponsored various lectures and trips, which enabled its members to discuss and understand many of the social problems we are experiencing today. Much of the success of the club this year, can be attributed to the increased membership and also to the growing number of students who have expressed an interest in majoring in Sociology.

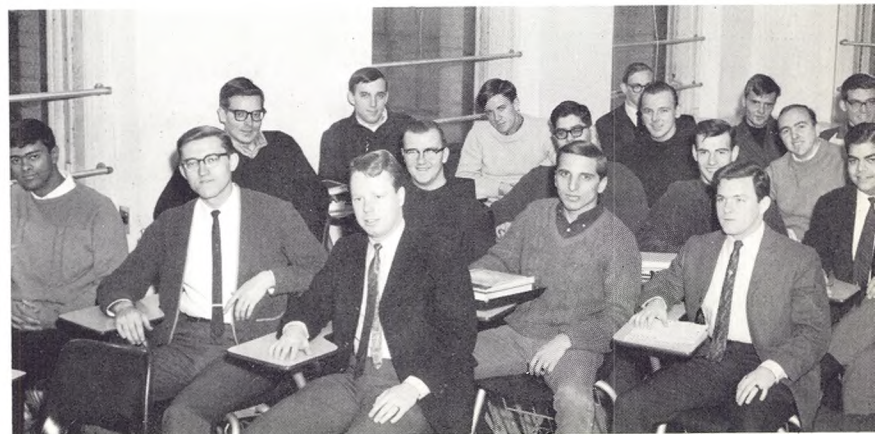

Early in the year, the club was privileged to have as its guest speaker, Mr. Flanagan whose job it is to work with unwed mothers. This is an evergrowing problem especially in New York City and his learned views and comments were appreciated by all. An unexpected highlight of the year was a presentation, by Dr. Clement, of his new thesis which is but one of his many contributions to the field of Sociology. The Sociology Department is indeed fortunate to have him at its head. The members were also informed of the problems of the migrant workers in a lecture and film presented by Fr. Rosal of the Theology Department. Fr. Rosal's past experience with these unfortunates greatly increased our background in this problem. Later in the year, the Sociology Club, in conjunction with the Psychology Club, sponsored a trip to one of Dr. Leary's bizarre performances in Greenwich Village. It was, without a doubt, a fascinating trip for all those who attended. Many members were later able to take advantage of a weekend of lectures and discussions, sponsored by Long Island University and many were able to obtain possible material for their Senior thesis.

In the future, the membership feels confident that the Sociology Club can grow not only in numbers but in importance and that it can reach a better understanding of the many social problems with which we are faced today.

MOTOR SPORTS CLUB

The new Motor Sports Club was unofficially organized last Spring by the sports car enthusiasts of the college. At present the club has only thirteen members to its credit, but it is up and coming. There are already three experienced Rally drivers in the group: John Esposito, Bob Petritch, and Steve Schwaroch, and this list will soon be lengthened.

For the interest of its members, the club will sponsor closed classes on Rally driving and navigation, racing, and driving Gymkhanas (high speed obstacle courses). Planned events include entering as a club and team in many rallies and gymkhanas and in the future sponsoring some of these events. It is expected that the club will hold a map rally for the student body in an effort to raise the funds necessary for the success of the club.

The purpose of the club is to provide members with recreational and educational activities in automotive sports, to provide technical information and aid to the mechanically minded and to promote safety and courtesy behind the wheel. The club has proven its success already, when Steve Schwaroch, driver and Tony Amodeo, navigator, won First Place trophies in the Pilgrim's Rally, representing St. Francis College.

Whether you drive a sports car or a hot-rod, a motorcycle or a power-mower, or even if you just hoof it around town, if you're interested in automobiles and motor sports, here's your chance to sign on with the winners.

Moderator Dr. Flynn introduces Professor Charles Rice and the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. at the "Blaine Amendment" debate.

ST. THOMAS MORE SOCIETY

The St. Thomas More Law Society has made a significant contribution to its members, its school, and its city this year by sponsoring a series of lectures on the "New York State Constitutional Convention." Two important decisions to be made at this year's Convention are about "Home Rule" and the elimination of the so-called "Blaine Amendment."

Professor Charles Rice of Fordham Law School and the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., participated in a debate on "Separation of Church and State-The Blaine Amendment." "Home Rule-Urban and Rural" was discussed by Mrs. Rosemary Gunning, Conservative candidate for City Council President, and the Hon. Edward J. Speno, Senator from Nassau County and a delegate to the Convention. The series ended with an informative lecture on "Constitutional Conventions-Their Meaning and Purpose" given by the Hon. John P. Lomenzo, Secretary of State for New York. The Chairman of the series was the Hon. Francis X. Altimari who is Judge for the District Court of Nassau County.

Other lectures were given to members of the Society on such subjects as Condemnation Proceedings and Contemporary Legal Education. This year's activities would not have been possible without the hard work and close cooperation of the Moderator Dr. James J. Flynn and the officers of the Society: William Quinlan-President, Thomas Dunne-Vice President, John Tully-Treasurer, and Stephen Hayden-Secretary.

The Society does not presume to give its members a legal education. Instead, it seeks to provide two all-important prerequisites to such an education; judgement and prudent intuition.

Hopeful aspirants to the legal profession listen attentively at a meeting.

Guest speaker Mr. S. Gaynor lectures the Society on condemnation proceedings in New York City.

The Psychology Club officers, Frank Gallinaro, Stephan Lukasik, Tom Bruce, Mike Hanley, and Fred Punzo discuss the progress of the club's experimental attempt to condition tropical fish.

Under the able leadership of Mr. Edward Fritzen and Mr. James Perrone, the Psychology Club, although only two years old, has established itself as one of the leading clubs of St. Francis College.

In its endeavor to familiarize its members with the ever changing and forward moving world of Psychology, the club has sponsored a variety of activities including field trips, guest speakers, films and experimental demonstrations. Among the more interesting trips was a visit to PSYCHODRAMA, which was originated by the well known associate of Sigmund Freud, Dr. Moreno.

As part of the expanding experimental program of the new Psychology Department of St. Francis, the Psychology Club was instrumental in obtaining aquatic apparatus for experimentation. This is the first attempt at animal conditioning at St. Francis.

Much of the success of the club must be attributed to the efforts of its President, Frank Gallinaro; Vice President, Tom Bruce; Treasurer, Fred Punzo and its thirty active members.

Club members Norman Gunderson, Tom Bruce, Frank Gallinaro, and Paul Hague conduct an informal discussion with their moderator, Mr. Perrone.

MATH CLUB

"Is it true this will really make my wash whiter?", exclaims Kevin Buck, a prominent member of the club.

The Math Club enjoyed a prosperous year under the leadership of President William Geigerrich, Vice President Raymond Feeney, Treasurer Robert Haas and Secretary Richard Marino. The meetings on Fridays were generally geared towards the underclassmen in introducing them to the realm of Mathematics. Of particular interest were various films which illustrated the broad application of Mathematics. Under the guidance of Brother Leo Quinn, O.S.F., the upperclassmen met each week in preparation for the Graduate Record Examinations.

The Annual Career Night proved to be one of the most successful activities of the year. Of special interest were the various aspects of computer science that were presented by the guest speakers. An informative talk on the teaching profession was also given by a recent St. Francis graduate, Ken Duggan.

Also highlighting this year's activities was a trip to IBM and an Annual Forum with St. Joseph's College.

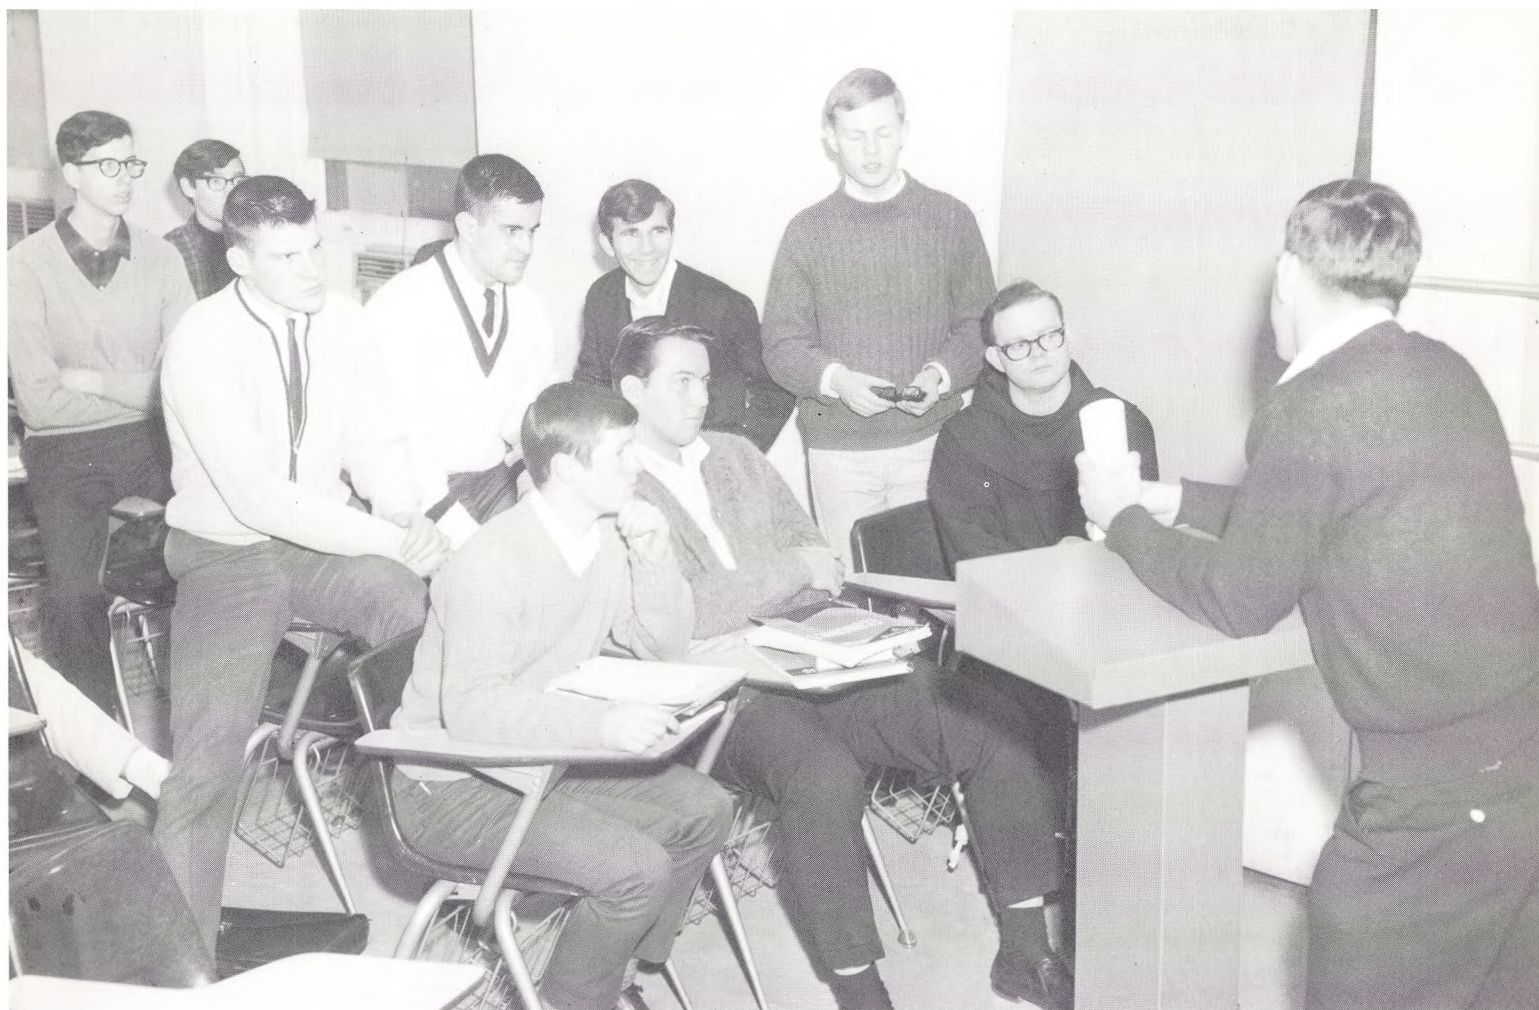

The Math Club officers, Ray Feeney, Bill Geigerrich, Bob Haas, John Wetzel, and Richy Marino, tinker with the tools of the trade.

Brother Leo demonstrates how the answer to this problem is intrinsically obvious.

SAILING CLUB

Lecturer . . . Joe Mulhern, Brother Armel, Kevin Holland, John Nash, Terry Ellison, and Ron Eishaug.

This year's thirty-two member sailing club, under the leadership of President Joe Mulhern and Vice President Brother Armel, has reorganized itself about the nucleus of a shorter, better planned season.

The loss of the club's old moderator, Brother Lewis Cunningham, was a serious setback last fall. He has been succeeded however, by Brother Blaise Dumas, Dean of Students. It has been smooth sailing ever since.

At the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Sailing Association's scheduling meeting in February, St.

Francis committed itself to ten meets in the Spring and Fall seasons. All of these meets will be held in the New York area. The reasons for this short season and the proximity of all the sailing locations are to allow more time to be devoted to the club's non-competitive activities.

Almost all of the non-competitive sailing is conducted at Centerport, Long Island, where a Pennant Class sailboat and a number of small sailing prams are available for the members' use.

The membership meets to plan their trip to the Naval Medical Research Center.

SCIENCE CLUB

The primary goal of the Science Club is to satisfy the scientific and technical interests of science majors while at the same time contributing somewhat to their education. The organization this year has added an exceedingly important goal—that of attempting to attract great numbers of underclassmen to its ranks. From all reasonable estimates they have been fairly successful. The officers have attributed this impetus in interest to the wide variety of activities offered this year.

Keeping with tradition, the organization again had a success in its sale of lab coats and dissecting kits to frosh science students. The annual Christmas Party was the highlight of the Fall semester and was deemed a "high-flying success". Also included in the Fall semester was a film "The Dynamics of Phagocytosis" and an exceptionally interesting lecture on "Marine Toxins" by Dr. J. Burke, the club's moderator. The Spring semester got off to a rousing start with a captivating lecture on "The Origin of Continents and Ocean Basins" by Dr. Robert Dietz, internationally renowned oceanographer and marine geologist. The attendance at this lecture set a new record for the organization's lecture series. The Schlitz Brewery trip was extremely satiating and marked the beginning of the club's excursions. The highlight of the year took place on March 15. At this time the organization, under the direction of President Brian A. Carey and Dr. J. J. Martorano, journeyed to the Naval Medical Research Center at Johnsville, Pa. The members viewed and heard explanations on many current experiments in psychology, biochemistry and physiology. The world famous human centrifuge was the item which drew the most interest and attention.

It is through these activities that the officers hope that they have created a number of properly motivated people to carry on and augment the activities of this year and future years.

The organizations officers: Frank Caccavo, Roger Rodriguez, Brian Carey, Dr. John Burke, Anthony Faga, Steve Korolczuk, Leon Jackson, Paul Lorenzo, and Richard Bradley.

The Business Club enjoyed another busy year. Meetings featuring speakers from Marsh and McLenna, the Internal Revenue Service and Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. were well attended by the members.

The club was also influential in organizing the Intercollegiate Accounting Society this past year. An Accounting Conference was held in the spring at which different topics current in accounting thought were discussed.

In early May, the club held its annual dance at a prominent New York hotel.

YOUNG CHRISTIAN STUDENTS

Father Berrigan as he lectured to a packed Room 706 on the hope of poverty and peace in the Church.

In this period between the death of God and the birth of Man, the values of Christianity have not been thrown to the wind—rather, concerned laymen have finally begun to try to examine the values which have lain dormant for nearly two thousand years of Christianity. A basic uniqueness in Christianity is the doctrine of the Incarnation, a shattering of the cleavage between God and creation. A sense of failure and despair is growing since religion has failed to be incarnate with the world. Because of this failure, the nations of the world continue to melt their plowshares into swords.

The Y.C.S. has tried this year to come to an awareness of what it means to be young, to be a Christian, and to be a student. The meanings of these words are of prime importance to us, since they form an ideogrammatical picture of what we at St. Francis are, hope to be, or pretend to be. We admit that we have failed to find an answer and probably never shall.

They've only started partial explorations at the most. They have come to an awareness that the Mystical Body of Christ is not a robot and that each part of the Body is alive with its own awareness. And perhaps their further activities will gradually pull the Mystical Body from its present seige of epilepsy.

The highlight of Y.C.S. activities this year was the appearance of Father Berrigan, S.J., speaking on "Poverty and Peace." Besides being just two virtues listed in the catechism, poverty and peace are more importantly a new avenue for incarnating Christ in the world.

FRANCISCAN

Mr. Clifford contemplates Marty Taschdjian's remarks as Bob Jones, Ted Timmins, and Jim Palmer display varying degrees of interest.

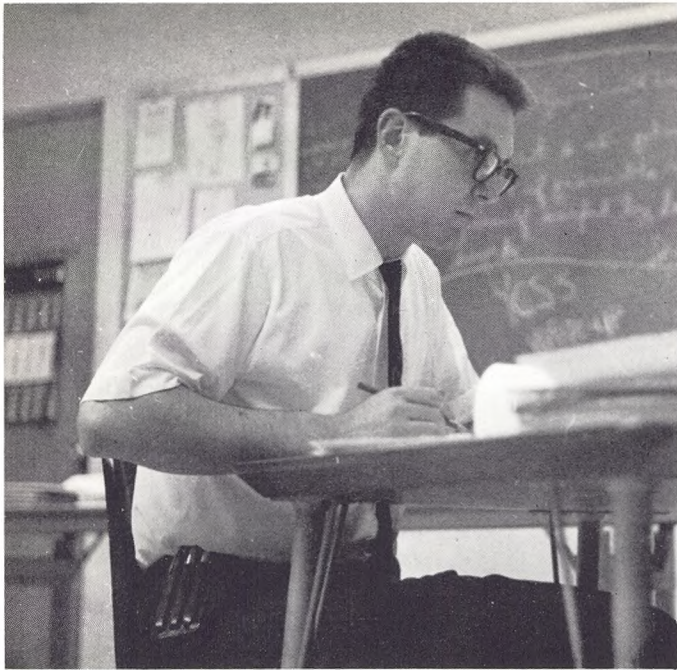

The 1967 Franciscan Staff, like the 1967 automobile, made its first appearance in 1966. When the new auto makes its appearance, it has its picture taken; when the new staff makes its appearance, it takes pictures. Even before the previous staff clears out it seems that good old Room 500 (home of the Red Baron, Batman, various folk festivals and athletic events) has become an extension of Lorstan Studios complete with lights, camera, photographer and confusion. The Seniors soon-to-be come trooping dutifully through, filling out forms, posing and complaining. This is only the beginning of a long list of assignments which the staff must complete to enable you, dear reader, to hold the book you are now holding.

Simply attempting to list such items as photography, artwork, write-ups, layouts, advertising, scheduling conferences with photographers and printers, does not begin to tell of the enormous amount of individual effort expended by the members of the staff. Like most other college activities the only rewards garnered by the Franciscan Staff are the satisfaction of a job well-done and the hope that many will respond with pleasure at the result and appreciation for the effort.

As with any successful organization there will be found a successful leader, so too with the 1967 Franciscan. If any one person is to be singled out as the guiding force and spirit of this book, it is James Palmer, the Editor-in-Chief. With quiet determination and remarkable equanimity he assumed control of this publication and pointed the way for the rest of the staff. Through his example of hard work and good humor in the face of many frustrations, he made it a privilege to have had a part in creating this book.

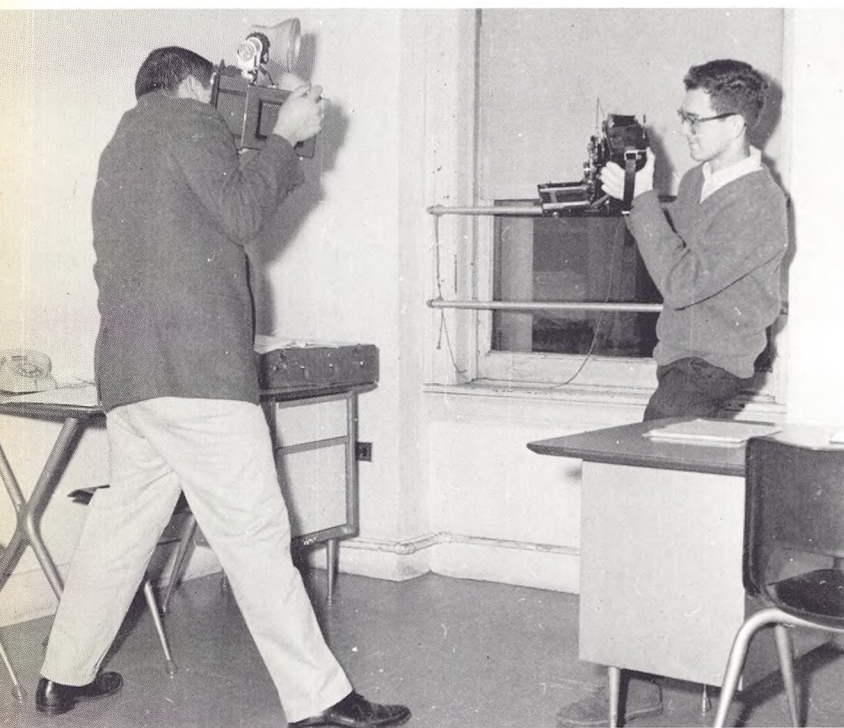

This copy is not designed as a quick, capsule history of the work accomplished in Room 500 this year. If any staff member has trouble recalling that effort, let him leaf through the other pages of the 1967 Franciscan—and be proud.

Flying Club

In the flying club the students of St. Francis College have the unique opportunity of enjoying the thrill and excitement of flight. The club is under the direction of Brother Michael who is himself a veteran pilot. The course begins with an extensive ground training program during which all the basics of flying are learned. After ground training, the club members are divided into two groups of three men each, one group going up in the Fall and the other in the Spring. In six half-hour lessons the club members put what they have learned in ground school into practice. By the end of the sixth lesson the students have become quite proficient in such basic maneuvers as taxiing, takeoffs, turns, climbs, glides and landings. This year the club was flying out of Deer Park Airport on Long Island in a brand new Cessna 175.

The club is a tremendous opportunity for anyone interested in flying and well worth the time of any student.

LATIN AMERICAN SOCIETY

Luis Rodriguez and James Darcey present a plaque to Dr. Crowley, Head of the Latin American Studies Department, in the presence of Dr. Charles Griffin of Vassar College.

Travelling provides a means by which man can expand his horizons. Each summer members of the Latin American Society take advantage of this process. The club's summer projects for 1966 presented an ambitious two-front operation, seeing five students journeying to Bogota, Colombia, while four others journeyed to Olancho Province, Honduras.

Fabian De Jesus, Agustin Mas, Louis Dinnella, George Charney, and Joseph Campanaro formed the first of these two campaigns. For three months they were able to apply textbook concepts to real life situations, sometimes succeeding, other times failing. To be introduced to an alien culture, to live with the rich and work with the poor, to comprehend a country's conflicts, problems and anxieties: these are things which none of them will ever forget. Assigned to a number of different projects, they got involved in things most students have only read about.

The second group travelled to Honduras at the request of Bishop Nicholas D'Antonio. In Olancho, the foursome quickly divided its attention between the towns of Catacamas and Juticalpa. Jim Darcy and Geoff Kennedy taught English at different schools, while Thomas Downes worked in a community development project and Luis Rodriguez taught philosophy.

Upon leaving Olancho, the four separated and branched out through Central America, Mexico, Panama and Colombia, each one accumulating many cherished memories and experiences.

At the same time, the director of the Latin American Studies Department, Dr. Florence Crowley, busied himself in a study project in Chile with other North American professors.

These projects are now past history for the small but dynamic L.A.S. Each summer brings new opportunities and challenges for its members. Established as the co-curricular activity of the Latin American Studies Program, L.A.S. attempts to relate the academic studies of Latin America with the actual realities of a specific situation, as well as get a unique understanding of other people as they are. Projects Colombia and Honduras '66 have helped to maintain the Latin American Society's past high level of achievement.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

President Tom Crotty presents his credentials.

The meaning of who we are, and the place in which we stand in time, may be likened to some symbol imprinted in the palimpsest of history. Initially, the character of our own signature seems to bear scant resemblance to the earlier layers of the scroll, to the brooding mythological accounts of man beneath his primordial skies, but written into the embroidery of this human past is a continuum of experience unmistakably present—the movement of dialogue in its efforts to reveal the logos, the reason of reality.

It is this primary speech which we must attend to in the brief space allotted to us. For it is not the accidental givens of our age, the suspect politics and technologies which define man, but rather, the movements of dialogue in which he takes his stand. It is the experience of mind which is our human heritage more than our accumulated proficiencies by which we live as efficient animals and it is reason that gives us our name, man.

What has been effected by the efforts of Mr. Abbott (our faculty Moderator) and Mr. Crotty (our club President), what has united such diverse subject presentations as: The Jewish World of Franz Kafka, The 19th Century Notion of American Experience, William Blake and The Aesthetics of the Avant-Garde (by Messrs. Udoff, Galgan, Blackley and Kirby, respectively) has been the dialogue in ideas which is the meaning of Western Man. To translate this meaning, the Philosophy Club has used as its means the unreservedly public character of speech, the end of which has been freedom from opinion and the attainment of truth.

ASSOCIATION OF EVENING STUDENTS

Nocturnal refueling keeps morale high at Association meetings.

The Association of Evening Students was formed to promote the interest of evening students in the extracurricular activities of the college. Since its beginning eight years ago, it has grown from an idea to an organization with the largest membership in the college.

The Association offers the evening student an opportunity to socialize with his fellow students and faculty.

Moonlighting officers got together for a picture. They are: Walter Lean-Secretary, Paul Daly-President, James Stenson-Vice President, Robert F. Reiners-Treasurer, and Ralph Lancelotti-Recording Secretary.

In the year 1906, two important events occurred on the American scene, Theodore Roosevelt received the Nobel Peace Prize, and Pi Alpha Fraternity was formed. Since then, it has gained a reputation for loyalty and friendship, and has become a traditional mainstay of college spirit and the bulwark of Franciscanism.

The academic year 1966-1967 marked a rejuvenated Pi Alpha, a fraternity which fulfilled to an eminent degree its noble aims. That is, to inspire a profound and prevailing religiosity among its members, to further literary and aesthetic sense, and to provide a copious social calendar. These were the tasks ably undertaken by a zealous executive board in early September. Rallying around their assiduous Archon, Bill Quinlan, and their new moderator, Mr. Robert Abbott, brother worked with brother to mold an active, praiseworthy organization.

It is twice a year that a somewhat painful period comes, in which pledges are warmly greeted by their future brothers. In keeping with a more ameliorated pledging program, Pi Alpha's aim of quality and not quantity was again realized with the reception of seven new brothers in the fall semester.

The men of the black and gold, in keeping with their tradition for maintaining a galaxy of worthy members, also have a high reputation for social functions. Among these social events was the 60th Annual Pi Alpha Ball, at the Hotel Commodore. This Ball symbolized the pinnacle of "social" service to both the brothers and the student body.

To add to an already propitious year, the men of the black and gold, being true to form, obtained, finished, and furnished their new fraternity house on Pierrepont Street. Those who have visited the house have remarked on the fine quality and good taste used in decorating and furnishing the house. This is effective proof of the industry and cooperation that has traditionally characterized Pi Alpha.

Pi Alpha is not an ephemeral organization. It is one which grows with the years, and is composed of athletic, studious, and socially-minded men. These men will not cease to do their utmost for the honor of Pi Alpha, no matter what fields of endeavor they may enter upon graduation.

The underlying factor of Pi Alpha is its spirit. This spirit is, has been, and will continue to be, an integral part of the traditional spirit of Saint Francis College. Through the sixty years of its existence, Pi Alpha has become the essence of the repeated phrase, "For God, country, and Saint Francis."

Frat brother or not this beer is mine, says John Sullivan.

The individuals you see on these pages are brothers of the oldest national fraternity on campus. In its forty-four year history, the fraternity has consistently strengthened its spirit, which emphasizes the fact that the most well-rounded individual is the one who participates totally. When these individual latent talents have become manifested in fraternal spirit, they have made Phi Rho Pi, in the words of Tom Cuite, Student Council President, "the most active fraternity on campus."

In accordance with this spirit, Phi Rho Pi has engaged in many traditional and progressive activities in the past academic year. On September 23, Phi Rho Pi sponsored its annual pre-school blast at the Cotillion Terrace. It was attended by well over 700 guests and proved to be the highlight of the year, both financially and socially. In addition, Phi Rho Pi faculty night was held on November 11. It turned out to be a successful meeting of minds and strengthened faculty-student relationships. Another November event was the acceptance of five new brothers, increasing the total membership of the "Black and Gold" to twenty-seven. In December, the fraternity sponsored its annual Christmas toy drive, collecting a sizeable amount of old and new toys for the orphans of the Monserratti mission of Brooklyn. At the Christmas assembly Phi Rho Pi made its annual collection for the missions, run by Franciscan Alumni throughout the world. Phi Rho Pi also led the intra-fraternity blood drive by contributing fifteen pints of blood for which they were honored at the Christmas assembly by retaining the trophy for the second consecutive year.

Besides these activities, Phi Rho Pi is continually exploring new avenues in which to further participate in the Franciscan Spirit of the College. The fraternity hopes it will continue the success of its previous years under the leadership of Praetor Daniel Schablein and moderator Brother Theodore.

Omega Delta Chi Fraternity is now enjoying its seventh year of social brotherhood here at Saint Francis College. Founded in 1960 by ten Saint Francis College men, Omega is basically a social fraternity. It has in the past and will continue in the future to offer to each of its brothers both fraternal friendship and social life throughout their academic years.

Since Omega is an adjunct organization of Saint Francis, it has always striven to meet its obligations to the College. Never overextending its initial goal, Omega has continued to support the college's functions whether they be in the form of rallies, athletics, dances, drives, or the annual carnival.

The solidarity which the brothers feel can be best signified by the fraternity emblem, the four-part triangle. The triangle is the fraternity. The small triangles represent the fraternity brothers. In the symbol, the small triangles are held together by the outer triangle. In life, the fraternity binds the brothers together in an unbreakable bond. Each of the small triangles are separate and complete entities; in like manner, every brother remains an individual.

Their history, though short, has provided Omega with an alumni organization which has given the brothers a spirit of Franciscan fellowship which is ever-present and which the future can only enhance.

Since its founding in May, 1964, the Zeta Iota Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi has distinguished itself at Saint Francis College. Zeta Iota combines its business activities with an active social calendar.

During the year, the fraternity held a number of luncheons at The Fisherman's Lounge. The guest speaker at the February luncheon was Robert Tack, Manager of the Brooklyn Branch of I.B.M. These meetings were both interesting and informative and provided the brothers with some insight into the business world.

Zeta Iota provided a number of services to the college throughout the year. Some brothers performed clerical work for the various offices on campus. At the beginning of the year, the brothers helped conduct the orientation program for Freshman Day students.

The Alumni Association was also assisted by the Zeta Iota brotherhood, who conducted a Phon-A-Thon in order to personally invite various Alumni of the College to the annual dinner party at the International Hotel. The success of this undertaking was reflected in the number of people who turned out for this affair.

On the social level, the chapter held a dance at the Cotillion Terrace, which was both a social and financial success. The brothers also involved themselves in the Annual Inter-Chapter Touch Football Series. Saint Francis defeated St. John's and Fordham to win the District Championship and claim the trophy.

On December 17, the Annual Formal was held at the Stardust Manor in Brooklyn. This event was the high point of the year's social calendar.

The brothers of Zeta Iota were proud to have as their newest brother, Professor James Kohlerman, who was formally inducted as an honorary member of Alpha Kappa Psi in April. Professor Kohlerman has shown a great deal of interest and concern for the fraternity by attending all the affairs which the Brothers have sponsored in the past few years.

The brothers joined with other Chapters in the bi-annual regional convention held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. This affair proved to be profitable both socially and educationally.

Alpha Phi Delta-Beta Sigma Chapter celebrated its sixth anniversary at Saint Francis this year.

An important aim of Alpha Phi Delta is to foster all that is good and praiseworthy in Italian culture. In line with this aim, and in affiliation with the McGarry library, the chapter sponsors and arranges exhibits in the library on a monthly basis. Although these usually deal with figures of Italian extraction, other notable men have been featured.

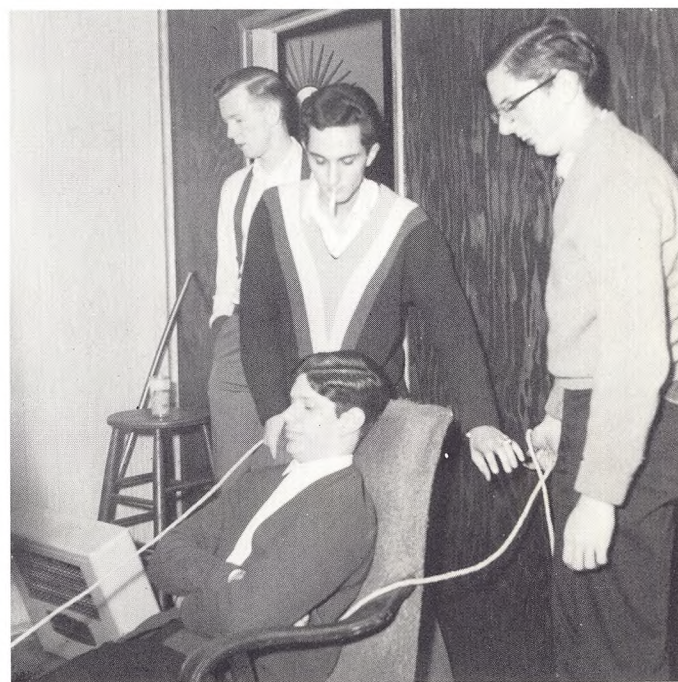

Also in line with this aim, the chapter took an active part in this year's Columbus Day Parade and made a substantial contribution to the Florentine Restoration Fund.

Although not primarily social in nature, Alpha Phi Delta sponsors a yearly dance. As in the past, the dance was a great success.

The chapter is also extremely active in National Fraternity affairs. At this year's National Convention, Beta Sigma was a candidate for the Most Outstanding Chapter Award. Brother Camillus Casey, Moderator of Beta Sigma, was given an award for outstanding service at an honorary dinner held in his behalf. All past amendments to the National Fraternity's Constitution were compiled by the chapter for use at the 1967 National Convention.

Presently, the chapter is sponsoring a Third District Newsletter, and will conduct a Third District Communion Dinner in February.

Eleven new brothers have been inducted within the past year as Beta Sigma continues to grow with Saint Francis College.

The St. Francis College chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, the national honor fraternity in economics, dates back to 1958. The fraternity's purpose is to foster interest in the field of economics, to enhance scholarly activity at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to publish articles by students of economics and young economists.

Over the past several years, the Eta chapter has been active in a number of ways. The most important activity, however, has been a continuing series of informal seminar meetings with outside speakers and faculty members. In recent meetings, for example, the chapter has discussed with Mr. Edward Regan, an economist with the New York Federal Reserve Bank, problems of this country's balance of payments; Prof. Casey, Head of the Department, spoke about the value of related disciplines in economic problem solving. Dr. Newman Giragosian of General Aniline and Film Corporation outlined the economic aspects of the development of chemical products.

In the past there have been seminars with sociologists, political scientists, brokers as well as with economists. This has had a double rationale: not only do these seminars provide the members with information and perspectives on contemporary economic problems, but they acquaint them with inter-disciplinary realities of concrete problems.

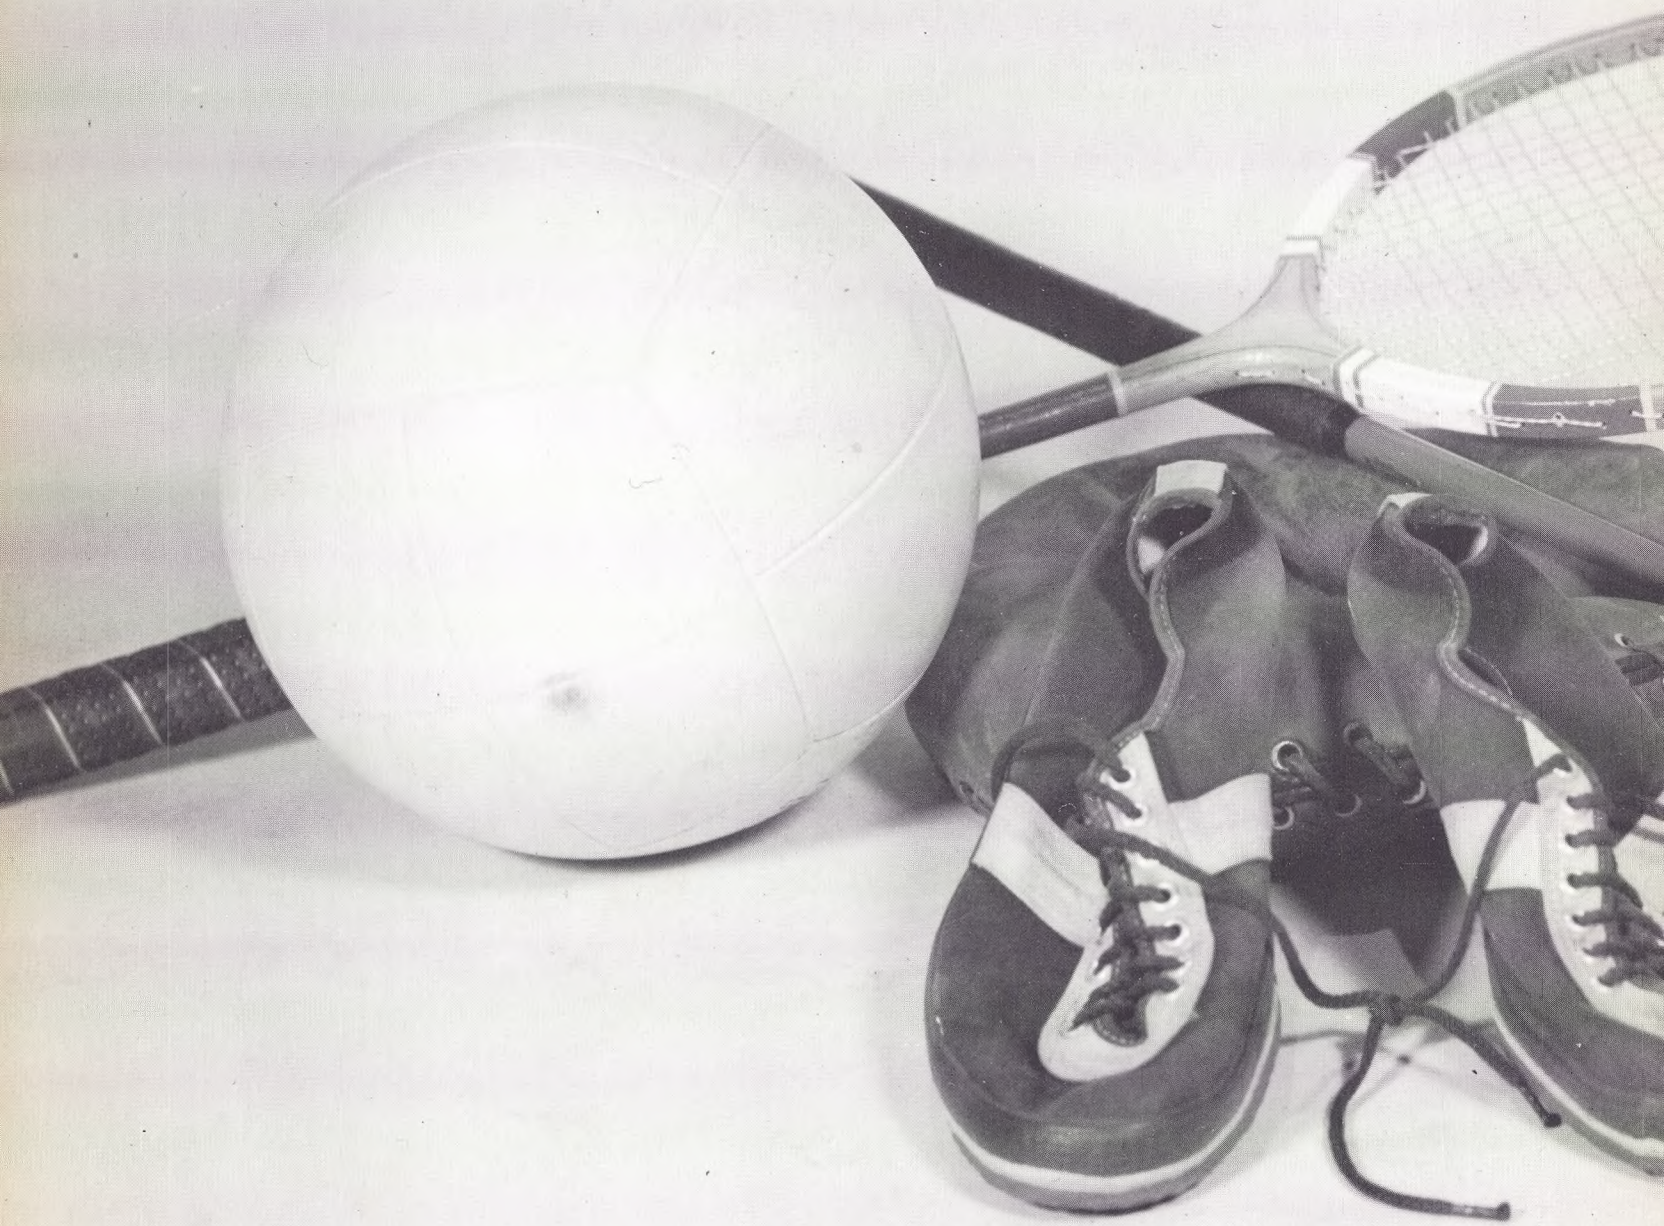

At present the membership totals about twenty. This is due to the scholastic requirements for admission; it also permits the meetings to function on a true seminary basis, under Prof. Joseph W. Ford, Moderator of the fraternity.

Phi Alpha Theta is the national honor society in history. Theta Nu Chapter was created in 1961 mainly through the efforts of the man who has been the Moderator ever since, Doctor James J. Flynn. The fraternity recognizes conspicuous achievement in the field of history on the part of the students. The college is served by the fraternity through such functions as the lecture this past semester on Thomas Jefferson by Doctor Saul Padover.

A number of the fraternity's members also attended the national convention of Phi Alpha Theta which was held during Christmas Week at the Hotel Americana.

SPORTS

WATER POLO

Coach Charley Schaem gives his team some last-minute instructions before sending them out to another tough game.

The talented protégées of Coach Charley Schaem continued their dominance in eastern collegiate water polo circles by capturing their second consecutive E.C.W.P.C. championship. The Terriers compiled a perfect 8-0 slate in league competition, and a 15-3 overall record. They encountered difficulty only in the West Point Collegiate Tournament, losing to Loyola of Chicago 8-5, and West Point 6-5, after resounding triumphs over the Air Force Academy, Cornell, Yale, and Indiana. The tankmen, however, came back to edge West Point 9-8 when it counted most for the league title.

As they have in the past, Captain Bill Harris, and Dennis Christy were the most prolific goal-makers. Harris rammed home 81 goals in eighteen games, while Christy out-finessed the rival goal-tenders for 86 tallies. This powerful duo was complemented by Joe Vohs' 40 goals. The practically impregnable defense was anchored by the Bill Russell of water polo, Stan Gasior. Stan was flanked by hustling Jim Thamm and Dom Tricarico. Coach Schaem, the old master, drew upon a bench of John Jacques, Myles Kellaher, Doug Schenk, Bob Bombara, Frank Schneller, and Steve Korolczuk to relieve the starters.

Special mention is due to big goalie Tom Walsh. Mr. Walsh stopped 73.2% of all shots taken against him, a nifty percentage in gaining All-Star recognition once again, along with Christy, Harris, and Gasior. Vohs made the second team.

The highlight of the season was the thrilling 9-8 triumph over Army. Christy, a swift and powerful swimmer, broke loose from the speedy Cadets for six of the biggest goals of his career. Harris turned playmaker and assisted on five of those goals.

The Water Polo Team will begin a 15 game schedule on Saturday, March 11th, at 7 P.M. when they will meet Brooklyn Poly in the latter's home pool. The Terriers will be trying to take their sixth championship in the 12 years they have participated in the conference. Coach Schaem has the entire squad returning from last year to buttress his title defense. The team's travels will take them to West Point, N.Y. for the West Point Invitational Tournament on May 5, 6, 7, and Boston to meet Harvard and M.I.T.

TERRIERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP!

The St. Francis College baseball team made quite an impressive showing in the spring season of 1966. They combined strong offensive power and great pitching in capturing their first championship in the Knickerbocker Conference and their first baseball title in sixty-four years. They did this the hard way by ripping through the conference with an 8-0 record. Overall, the Terriers were 10-2, topping Iona 11-4 and St. Peters 7-1; and losing to Seton Hall and St. John's by scores of 4-1 and 8-6.

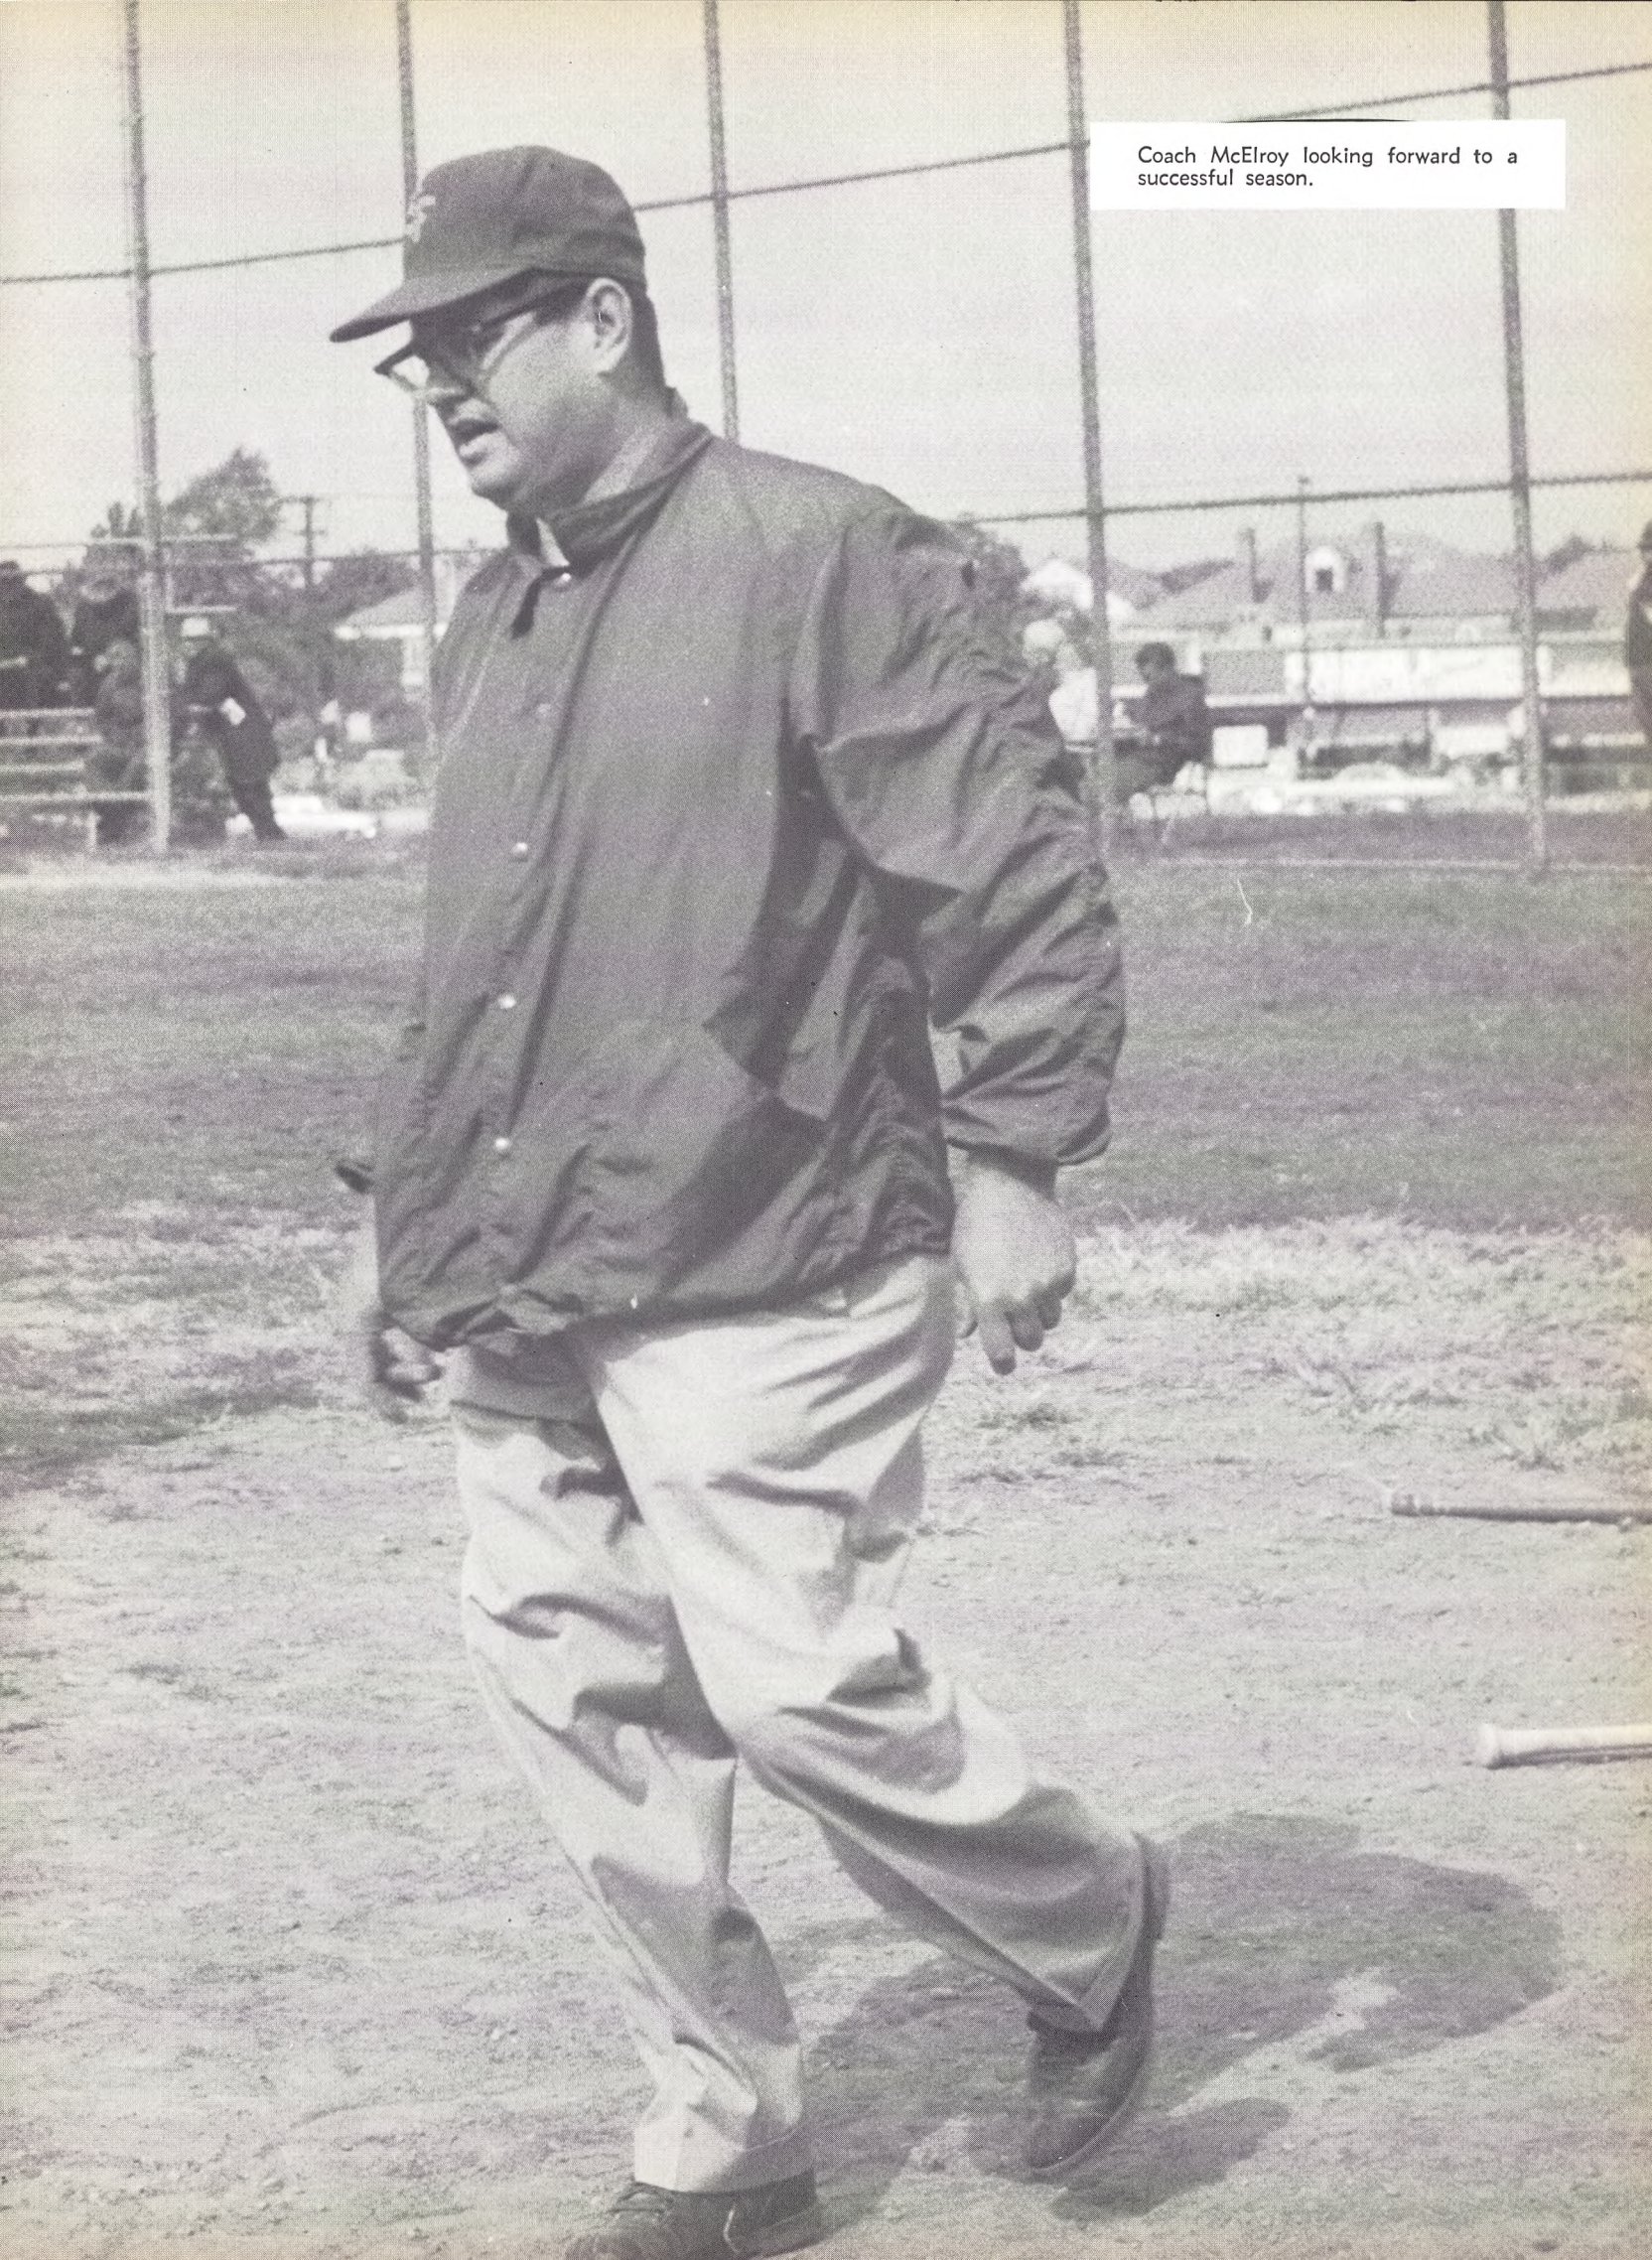

This year the novice varsity coach Jim McElroy has nine players returning from the springs championship team. It is basically a young team with only two seniors. Returning on this year's team are Pete Scarpati and Doug Smith who form the nucleus of a strong pitching staff and hard hitting juniors Bob Alvarez and Chuck Pergola give opposing pitchers plenty to worry about.

An already short schedule was cut even shorter when rain forced the postponement of the M.E.C.C.A. Tournament. The Terriers opened with a 4-2 loss to St. John's, then bounced back with victories over Iona, 8-6, and L.I.U., 7-5. The season ended with another loss to St. John's, this time by the score of 5-4.

Bob Alvarez aims for the fence again.

BASKETBALL

Well-deserved congratulations to the Basketball Team and its quick-witted coach, Dan Lynch, are in order. The winning season this year has given us two championships to boast of. In the MECCA League, we share the title with St. Peter's and in the newly-formed Metropolitan League, we hold the title with Manhattan and St. Peter's.

Our overall record was 14 wins and 8 losses. This, however, doesn't tell the whole story. The drama of court play was missed if one merely looked for statistics. It was a type of basketball which only the Terriers are capable of playing. "Desire + Ability + Know-how + Support = A Winner!" This was the formula given to us at the beginning of the season and it proved itself to be correct.

The whole team seemed to feel a new desire this year, a new determination to show that they were truly winners. Scoring records were broken by our ace scorers, Al Fisher and Gil Radday. They are both Seniors and will be missed next year, but with Juniors John McMahon, Mike Mahoney, Doug Smith and John Raftery returning, along with Sophomores Bob Christie, Bernie Donoghue, George Gillen, Tex Cummins and Ed Grant, plus a good Frosh Team, we should move into the undefeated ranks of our two conferences next year.

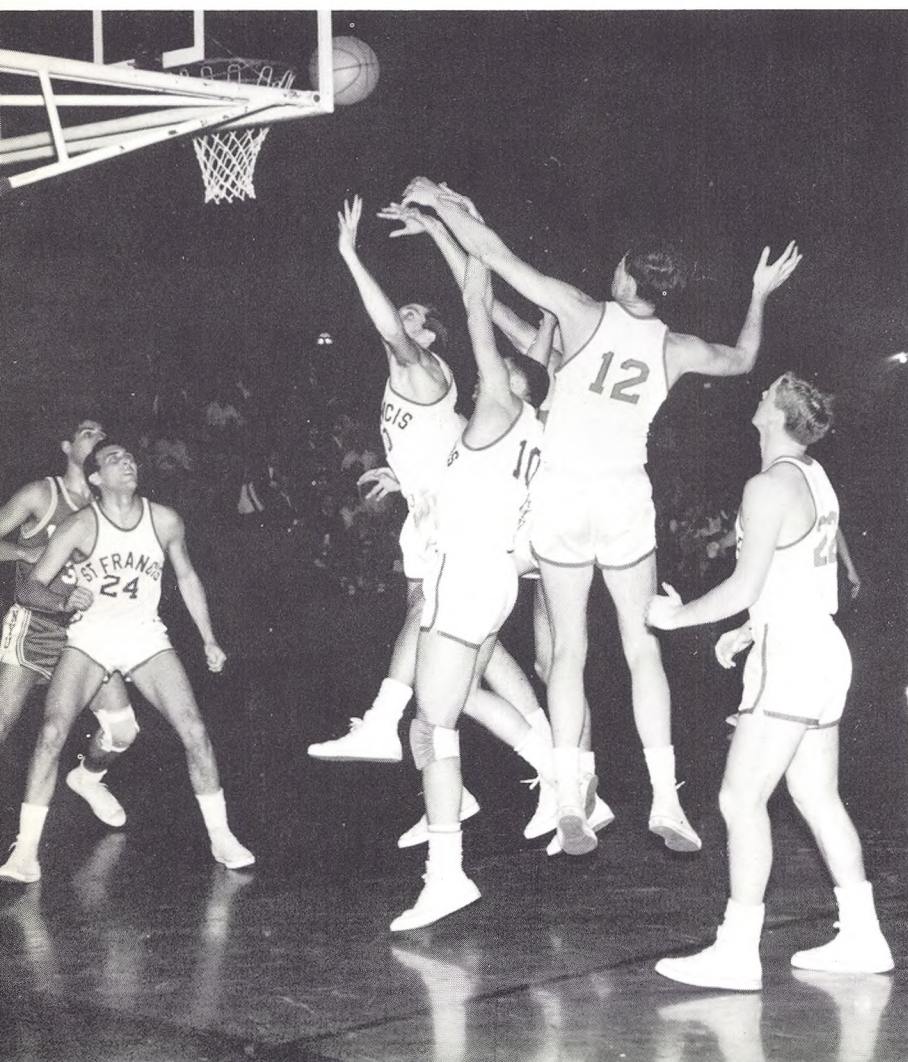

Al Fisher rises high for a deuce in the Armory.

Coach Dan Lynch exhorts the team.

Gilly Radday adds two more to his record-breaker against Siena.

John McMahon goes up for two as the rest of the team gives him a hand.

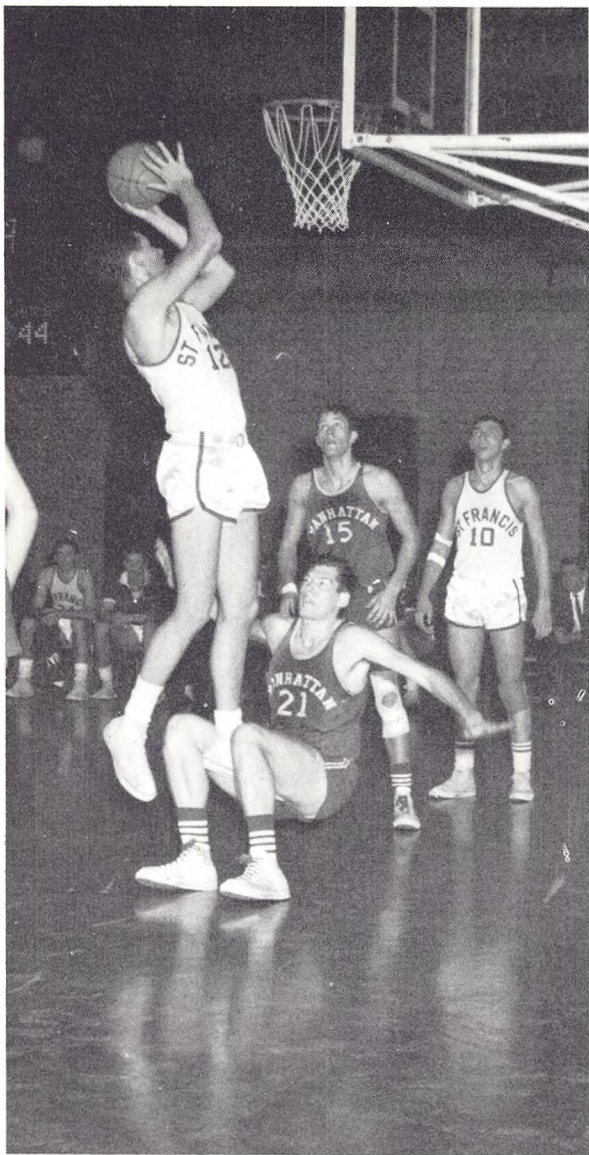

The "Know-how" of the team was expertly given to them by our more-than-able coach Dan Lynch. His ability to pick out the good points and the bad points proved to be a decisive ingredient in our formula for success.

This year, support can be mentioned with a boastful eye. The fans were great; streamers, whistles and cheers echoed gaily through the 69th Regiment Armory. Much publicity has been given to "student apathy" but it has been killed by the loyal fans and the team buried it along with their opponents.

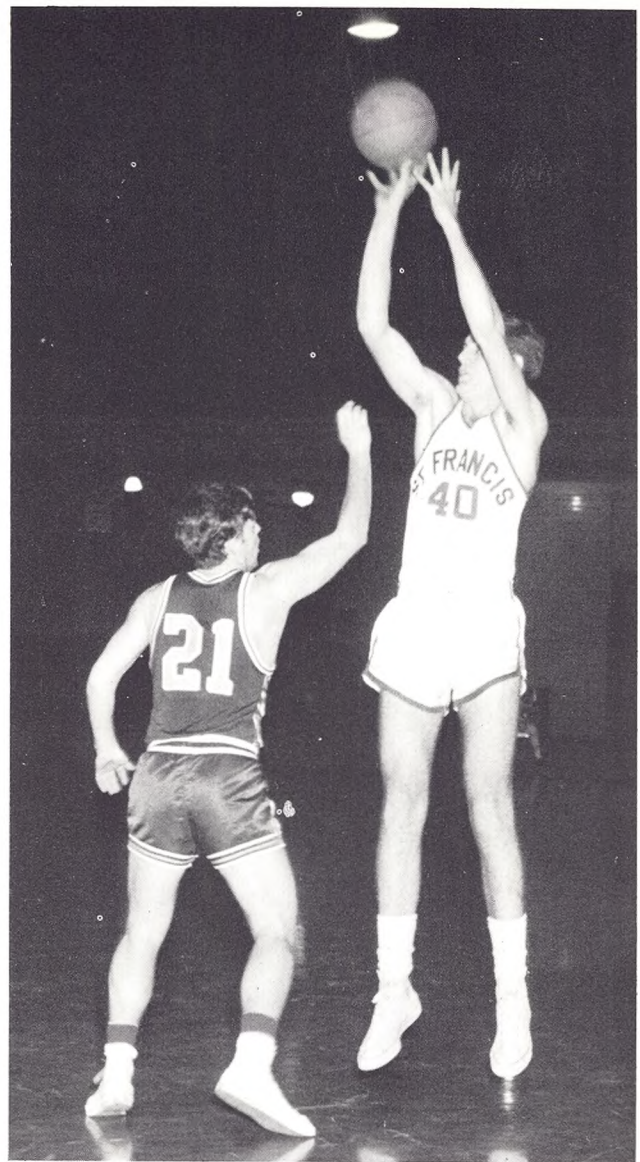

It was a very good year and although Al Fisher didn't reach the 1000 point mark, his career will not be forgotten. His wild performances caused many a grey hair and many a win. He was elected to become a member of the Jewish All-Americans this year and our congratulations accompany him to it. Gil Radday did break his 1000 point career mark, ending with a total of 1070 points. He averaged 33 points per game in his last eight games. This was the major factor in the recovery from the loss of Fisher, who was hurt in the Wagner game.

In that last eight game stretch, without Al Fisher, things did look bad. We lost to Wagner, recovered to beat Siena, only to lose to Le Moyne the following night. Then it happened! Radday went to work rebounding and scoring with a fury which has never been seen before. Doug Smith began to shoot, score, and then score some more. Mahoney was once again the mastermind behind our offensive attack and Bob Christie took over Fisher's starting position. John McMahon's passing off to Gil and his impressive defensive play proved to be too much for our opponents . . . we won the last five of our remaining six games.

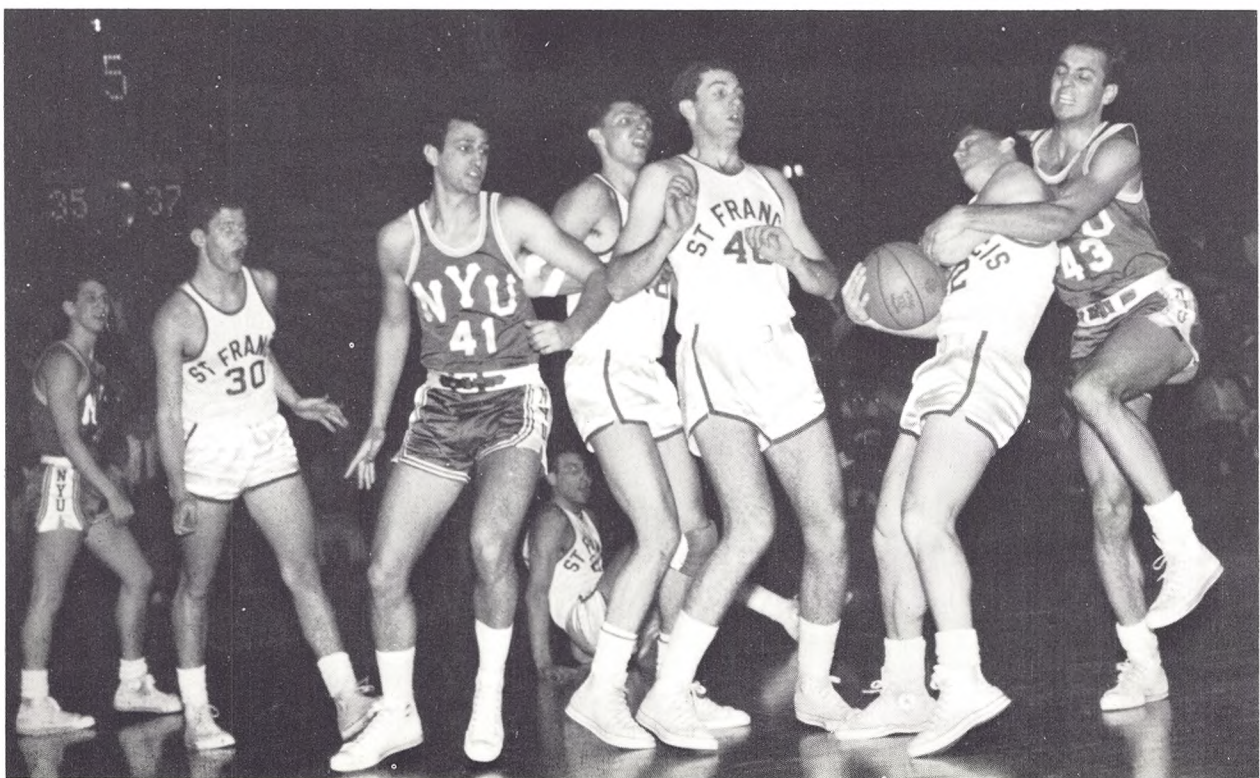

Once again, congratulations to the team, coach and fans for a job well done!

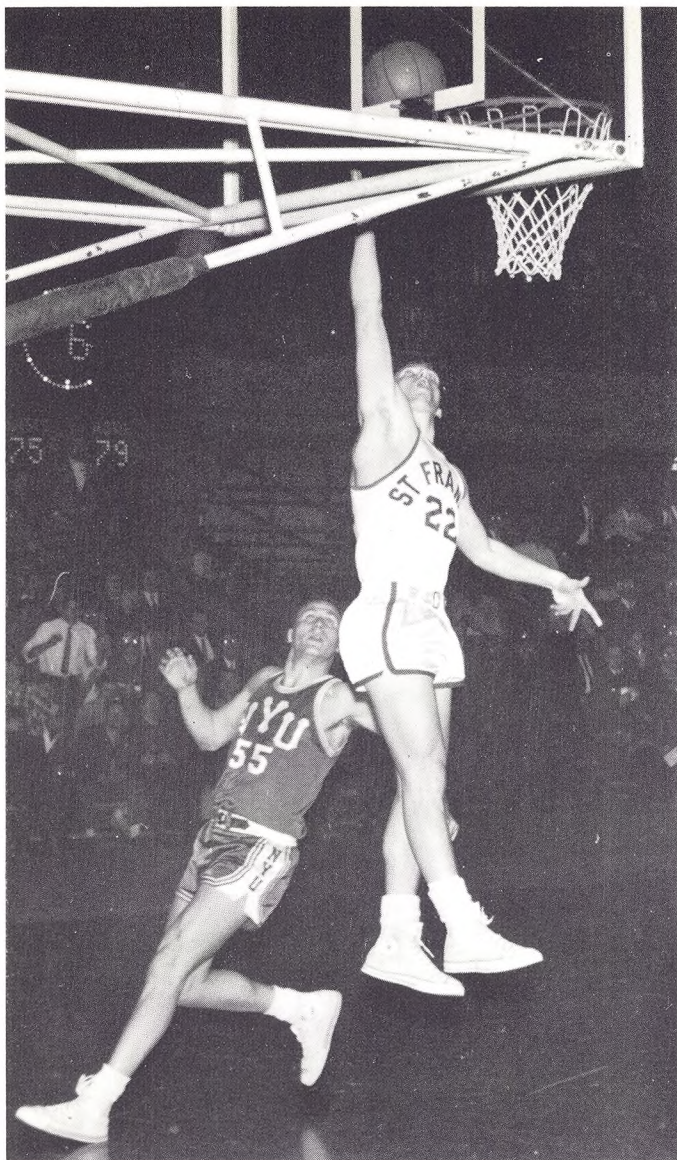

Radday gets a boost from obliiging Manhattan man.

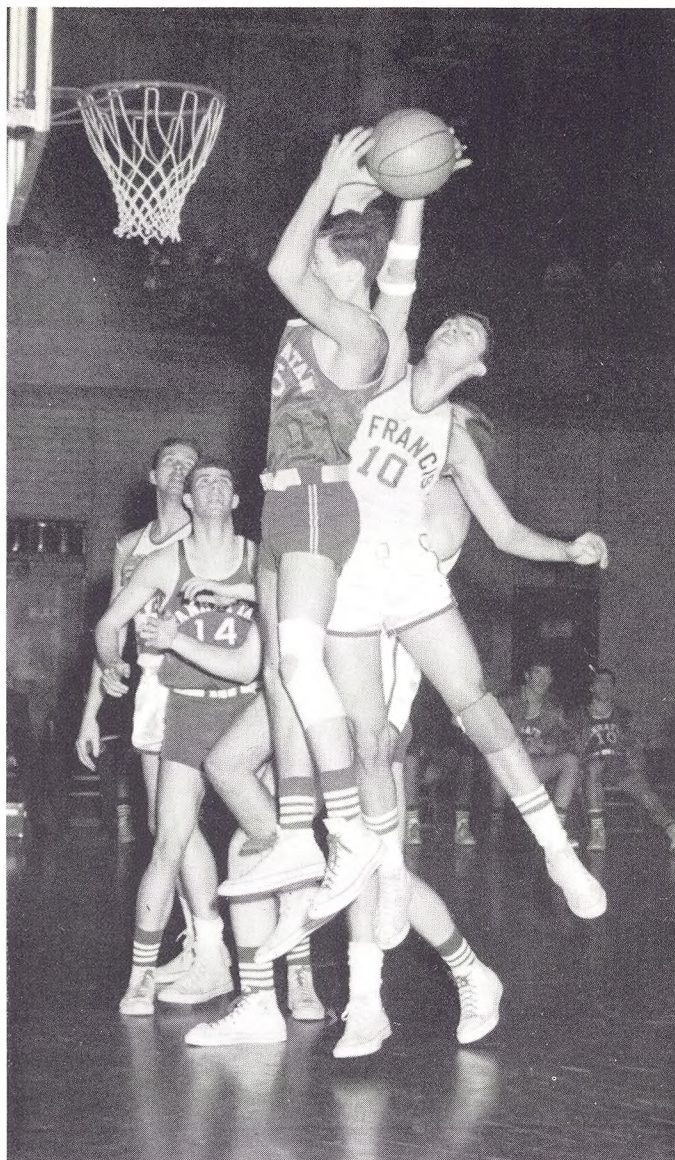

Big John McMahon overwhelms a somewhat smaller foe while Al Fisher looks on.

Doug Smith pops one in while in flight.

Radday shows the style that set a new scoring record.

John McMahon clears the boards against New York University.

RIFLE TEAM

The Four Dark Horsemen of the Apocalypse get together for an informal pose with their Moderator Ed Aquilone.

Despite many difficulties, the Rifle Team is looking forward to a successful season this year. Under the leadership of Captain Martin Taschdjian, the Varsity squad will meet teams from: Pace College, New York Community College, Fordham University, C. W. Post, Rutgers University, Steven's Institute of Technology, Cooper Union, and Brooklyn Poly (Eve.).

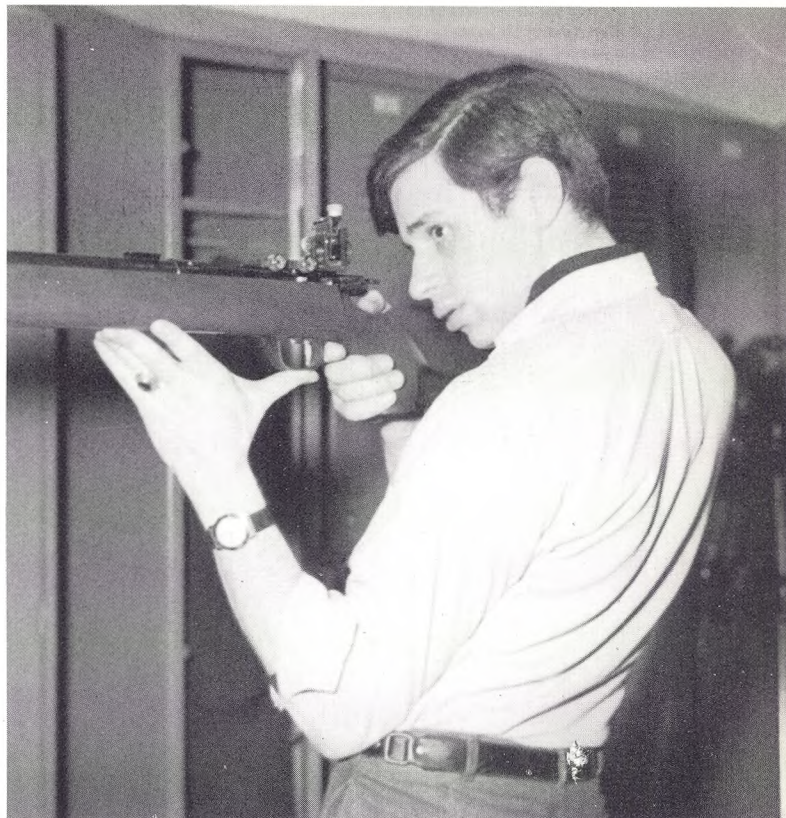

Due to the lack of facilities, the team was forced to schedule all its matches on the road.

To date the Varsity has a 1-2 record, with losses to Fordham University and Steven's Institute of Technology and a victory over Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey.

At the end of the year, the team will be losing its top scorers in Marty Taschdjian and Lou Juhasz. Bob Seeber, the President of the Rifle Club, will also be graduating. Returning to the Varsity next year will be Jerry Benes, John Esposito and John Conroy. Coming up from the club will be many capable shooters, such as Russ Hoffman and Ken Molnar who will ably fill the vacancies.

Lou Juhasz snaps in before a match.

Captain and high-scorer Marty Taschdjan shows his form.

Gerry Benes, the most improved shooter of the year, moves up to the firing line.

Manny Vivas demonstrates the "Look Ma, eyes closed" method of producing optimum scores.

BOWLING TEAM

Due to a perfect balance of experienced veterans and promising newcomers (plus a small bit of luck), the St. Francis bowlers presently find themselves in second place in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, one point behind Pace. The team has never been far from the number-one slot all year, and our men will not be content until they reach that lofty plateau. Their optimism is certainly justified since, from all points of view, this is the best team we have had in five years.

Statistics may make the picture a bit clearer. At this writing, the team has a 28 and 11 record with less than half the season to go. The team average is a very respectable 901, second only to Pace's 917; we likewise hold second-high team series in the league with a 2911. Individually, Bob Pagano, Charlie Parente, George Salico, rookie Dave McMullan and Captain Lou Juhasz all hold averages in the area of 185. Charlie and anchor-man John Gebbard have recently put together some impressive 640 series. Other team members include Larry Kelly, Mike Creed and Bob Huemmer, all of whom can be counted on to do the job when called upon.

No matter what the outcome of this year's action, next year's team should be just as much in contention, since only two members are graduating. But if the league continues to tighten up as it has in recent years, the Terriers will have to fight to stay in the top spot they have earned for themselves.

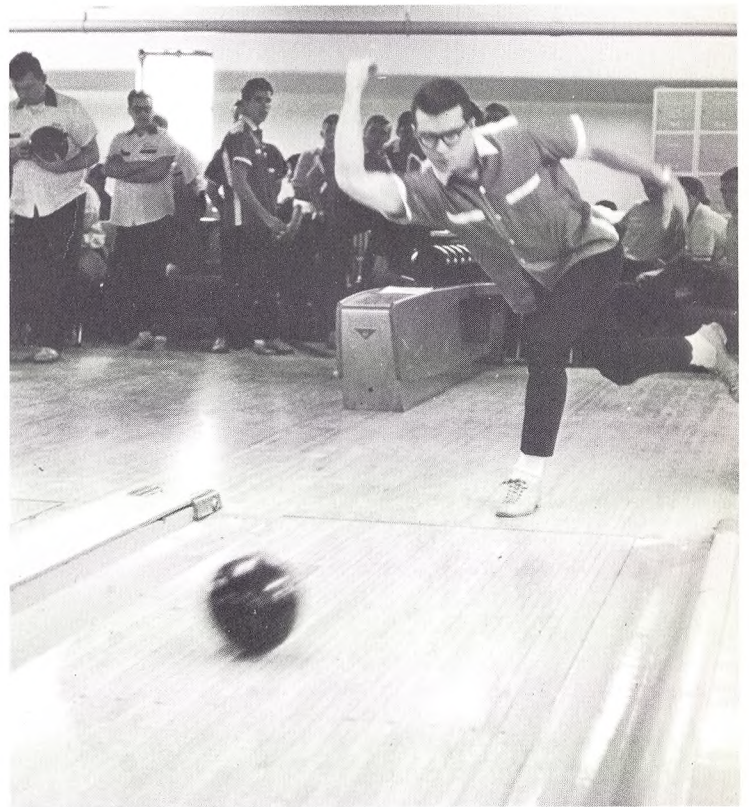

Competition and spirits run high as Capt. Lou Juhasz, Capt. J. Beck of N.Y.U., and George Salico check the score.

The team assembles for a group shot in a rare moment of inactivity at the lanes. They are: George Salico-Co-Capt., Lou Juhasz-Capt., Mike Creed, Chuck Parente, Bob Pagano, Dave McMullan, John Gebhard, and Bob Hummer.

Lou Juhasz demonstrates winning form with a ball.

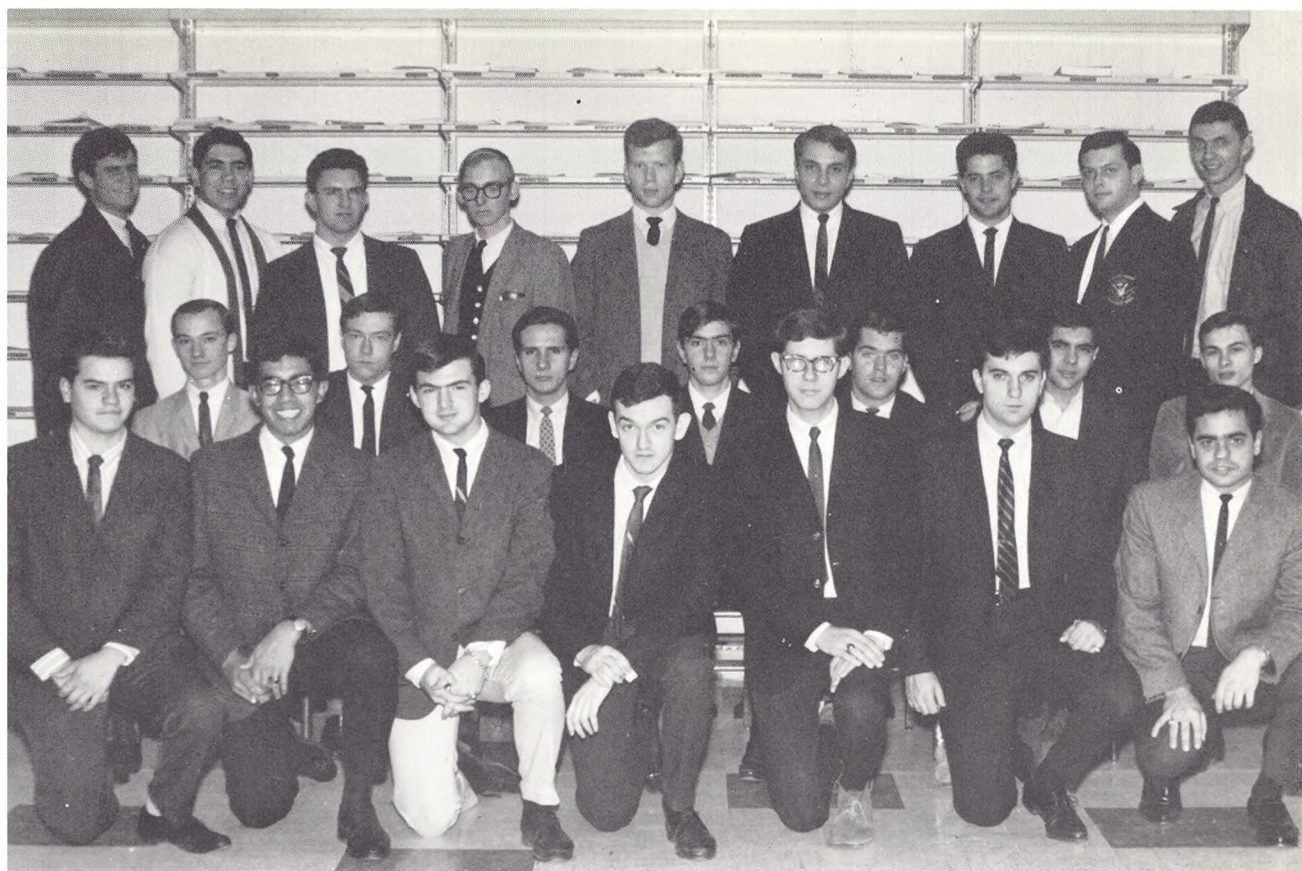

John Gebhard rolls one down the lane for a strike.

Saint Francis College maintains the Guidance Center as a special service for all its students. Its help was sought by many Seniors who were preparing for graduate school and seeking national and foreign fellowships. The Center also arranged interviews with many of the largest corporations in the metropolitan area for those who plan on entering the business world.

Undergraduates found part-time jobs readily available from an ever-growing file.

Approved by the American Board of Counseling Services, the Guidance Center has aided students in making decisions concerning their future education and occupation, and many other matters that cause a need for advice on the part of the student, in each phase of personal development in college.

DEVELOPMENT

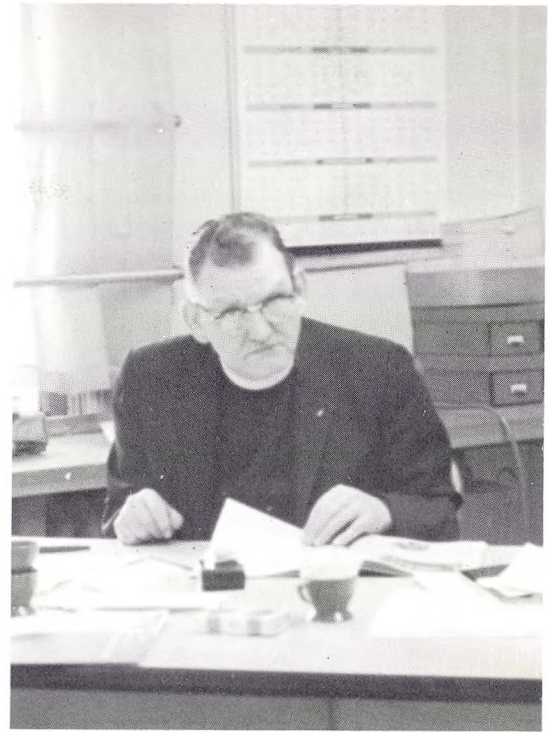

Brother Jarlath juggles the books.

"Dig we must for a growing St. Francis." Bishop McEntegart leads the way.

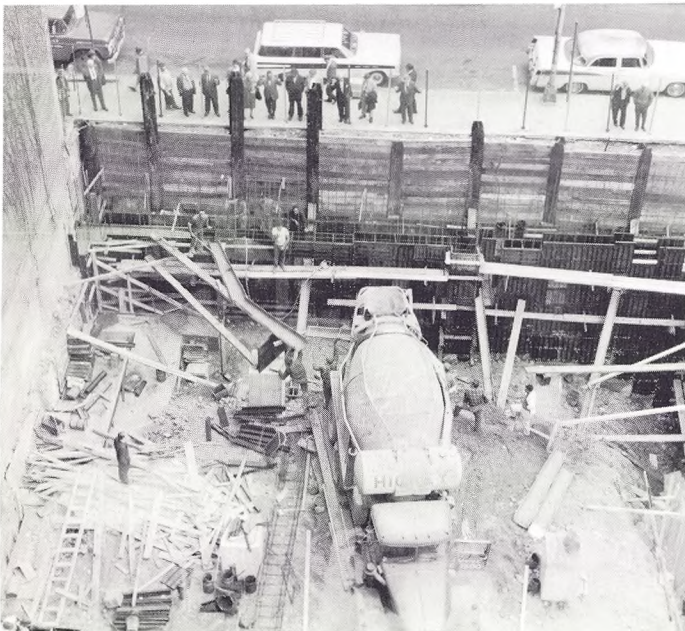

Brother Urban, President, speaks at ground breaking ceremonies in student lounge.

"Did you bring money?"

to this in three months.

Brother Anthelm, our librarian, gleefully matches overdue books with delinquent student's numbers.

"We've checked our records, young man, and this book is not only overdue but the corners are folded" says Mr. Heuschkel and Miss Pascocello.

"That's right, Brother Anthelm—folded corners" informs Mrs. Halloran.

LIBRARY

Mrs. Kearney looks up from her work.

Miss Cuff, our periodicals librarian, smiles sweetly for the camera.

Mrs. Nally checks the index.

Brother Daniel, in his fifty-first year of service to the order.

Mr. McGivney takes charge of our valuable collection of art books.

Division of

JOHN M. BURKE

Professor of Chemistry; Chairman, Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics; B.A., St. Francis College; M.S., New York University; Ph.D., St. John's University.

The Division of Natural Science and Mathematics, consisting of the departments of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics, seeks to complement the aims of the College by teaching the fundamental concepts and principles which govern physical reality. It endeavors to cultivate a knowledge of the orderliness of science and the relations existing among the various sciences and thus foster in the student an appreciation of the material world as a masterpiece of God's creation.

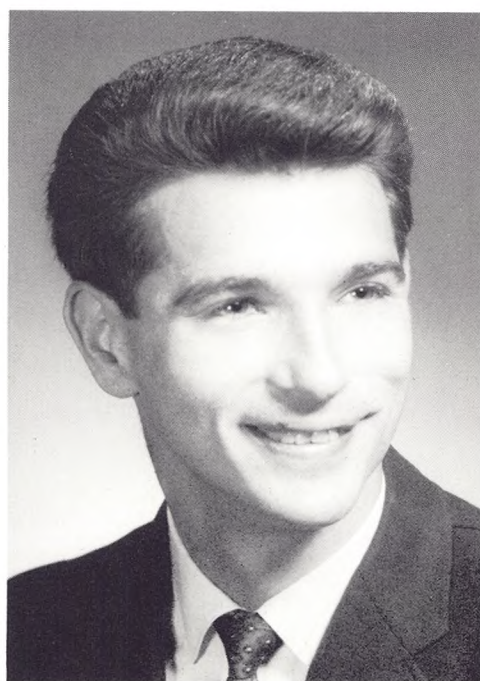

The Division further aims to prepare the student for graduate or professional school, or to meet the needs of those students who are preparing for entrance into certain vocational fields upon graduation.

By agreement with the Haskins Laboratories, New York City, students recommended by the Division and accepted by the Laboratories are permitted to engage in microbiological research at the Haskins

Laboratories under the supervision of members of the Haskins staff. Such staff members hold the formal appointments of Associate Professors and Research Advisors to the College. It is recommended that such students will have had or are taking course work in microbiology, physiology, biochemistry and organic chemistry. The facilities of the Haskins Laboratories include those necessary for investigation of microbial physiology, especially the cultivation of planktonic marine and fresh-water bacteria and protozoa.

An objective of this work is the development of micro-organisms as tools for attacking problems in mammalian physiology. Haskins Laboratories is certified as a teaching and research institution at the university level by the New York State Board of Regents.

Division of Business Administration

CHARLES L. SAVAGE

Professor of Accounting; Chairman, Division of Business Administration; LL.B., St. John's University; LL.M., Ibid.; M.A., Columbia University; J.S.D., St. John's University; C.P.A. (New York).

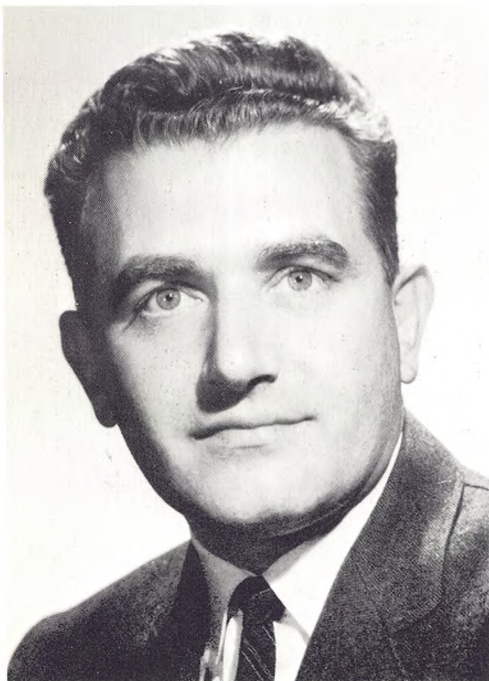

The Division of Business Administration, composed of the departments of Accounting, Business Law and Business Management, affords the student the opportunity to direct his education towards a career in business. While the aim of imparting professional purpose to the student receives due emphasis, the Division does not attach major importance to the development of specific skills but rather to the inculcation of analytic thought habits and a desire to achieve competence. The courses offered by the Division are based on the cultural and philosophical core provided in the liberal arts and are oriented towards the attainment of a basic understanding of the American business economy and an appreciation of the role which can be performed therein by a graduate of a Catholic college. The faculty of the Division seek to discern and develop the particular qualities and abilities of the student and to direct him towards the optimum realization of his potentialities.

The Division offers majors in Accounting and Business Management leading to the B.B.A. (Bachelor of Business Administration) degree.

Emphasis in the Accounting curriculum is upon completion of the academic requirements for the permissible parts of the C.P.A. exam, but the student may, by registering under the Business Management major and by judicious selection of accounting courses, prepare himself for managerial accounting.

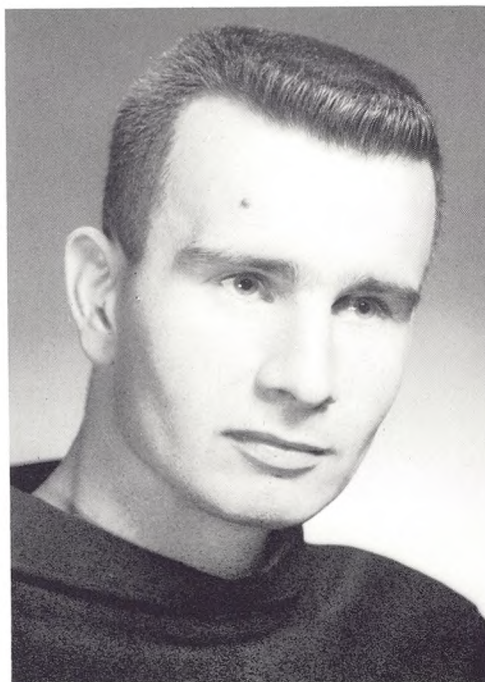

The Business Management major is designed to impart a basic knowledge of the major areas of business activity—production, distribution and finance—with particular emphasis upon the management principles inherent therein.

Internship programs designed to provide a guided practical experience in both industrial and public accounting are available to selected students.

Division of

JAMES J. FLYNN

Professor of History; Chairman, Social Studies Division; B.A., Fordham University; M.A., Ibid.; Ph.D., Ibid.

The Division of Social Studies aims to awaken in the student a clear realization of his true position in a Christian Democracy. The courses in the Division are geared to develop a love of one's fellow man so that the student may participate in and work for the betterment of society; to acquaint him with a knowledge of our social and economic heritage which the study of the past provides as an interpretation of the present; to see always the working of Divine Providence and the exercise of man's free will in molding the destinies of men and nations; to understand the need of a clear sense of values in summing up the importance of the past in relation to current situations; to furnish him with a knowledge of our heritage and its application to modern social and economic issues.

Majors offered in the Division: Economics, History, Latin American Studies, Political Science, Social Studies, Social Studies-Secondary School Teacher Training and Sociology.

All majors of the Division must take an oral comprehensive examination and write a senior thesis to fulfill the requirements for a degree.

History Majors must prepare a senior thesis. The thesis is supervised both as to research and writing by members of the Department of History. The student, depending on his area of emphasis, will write a thesis either on Brooklyn history or problems of the Western Hemisphere. When writing on Brooklyn history, research will be done on original documents in various historical depositories that are available. For students in the Latin American Studies Program, a thesis will be completed on problems of the Western Hemisphere.

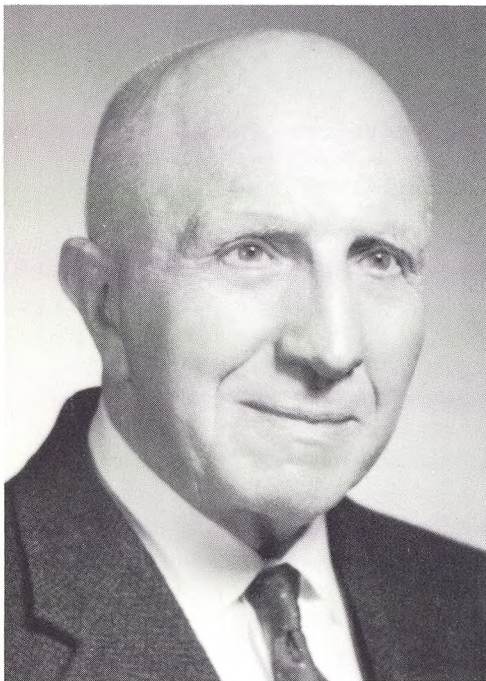

The Latin American Studies Program is a four year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts with a major in Latin American Studies.

The student is required to supplement his area studies with intensive language study in Spanish and Portuguese. Organized around the basic liberal arts curriculum, the Latin American Studies Program places strong emphasis on developing a sympathetic awareness and intelligent understanding of Latin America—its history, problems, culture and institutions, the hopes and aspirations of its peoples.

The student, through formal academic ties with the University of Guanajuato, Mexico, must spend the summer of the Junior year abroad as a Latin American major. Moreover the College supports informal university projects in several Latin American countries so that the student may participate from his freshman year in these undertakings. Internship programs with business firms and other institutions operating in Latin America may further supplement the student's direct contact with the cultures and people of the region.

The student is given a strong insight into the economic, historical, intellectual, linguistic, political, religious, and sociological background of Latin America.

Humanities

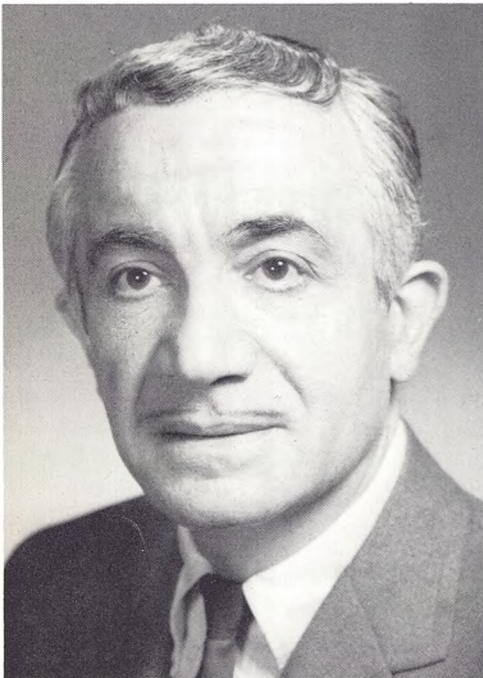

The Division of the Humanities has for its primary purpose instilling into the student a breadth and depth of sympathy and vision by interpreting what is ennobling in the civilization and culture of man. Its aim is therefore to develop good taste through a knowledge of man's thoughts and ideas as expressed in his language, literature, music and art. Its concern is with such realities as life, death, love and the problems of good and evil and how these influence man in his relationship to society, his physical environment, his inner self, and his God.

The Division consists of the Departments of Classical Languages, English, Fine Arts, Modern Languages and Speech.

Philosophy . . .

Within the framework of the teachings of the Church and in the light of the personal reality of Christ, Christian Philosophy investigates the meanings, purposes and values inherent in the natural world. Through its endeavor to cultivate the growth of a philosophizing mind rather than a mere conceptual directory, true philosophy can be of real and vital assistance to the Catholic student and graduate by developing within him a unique faculty, organic to the intellect itself. Not having been memorized, sound principles of thought cannot be forgotten; they will inevitably assist the thinking Christian to achieve his natural and supernatural ends by providing for a flexible yet secure core to the life of the mind. It is the specific aim of the department, therefore, to develop philosophically "thought-minded" Catholics, able to discern philosophical error but unafraid of any truth.

The courses in Psychology are designed specifically to help prepare the student for graduate work in modern Psychology and to supplement the basic courses for students who are preparing to teach; more generally, they endeavor to provide some awareness of the concerns and contributions of contemporary Psychology proportionate to the intellectual needs of an educated man today.

The purpose of the course in Theology is twofold. First, the aim of these courses is to impart a clear and comprehensive knowledge of Catholic dogmatic and moral teachings; and secondly to stress the necessity of Christian living and Christian leadership in today's society.

YEAR IN RETROSPECT

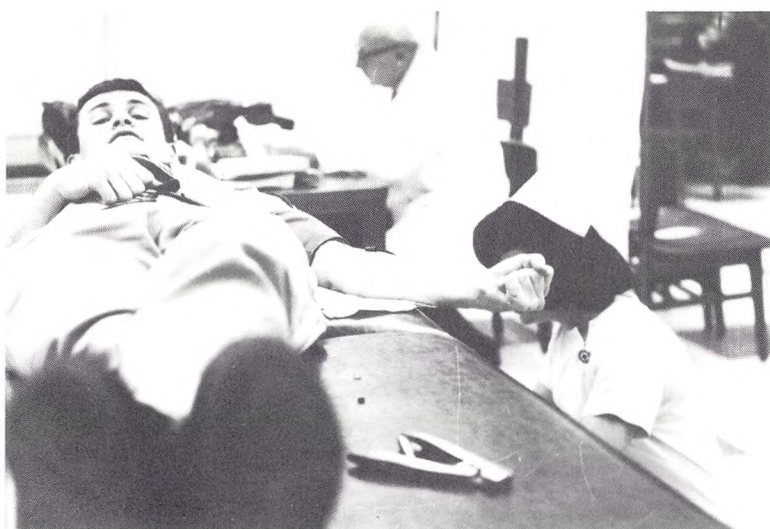

Bro. Anthelm, Dr. Burke, Bro. Blaise, Bro. Jarlath, and Mr. Clifford discuss strategy before addressing the onslaught of incoming Frosh.

Freshmen were introduced to leaders on all levels.

And they learned to pay . . .

. . . and pay

. . . or else.

The Soph-Frosh Hop gave students an opportunity to meet on a formal basis . . .

. . . and an informal basis.

Al Martorano congratulates Miss S.F.C.

"Good grief! How long have you people been living this way?"

Boro President, Abe Stark, congratulates Oxford debate team on their loss to St. Francis.

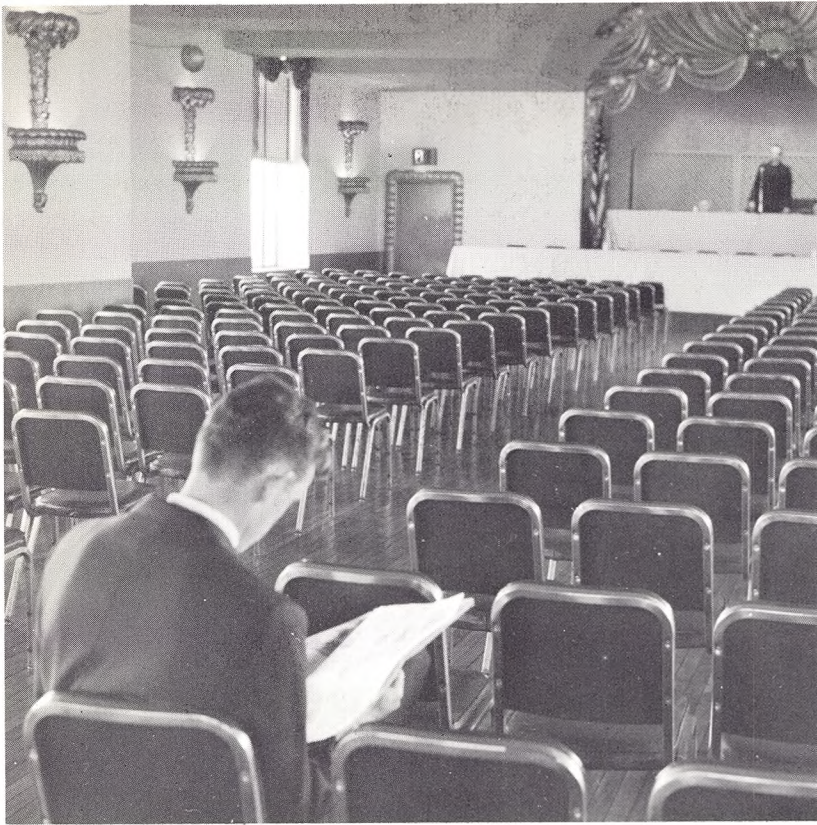

A study in how to draw a crowd.

Another study.

Cultural development was not neglected.

I called you together today to tell you about . . .

. . . new dress regulations.

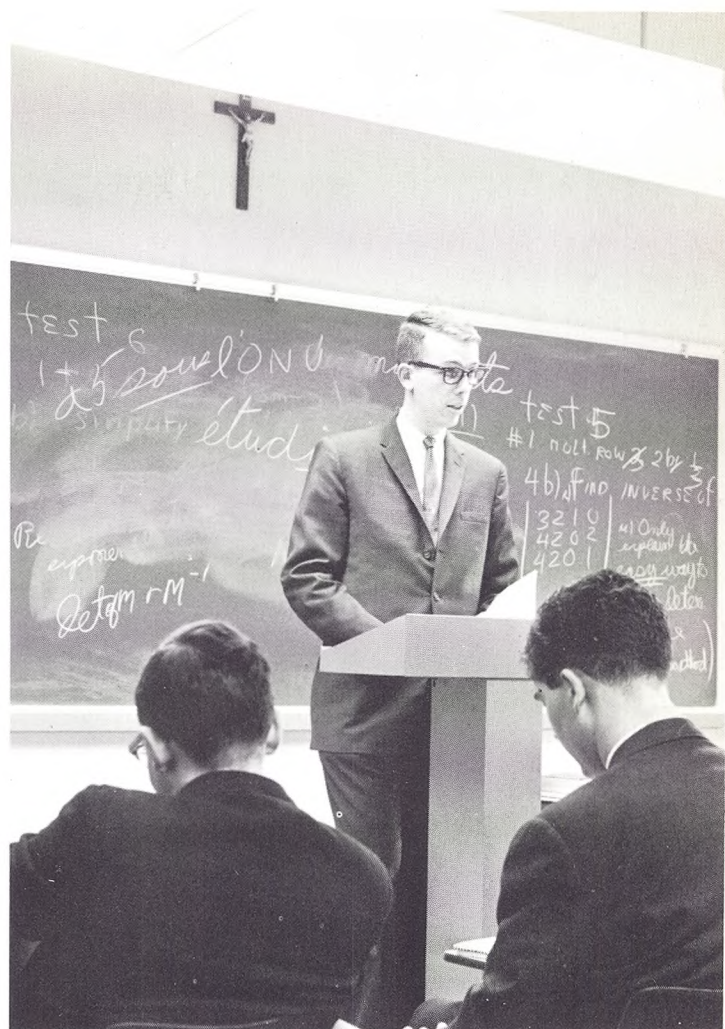

The administration bought us an erector set . . .

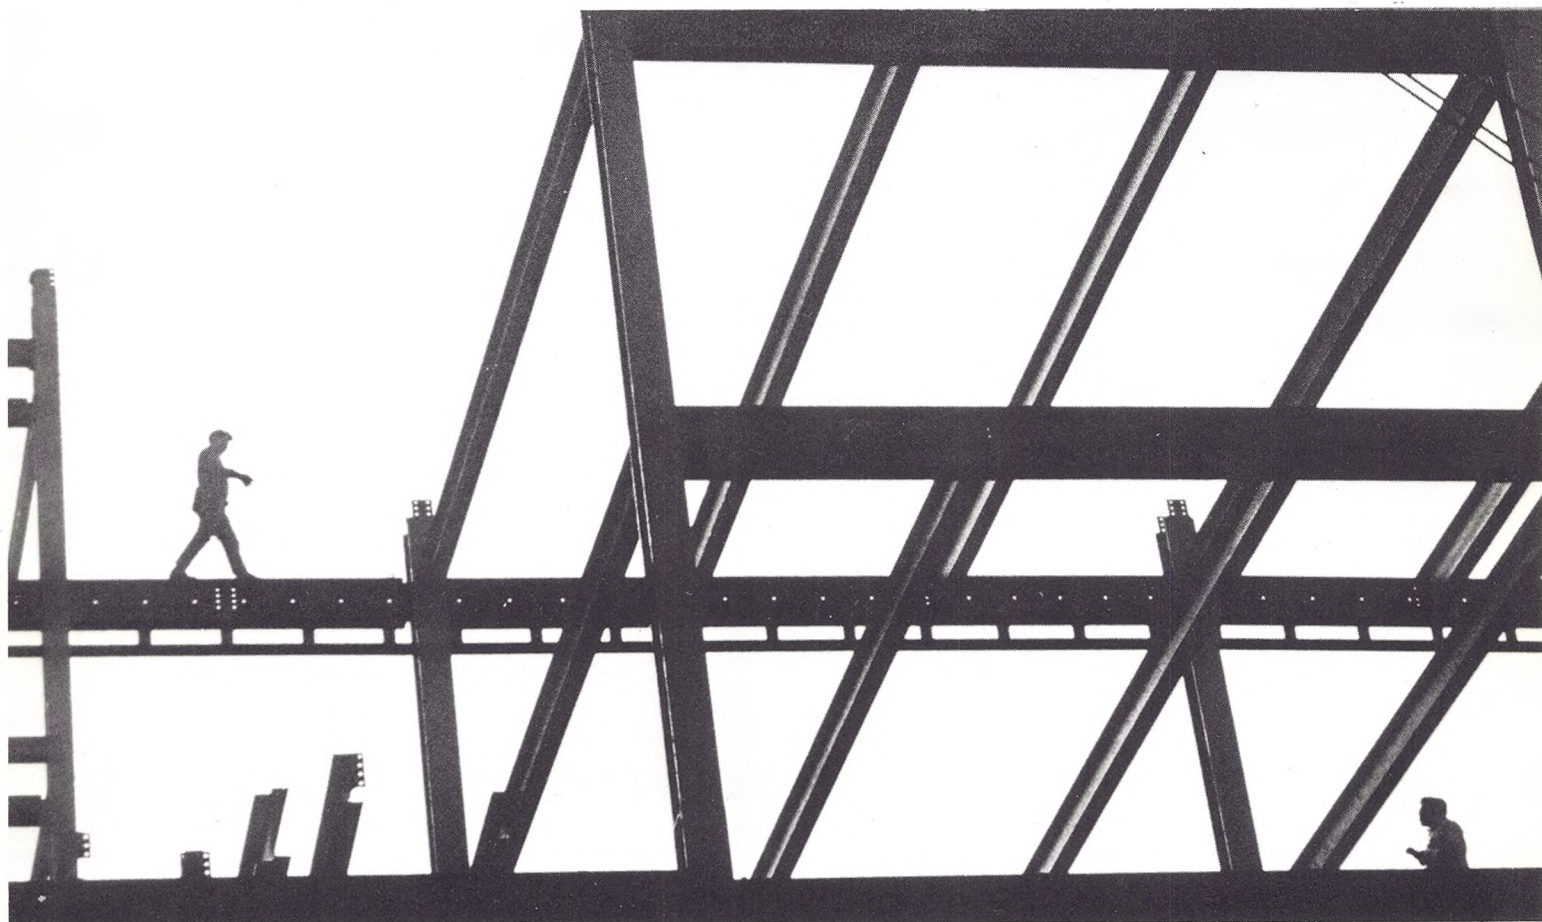

. . . and new plumbing facilities.

Oh yes, there were classes . . .

. . . and more classes.

But construction made it tough to get from class to class.

The march on St. John's started here . . .

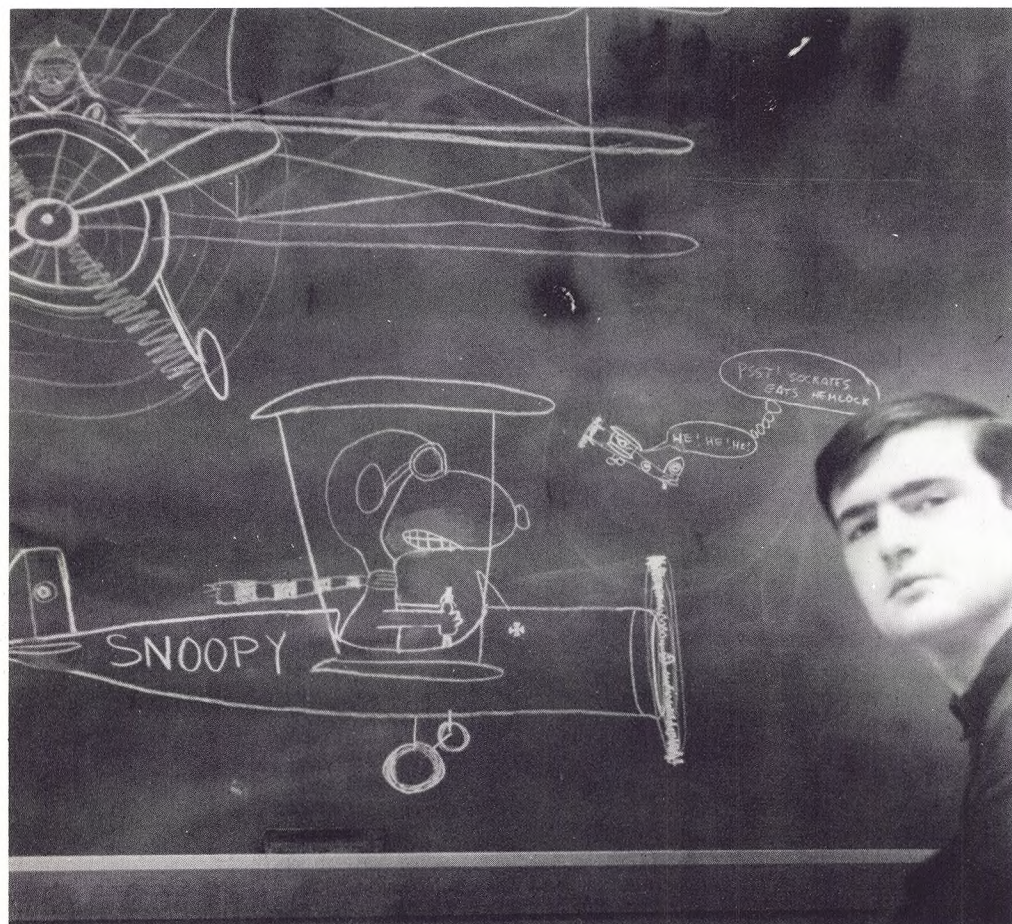

. . . went this-a-way

. . . and ended here.

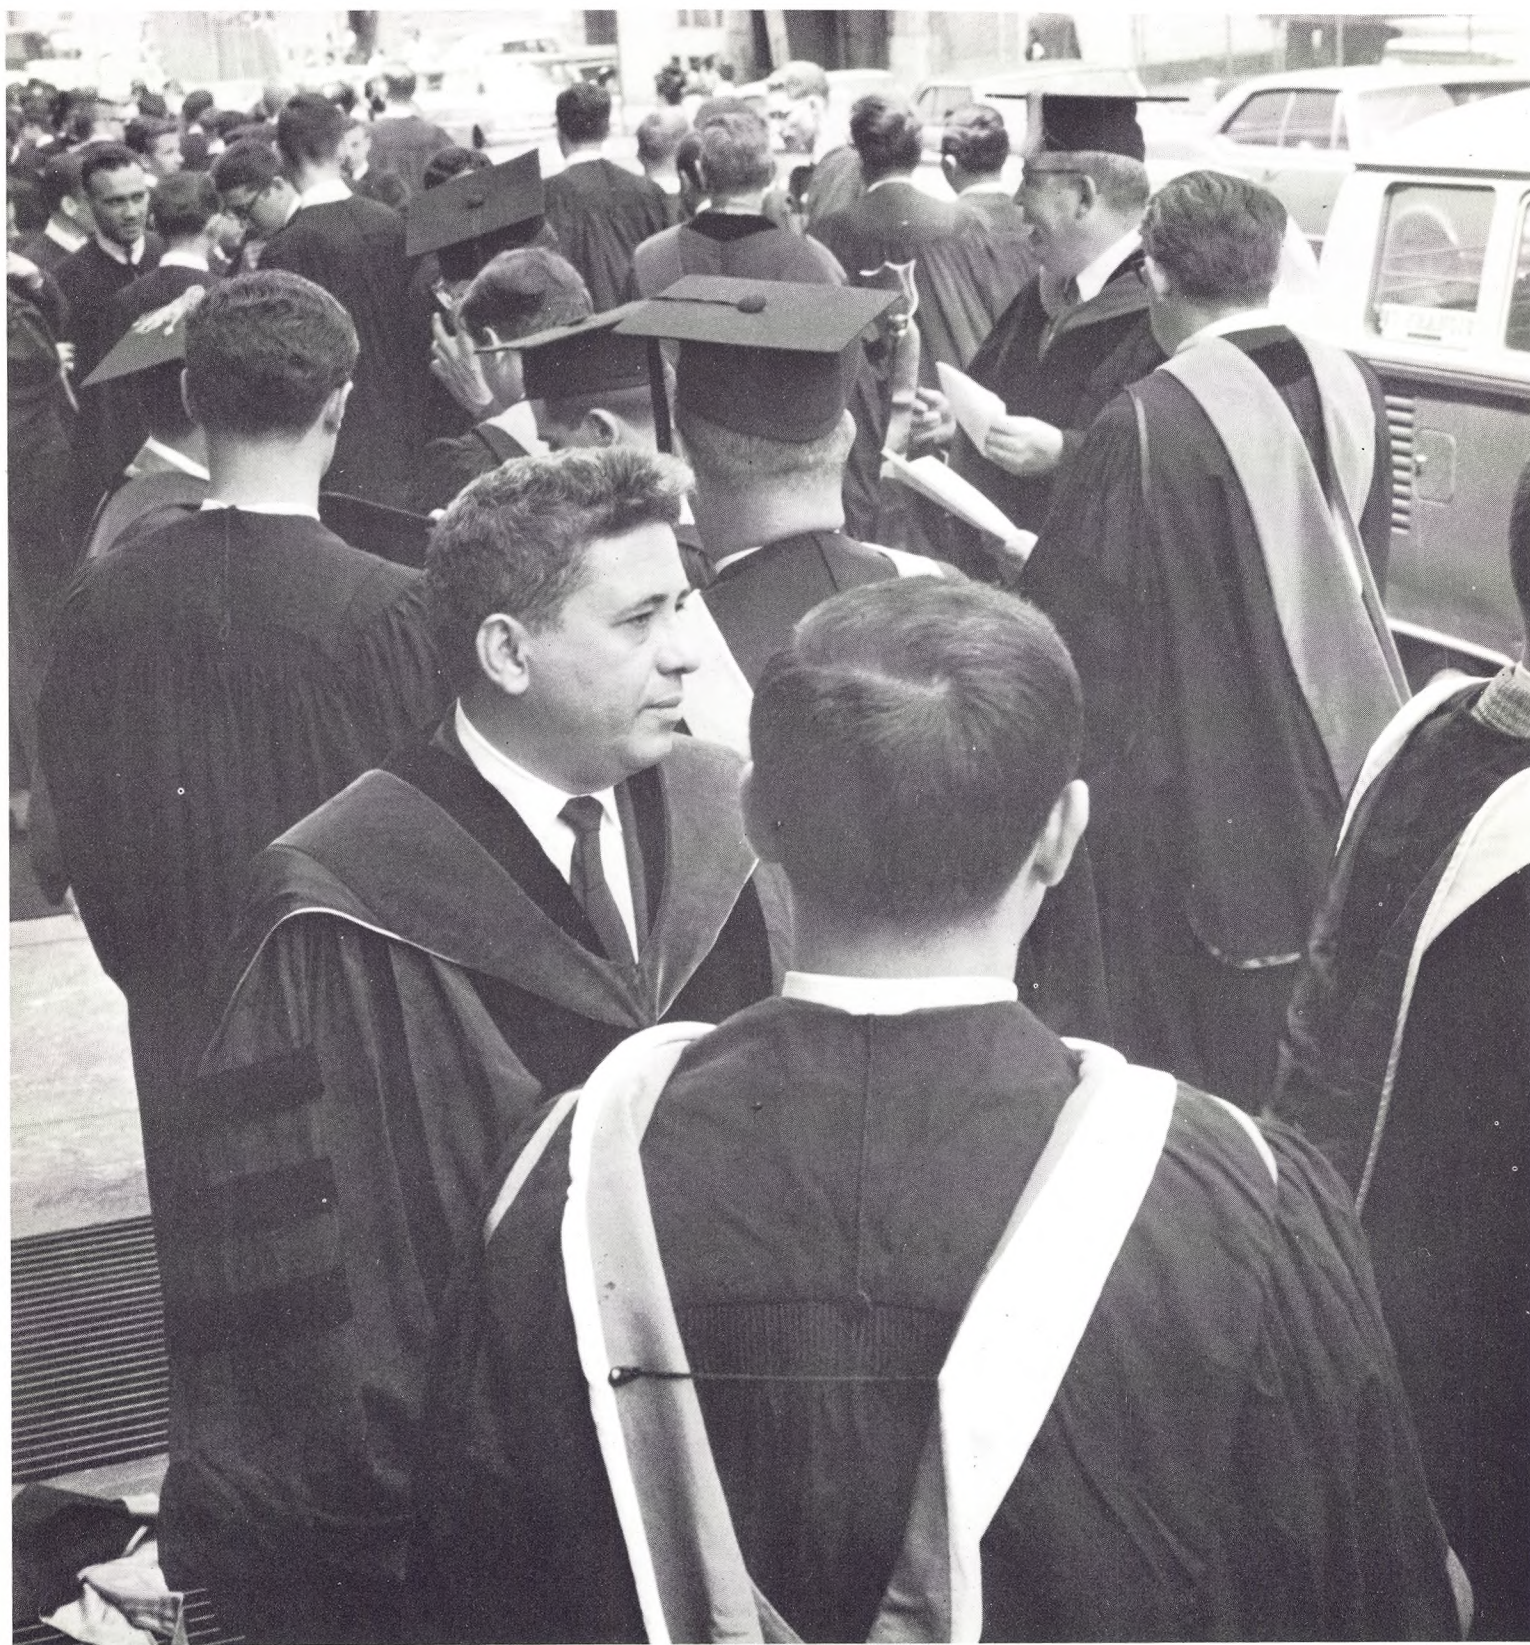

The year was not without its serious moments . . .

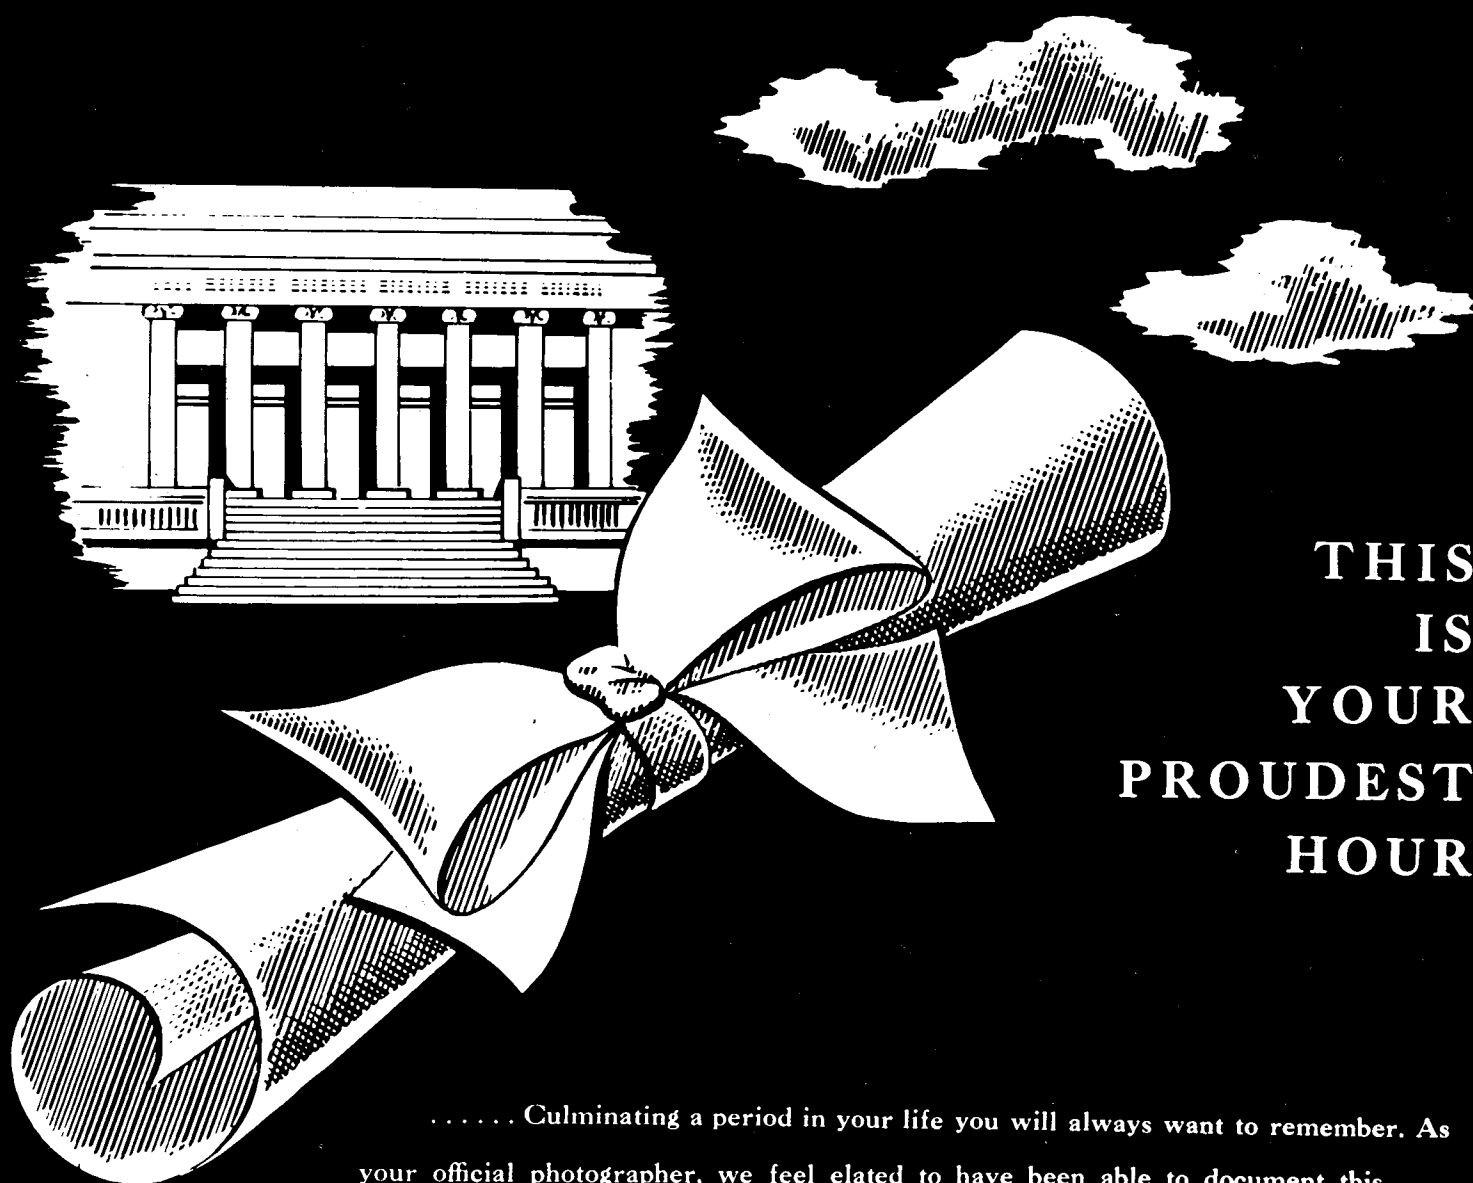

. . . or its insanities.

Who's this Snoopy bum?

Finally . . .

..... Culminating a period in your life you will always want to remember. As your official photographer, we feel elated to have been able to document this cherished era with photographs pulsating the very life you lived - the very thoughts you spread - the very feeling you so warmly and sincerely shared. This reality though captured in a split second will be an everlasting record for posterity.

The future holds many events for you that you will want to remember - Please feel free to call upon us for all of your photographic needs.

Dear Graduate:

Graduation is a most important time in any family's life. A time to reflect about the many good things that have happened in the last four years ... and a time to think about the years ahead.

I am certain that you have considered furthering your education, either in college or in the many fine trade or nursing schools which are available. Perhaps you have already made a decision ... we hope it was to continue your education.

Now here's how we can help!

Under a cooperative arrangement with the New York Higher Education Assistance Corporation you may borrow from $750. to $1,500. a year with a maximum of $7,500. for attending college ... lesser amounts for trade schools. You make no payments and there are no interest charges while you are in school. Upon termination of studies you can take up to six years to repay. Loans are made directly to the student ...no co-signers are needed. Dial the telephone numbers listed below for additional information.

May we take this occasion to congratulate you on your graduation and to wish you a successful and rewarding future.

Cordially,

Michael J. Burke

Dear Franciscans,

A yearbook is not the work of any one individual and I as editor realize this the most. Therefore, I have chosen to set aside this one page for my own personal thoughts - thoughts of gratitude for those who have worked so hard so that this book might be a success. The success of any annual is the cooperation and coordination of all the members of its staff. This year's staff was sensational and I thank all of them.

Of course, a special vote of thanks must go to Mr. Clifford for his patience with all our antics and his words of confidence and encouragement in our many dark moments. I would also like to express my sincere thanks to both Bill Welter and George Rubins of Lorstan Studios for their tremendous help and also to Eddie Adams and Frank Ball, Jr. of New City for their help.

Once again, I would like to thank all the members and friends of the Franciscan staff for making this book possible. On behalf of the Franciscan staff may I express the hope that you enjoy this book.

Sincerely,

James A. Palmer
