The "Belle Harbor Irishman" with the red face, who spends his summers supervising the rescuing of the "fair sex" at Rockaway Beach. Tom also plays a terrific game of football at the Guard position. . . . During the war Tom was with the Marines, with whom he took part in the battle of Okinawa. . . . Returning to the College he was the same jovial and easy going fellow. He can usually be heard asking, "Hey Brother, where's Unkiar Skelessi?" or "I can't even ask a question in this course." . . .

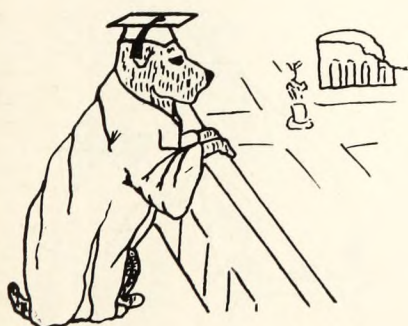

WILLIAM J. O'REILLY

Bachelor of Arts

Lafayette H. S.

French Club 1, 2, 3, 4; International Relations Club 1, 2, 3, 4; Sodality (Holy Cross) 2, 3; Intramural Basketball 1, 2, 3; Debating Society 4.

A hopeful History major, Bill thinks it's one of the higher courses. . . . "Why did I ever have to take Psychology?" . . . "I see you have a blank look on your face." "No Brother, I think I've got it." He has a tough time remembering dates in History. . . . Bill spent three years in the Navy, first having gone to midshipman's school at Columbia and Holy Cross, and then entering the regular Navy as ensign. . . . His sea legs come in handy for his weekly jaunts over to Jersey.
