

BASKETBALL

Well-deserved congratulations to the Basketball Team and its quick-witted coach, Dan Lynch, are in order. The winning season this year has given us two championships to boast of. In the MECCA League, we share the title with St. Peter's and in the newly-formed Metropolitan League, we hold the title with Manhattan and St. Peter's.

Our overall record was 14 wins and 8 losses. This, however, doesn't tell the whole story. The drama of court play was missed if one merely looked for statistics. It was a type of basketball which only the Terriers are capable of playing. "Desire + Ability + Know-how + Support = A Winner!" This was the formula given to us at the beginning of the season and it proved itself to be correct.

The whole team seemed to feel a new desire this year, a new determination to show that they were truly winners. Scoring records were broken by our ace scorers, Al Fisher and Gil Radday. They are both Seniors and will be missed next year, but with Juniors John McMahon, Mike Mahoney, Doug Smith and John Raftery returning, along with Sophomores Bob Christie, Bernie Donoghue, George Gillen, Tex Cummins and Ed Grant, plus a good Frosh Team, we should move into the undefeated ranks of our two conferences next year.

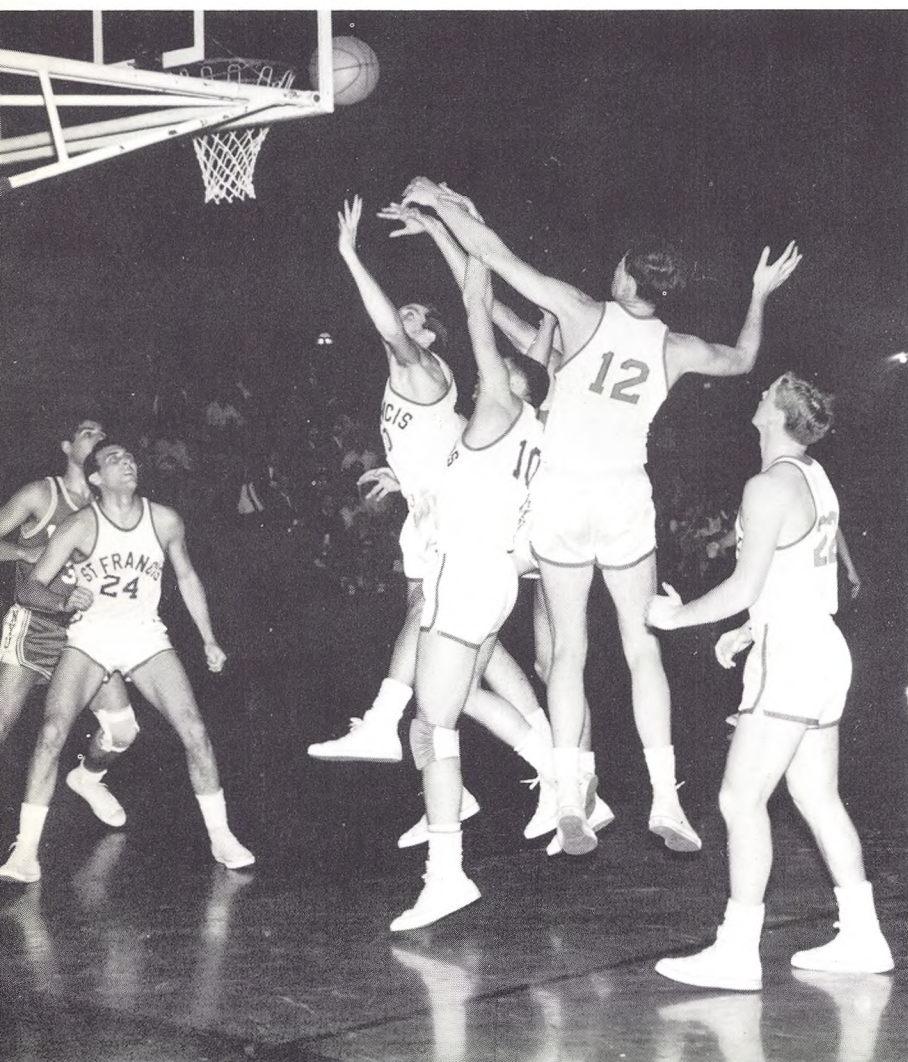

Al Fisher rises high for a deuce in the Armory.

Coach Dan Lynch exhorts the team.

Gilly Radday adds two more to his record-breaker against Siena.

John McMahon goes up for two as the rest of the team gives him a hand.

The "Know-how" of the team was expertly given to them by our more-than-able coach Dan Lynch. His ability to pick out the good points and the bad points proved to be a decisive ingredient in our formula for success.

This year, support can be mentioned with a boastful eye. The fans were great; streamers, whistles and cheers echoed gaily through the 69th Regiment Armory. Much publicity has been given to "student apathy" but it has been killed by the loyal fans and the team buried it along with their opponents.

It was a very good year and although Al Fisher didn't reach the 1000 point mark, his career will not be forgotten. His wild performances caused many a grey hair and many a win. He was elected to become a member of the Jewish All-Americans this year and our congratulations accompany him to it. Gil Radday did break his 1000 point career mark, ending with a total of 1070 points. He averaged 33 points per game in his last eight games. This was the major factor in the recovery from the loss of Fisher, who was hurt in the Wagner game.

In that last eight game stretch, without Al Fisher, things did look bad. We lost to Wagner, recovered to beat Siena, only to lose to Le Moyne the following night. Then it happened! Radday went to work rebounding and scoring with a fury which has never been seen before. Doug Smith began to shoot, score, and then score some more. Mahoney was once again the mastermind behind our offensive attack and Bob Christie took over Fisher's starting position. John McMahon's passing off to Gil and his impressive defensive play proved to be too much for our opponents . . . we won the last five of our remaining six games.

Once again, congratulations to the team, coach and fans for a job well done!
