ST. FRANCIS
42

While today it is known as "the Small College of Big Dreams," SFC was founded in 1859 by Franciscan Brothers as St. Francis Academy. Over two decades later, the trustees of the school received permission from the state legislature to establish a "literary college" under its current name, giving it the power to confer diplomas, honors, and degrees.

In the years following, the school would continue to grow exponentially, and by 1926 the growth had necessitated the construction of a new facility on Butler Street. Following the purchase of two office buildings from Brooklyn Union Gas Company, the college would make the move to Remsen Street.

Shortly thereafter, it became a co - educational institution and additional property was purchased on Remsen and Joralemon Streets. Recently, the college has expanded its facilities with the construction of a science building, physical education complex, and the recently rechristened Frank J. and Mary Macchiarola Academic Center.

Today, the college continues to thrive, with more than 2,500 students, and 16,000 alumni. Many distinguished public servants, scientists, lawyers, business professionals, and teachers call SFC their alma mater. As a result, alumni help to continue on the mission of teaching and living the ideals of Franciscan Spirit.

Franciscan Spirit

Franciscan Spirit is dedicated to service and fellowship. Followers of the Franciscan way are determined to educate themselves and others through example. It is your duty to lend your knowledge and talents wholeheartedly.

One should strive to be fair and just regardless of creed, race, sexual orientation, or social status. You should be strong in your convictions and dedicate yourself and be loyal to all of your commitments. You should live your life in moderation, following the belief that through wisdom and patience your life shall be one of fullness and success.

You should seek out inner peace and, in turn, share this peace with others. You should maintain this peace no matter what dilemma comes your way. You should make every effort to achieve spiritual enlightenment and strive to be open-minded at all times. This along with new found self awareness will enable you to see the needs of your peers.

You should always be respectful and considerate in your actions. You should do unto others as you would like others to do unto you. And finally, above all, you should enjoy life and cherish every memory you make.

As you embark on on your new life be sure not to leave with out leaving something behind for your successors. Remember the words of St. Francis, “it is in the act of giving in which we receive.”

Let me not be tied down to poverty or praise and i shall be free.
free from the nagging ache of envy
free from all hurts of resentment.
free to love and forgive all.
free to do and say what is right, regardless of unpopularity.
free to wonder everywhere as inspiration guides me.

Valedictorian Speech

Winter 2011

Dear Graduates,

Here are a few stories of several remarkable individuals who had a rocky start in life, but came out on top because they chose to succeed. I decided to start with the story of an American president, to show my patriotism, though it might surprise you, I am not really from here. Abe Lincoln was a man who failed in business at the age of 21 – his sweetheart died at the age of 26 – he had a nervous breakdown at age 27 – he was defeated in 8 elections. And yet, he became the 16th president of the United States.

Albert Einstein did not speak until the age of four, he did not read until the age of seven. He was regarded as being “mentally slow, unsociable, and adrift forever in foolish dreams” – against all expectations, in 1921; Einstein won the Nobel Prize in Physics. Before reaching the top of the billboards, the Beatles were turned down by a recording company that said “we do not like their sound, and guitar music is on the way out” – I bet those recording executives are eating their huts right now.

So why am I telling you all of these stories? These days everyone is asking us what are we going to do with our future? As I see it, we have two choices. We can choose to survive only to get by, or we can choose to succeed! So my fellow graduates, future doctors, future educators, future lawyers, future artists - we are the future of this country. Let us choose to flourish and to succeed. Now I know this is not the Oscars, but there are some people here today that we should all thank.

First I would like to thank St. Francis College. I believe everyone will agree with me when I say this is a unique college where no student gets lost in the crowd. This college is about people, equal opportunity, and humanity. There is nothing more important than that.

My journey here was quite remarkable. I came to St. Francis College 18 days after finishing my military service, totally in shock, barely spoke English, and one woman took me under her wing, and went above and beyond to help me adjust. Dean Howell thank you, to me you symbolize the good in people. I then began working at the Student Activities Office under the guidance and support of Ruben Gonzalez. Ruben, first, thank you for opening the door for me. Second, thank you for being like a friend and a parent rather than just a boss. Naomi Kinley and Cheretta Robson from the Career Center, you give your heart and soul to help the students, and I am here today to say we appreciate that.

During the past two years I had the pleasure of working as an intern at an extraordinary company called National Grid. I would like to take this opportunity to thank National Grid family and colleagues for being my mentors, and supporting me in each part of my journey. Similarly, I would like to thank the Economic and Management Departments, and all the professors of SFC for sharing with us your knowledge and guiding us throughout the years. I would also like to thank all of my friends for coming to support me on my special day. You are my family here and I love each one of you.

Last but not least, I want to thank my family, and I am sure you can all agree with me that the people who deserve the most gratitude are our families. Mom and dad I am lucky to have you as my parents, thank you for being there every step of the way, you gave me wings and made me fly, and I simply adore you.

I would like to sign off with some words of wisdom, I may not have written them, but I certainly live by them “Work like you don't need the money. Love like you've never been hurt. And dance like no one's watching. Happiness is a journey not a destination” (Unknown Author).

Fellow graduates, I encourage each one of you to pursue your dream, and do it with passion.

Valedictorian Speech

Spring 2012

Good Afternoon,

Members of the Board of Trustees, President Dugan, Distinguished Guests, Members of the Administration, Faculty and Staff, and Fellow Graduates. I would first like to briefly thank some people very special to me. Dr. Sorrentino, Bro. Owen, Dr. Galgan, and Dr. Berman—each of you gave me guidance and lessons that went beyond the classroom, and for that I am grateful. I will never forget the example that each of you have set for me. Thank you. More importantly, I would like to thank my family, especially my Mother and Grandmother, for their love and support, without which I would not be here today. I love you.

My fellow graduates, we live in a world driven by specialization and opportunity cost. Whether we are going on to graduate school, the workforce, military service, or other endeavors, the skills we learn over the next few years will specifically serve the field that we enter. No longer will there be the small 'I' liberal learning that the College offered. For most, literature, history, and philosophy will have to make room for technical training. One can only do something well if one takes the time to know it well, and the world needs professionals. This is dignified work, which one should be proud of.

We should realize on this Graduation Day, however, that it is liberal arts education that made Saint Francis College special. The strong core curriculum, particularly the nine credit requirement in philosophy, gave us the best of both worlds. Philosophy, such as in Plato's Phaedo, teaches us that there is meaning beyond our immediate surroundings and more profound questions which must be asked. As helpful as technology may be, our life is not defined by laptops, iPhones, and Blackberrys. Philosophy liberates us from such things. Even though some of us may not realize it yet, this was the hope for our education at Saint Francis.

This is not to say that Saint Francis has not prepared us for the practical life as well. In fact, by having both, we will have the tools necessary to become ethical accountants, ethical businessmen, ethical doctors, lawyers, and teachers, so that we can go into the world to serve Christ faithfully. What do I mean by ethical? I mean that we cannot judge what is right only by what we want or only by what the profession dictates or demands. How could we base morality on such things, especially since technology allows the world to change at such a rapid pace? What is right can only come from what grounds reality, what is immutable, and beyond the changing world (the Forms, if you will). Access to the immutable can only come from right reason cultivated by liberal education.

Besides the ethical considerations, it must be asked: how practical could an education be that is not rooted in the liberal arts? The skill that you spent years cultivating could tomorrow be replaced by a machine or computer program. Studying that which never changes, the common experience of all men throughout time, is the only thing which could provide the adaptability to thrive in such an economy. We should all be grateful that Saint Francis has done a much better job than other institutions in preserving the liberal arts.

The reason why it has done such a good job is because of what some perceive as the Saint Francis' weaknesses. Our College is not, after all, a prestigious university with a large student body, campus, and dormitories, but a small commuter college. Such qualities, not the least among which is our Catholic identity and mission as humbly safeguarded by the Franciscan Brothers, have prevented St. Francis from falling into temptations as other college and universities, even Catholic ones, have. This temptation is to think of the college or university as just a campus, that the edifice of the campus is what defines the institution. But what should really define a college is whether its students' souls are nourished. While St. Francis' campus may not be the marvel that some other colleges' are, through liberal education, it nourishes the souls of its students; because of this we chose well for coming here. Hopefully, St. Francis will continue to nourish the souls of its students for many years to come.

Congratulations and God Bless!

Sade Falebita Senior Reflection

When I first arrived at St. Francis College, I did not know what to expect as I entered the “Small College of Big Dreams” but by the end of that day Brother George welcomed me with a full scholarship and acceptance into the honors program.

Five years later at the age of 21, I graduated with a B.A. in Communications: Film and Broadcasting and a B.S./M.S. in Accounting, and will be starting my career with one of the top four accounting firms in the world. My time at SFC has truly been a blessing and I will never forget the community that helped raise me to be the young mature woman that I am today. Involvement in clubs and organizations such as the African Club, SFC Today, the Accounting Society, and Student Government Association helped build my character and provided me with the skills necessary to succeed beyond college. I gave SFC my all and in return I achieved more than I ever imagined.

I would like to thank God, my family, friends, the administrators of the Career Center, Office of Student Activities, Communication Arts Department, and Department of Media Relations for guiding me and mentoring throughout the years. I will be forever grateful to Professor Mark McSherry for providing constant support and encouragement, always challenging me to explore my field beyond the textbook.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, “Do not follow where the path may lead. Go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.” Over the years I have learned that it is important to make the most out of every opportunity. Your college experience is what you make of it and I am glad that I made the most out of my time here. I hope that my actions have left a trail that can inspire others to take action and make a difference.

I want to encourage my fellow graduates to embrace their talents, network, and discover what the world has to offer. Do not be afraid to take risks and pursue new endeavors. Most importantly, remember that as you make your mark you have the power to initiate a butterfly effect that can change the world.

Senior Reflection

Congratulations, Class of 2012. We finally did it! “Finally” being the key word, yet it is a bittersweet one. It all happened so fast.

I cannot even imagine how my life will be after graduation. I will truly miss members of the SFC administration and faculty, my friends and teammates, and familiar faces that made my college career such an amazing and important time in my life. On graduation day, in addition to our diplomas, I believe each of us will leave with strong friendships, unforgettable memories, and life changing experiences.

For those of you who do not know me, I was that water polo kid from Croatia who was all over the campus. You probably saw me working with Dean Howell, Nurse Deborah, Ruben, and Cheretta, among many others. St. Francis was my second home. I literally spent my days working, studying and practicing. Yet I have no regrets; I had the most amazing time, as I know all of you did also. However, there were some tough times. And although each of us had our fair share of ups and downs, in the end, we can agree that it was all well worth it. This is what makes graduation special.

As clichéd as it sounds, when I first came to this country, I really did not understand what it meant when people referred to St. Francis College as one big family. Four years later, I can tell you that this family showed myself and countless others nothing but love and generosity.

Now as we begin to go our separate ways, I want to challenge each of you to never forget that the “Small College of Big Dreams” granted us many wonderful opportunities. And by saying that, I am calling you all to join me as a proud alumnus, whom is ready to give back and develop our future SFC Terriers.

God Bless you all,
-Josip Jurcevic

The Prayer of St. Francis

Lord, make me an instrument of your peace.
Where there is hatred, let me
sow love.
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light;
and where there is sadness, joy.

120 St. Francis College

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console;
to be understood, as to understand;
to be loved, as to love.
For it is in giving that we receive;
it is in pardoning that we
are pardoned;
and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.
