

Four years ago dawned the beginning of a new experience for most of us who are graduating from St. Francis. For myself it was an experience — filled at first with fear and anticipation but the latter proved to be fulfilling and thoroughly enjoyable. I'm sure this was the feeling of most of you also.

One of my greatest moments here at St. Francis was producing the college yearbook. Much time, dedication and love went into the book, but it was not by one's dedication alone. It was the combination of six others'. This is where I would like to thank them individually for their time, dedication, love and most of all their patience with me — thanks Maria, John, Giulio and Jeanne. I'd like to make a special thanks to two special people; Meni Pesce, who was my right hand through the production of the entire book, and to Joe Albanese for his support and for taking the time to create a cover for our yearbook. Again, thank you all.

I hope this book keeps all the warm memories that you have experienced here at St. Francis close to your heart as I know it will for me.

My sincerest congratulations to the graduates of 1984!

Good-bye,
Claudia
