

While today it is know as “the Small College of Big Dreams,” SFC was founded in 1859 by Franciscan Brothers as St. Francis Academy. Over two decades later, the trustees of the school received permission from the state legislature to establish a “literary college” under it's current name, giving it the power to confer diplomas, honors, and degrees.

In the years following, the school would continue to grow exponentially, and by 1926 the growth had necessitated the construction of a new facility on Butler Street. Following the purchase of two office buildings from Brooklyn Union Gas Company, the college would make the move to Remsen Street.

While today it is know as “the Small College of Big Dreams,” SFC was founded in 1859 by Franciscan Brothers as St. Francis Academy. Over two decades later, the trustees of the school received permission from the state legislature to establish a “literary college” under it's current name, giving it the power to confer diplomas, honors, and degrees.

In the years following, the school would continue to grow exponentially, and by 1926 the growth had necessitated the construction of a new facility on Butler Street. Following the purchase of two office buildings from Brooklyn Union Gas Company, the college would make the move to Remsen Street.

Shortly thereafter, it became a co - educational institution and additional property was purchased on Remsen and Joralemon Streets. Recently, the college has expanded its facilities with the construction of a science building, physical education complex, and the recently rechristened Frank J. and Mary Macchiarola Academic Center.

Today, the college continues to thrive, with more than 2,500 students, and 16,000 alumni. Many distinguished public servants, scientists, lawyers, business professionals, and teachers call SFC their alma mater. As a result, alumni help to continue on the mission of teaching and living the ideals of Franciscan Spirit.

The Spirit of St. Francis

A History