Newly elected Student Council President Joe Murphy held his first meeting early in September to lay the groundwork for the coming year, a year which saw recognition of several new clubs, inauguration of a student parking plan, installation of a lounge and lockers at Court Street and re-vitalization of school spirit.

One of the many changes in the administrative hierarchy was the installation of Brother Pascal as Director of Student Activities. Brother Pascal worked intently in his new office as the primary link between the extracurricular programs and the administration.

Freshman orientation week was a long, grueling period for the incoming students. Talks were given on all imaginable subjects designed to ease the "awkward" frosh into college life. Beanies, the mark of the "newcomer," were distributed by the student group leaders prior to hazing week.

The Glee Club was one of the most improved and most active of the student activities this year. Under the guiding hand of Professor Fiorenza, the Club practiced many hours each week and gave several renditions during the dedication of the Moran Courts, and the Christmas assembly. Practice sessions began for the Glee Club immediately upon school's opening.

Mr. Edward Quigley, the new Publicity Director, an alumnus of St. Francis, became the moderator of the Press Club. The club worked closely with Mr. Quigley's office in collecting, writing and distributing press releases.

The Terrier Baseball season ended in October. On October 3rd, because of the near-perfect pitching of Artie Beyer and the clutch hitting of Joe Toto, the Terriers defeated Siena and gained third place in the Iona Baseball Tournament. The decisive run in the 5-2 win was pushed across on a squeeze play in the eighth inning.

Phi Rho dogging ran through the week of October 19th. Fourteen students completed the rigors of the week's activities and were welcomed as brothers of Phi Rho Pi.
