To Joe Wielert, our Moderator: busy with his jobs as Public Relations Director, teaching English and a few thousand other things, he took pictures, set us on the right road, and kept a watchful eye over us.

Brother Pascal: for his valuable ideas, guidance and general consideration.

Al Sfayer, School Treasurer: who helped us straighten out our tangled business affairs—and they were tangled!—and also for the ideas and kindness he extended to a bunch of babes-in-the-woods.

Brother Anthelm: who takes a mean portrait.

The staff at Kelly Publishing: patient souls who put up with us.

Hal Zurlo, our custodian engineer. He painted our office, built our shelves, supplied us with everything we could beat out of him, and taught us a lot about the recent war in Europe that never appeared in books.

Miss Florence O'Brien: who cuts a perfect stencil, and has an awful lot of patience.

And finally to us, the MEMBERS OF THE STAFF who got this book out. 'Nuff said!
