

Mr. and Mrs. Wright, a happily married inter-racial couple are flanked by Brother Shane and Sister Rose at a recent Sociology Club meeting.

The Sociology Club of the college is directed towards the goal of making known to the student body the factors which are behind some of the leading social problems of our modern world.

Highlights of this past year was a conference on drug addiction, in which two ex-addicts from Daytop Lodge spoke about their experiences with drugs and their lives as addicts, as well as a timely lecture/discussion on venereal disease. To bring into focus some of the problems of minority groups, a conference was held on interracial marriage at which time Mr. and Mrs. Wright, an interracial couple, spoke and answered questions on the personal problems they faced as a result of their marriage.

Also featured was a lecture and discussion on the Puerto Rican problem in our pluralistic society, and a film about hypnosis.

The club was moderated by Dr. Clement and Mr. James O'Kane.

St. Thomas More Law Society

This year has proved to be exciting and informative for the members of the St. Thomas More Law Society. A tour of the New York State's Supreme Court Building; and a provocative lecture by Judge-elect Francis X. Altimari helped provide invaluable knowledge for those students interested in the legal profession.

Under the astute guidance of Dr. James J. Flynn, the Society's moderator, and the leadership of Bill Quinlan, many of the misconceptions about law schools, the areas of law and admission policies were clarified.

Membership in the Society does not necessitate a prior knowledge of the law or a pursuance of the legal profession. The Society's aim is to further familiarize the interested student in the procedures and requirements needed for acceptance in a reputable school of law.

Regardless of what the Society accomplishes, whether or not a student will be accepted by a law school is solely based on the student's qualifications. However, one's desire to enter the legal profession, the proper academic qualifications, and the guidance of the St. Thomas More Law Society have proved, in the past, to be just the combination that has enabled many St. Francis students to embark on a full and exciting profession.

Dr. James J. Flynn, Moderator of the Society, functioning as Master of Ceremonies.
