

Firmly

rifles used by the United States Army. Another speaker from the New York Police Department addressed the team on the proper use of side arms.

The improvement in shooting skill developed over this first year of intensive practice has been amazing. Perhaps the best evidence of this was Rich Randall's top individual score for the team—a 279 made at the St. John's Invitational Tournament.

Bob Anderson adjusts Anshultz sight.

Dennis Kennedy assembles the 1413.

Moderator Brother Conrad, an old Naval gunnery veteran himself, grins with satisfaction at efforts of this year's rifle team.

Keglers Lag in

Scorers Paul Lutz and Joe Scholle gloat over 3-0 victory over Pace College.

This season the Keglers incorporated themselves with the Eastern Intercollegiate Bowling Conference, which necessitated moving their base of operations from Queens to the Bowlmor Alleys in Manhattan's Union Square. As members of this league the squad competes with sixteen other colleges.

At this writing it appears that '63 will not be the "Kegler's year." In the torrid pace set by the Conference, three games a week are played. The St. Francis record currently stands at 23 wins and 37 losses.

Reasons for the mediocre showing no doubt stem from the loss of stars Nastri and Veneziano via graduation. Carlson, Lutz, and Scholle have returned from last year, and of these Carlson has led the team to successes of the year. Rounding out the squad are new-comers, Chojnowski, Lopatynski, and Scudder. Their averages continue to improve. This, and the experience garnered in their first year of college competitions offer optimism for Terrier bowling prospects next season.

