

ASSOCIATION OF EVENING BUSINESS STUDENTS

The Association of Evening Business Students was formed in order to create a keener interest in business affairs and to promote a clearer understanding of the business world. The club also acted to integrate the students of the Evening Session into the social and extracurricular activities of the college.

Monthly meetings dealt with current business trends and problems. These meetings provided a common meeting ground where the unique problems of night school students could be discussed. In addition to the serious work of monthly meetings, the Association sponsored a Dinner Dance, a Communion Breakfast and a picnic as social outlets for the evening students.

JAMES McNICHOLAS
President

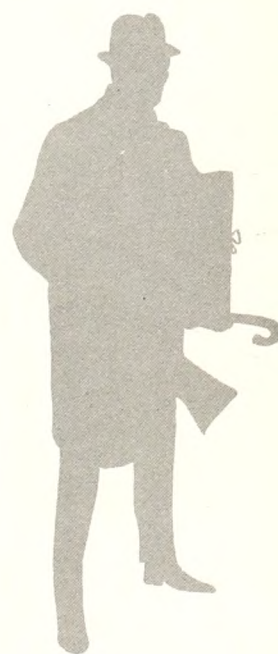

Several evening students arrive early for a meeting. After a long day at the office, students still found energy to launch a vigorous program designed to further incorporate the evening session with its daytime counterpart.

The Loyalty Fund Campaign and the April Communion Breakfast were among the many topics discussed between classes at Court Street.

Early arrivals find time to scan the day's headlines or just chat before the heavily travelled corridors would fill again.

For the senior members, ordering their college ring was an important moment.