

ASTRONOMY CLUB shines

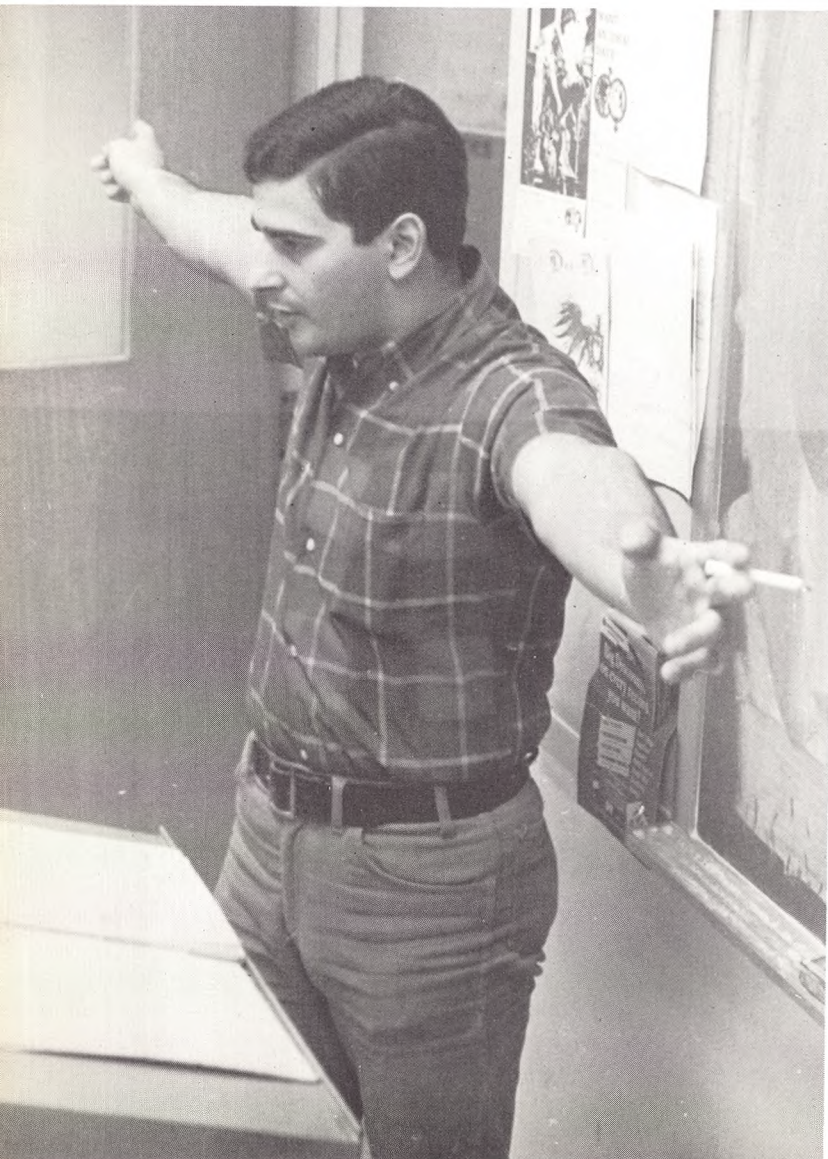

Jim Paciello, Mike Sinneck, Ron Eidshaug, Terry Ellison, and Bill Vahaly begin their star gazing a bit early.

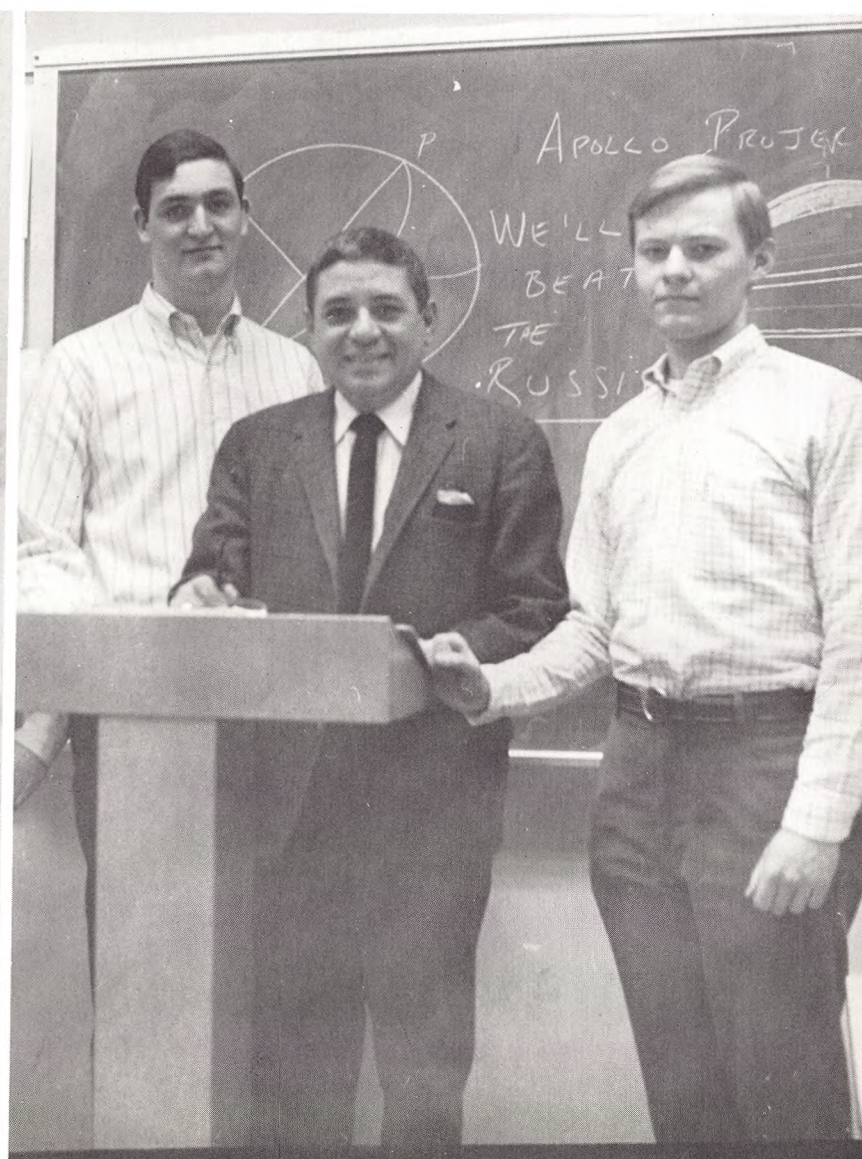

The Astronomy Club, under the leadership of Dr. Jorge Andres, has once again had a very successful year.

Besides continuing its lecture series, it has supplemented them with field trips to various observatories and planetariums.

Also, due to the efforts of Club officers, Mike Sinnick, Ron Eidshaug, Terry Ellison and Frank Clinton, the Astronomy Club is becoming affiliated with the Amateur Astronomers of America.

Lee Gugliotto demonstrates to the members the proper way to catch a falling star.

The officers of the club pose with their moderator Dr. Jorge Andres, they are Mike Sinneck and Ron Eidshaug.

BUSINESS CLUB prospers

The Business Club started the 1967-68 year with the look of productivity.

Under the auspices of Daniel Correa, President; Edward Constantino, Vice-President; James Quinn, Secretary; Anthony Ponzio, Treasurer; and Joseph Pesola, the Parliamentarian, work was started early in the summer.

Letters of introduction were sent to the incoming freshman class advising of the advantages which the club holds and welcoming them to join. Utilizing a two week membership drive the club was able to establish itself as the second largest on campus.

The members attended numerous lectures in the field of private industries and that of government agencies. The lectures subjected the members to what is expected of them in the business environment. The response was of extreme gratitude with the hope of continuing in the same stream.

Not being all business the club held its annual dance at a prominent New York hotel.

At this time the officers would like to thank all who were involved in making this a most successful year.

Business Club members listen intently to a lecture given by one of the weekly speakers.

One of the many guest lecturers who imparted much factual information to aspirants of the business career.

Prof. James McGuiness often took his topics out of the classroom and into the lounge.