

First Friday Masses were said in either St. Paul's Church or the college chapel. On February 5th, Mass was offered at St. Paul's with a good portion of the student body in attendance.

LeMoyné defeated St. Francis 77-66 ending the Terrier's unbeaten hold on first place in the M.E.C.A.A. Conference. Hank O'Lee's attempt was in vain as the Terriers closed to within two points of tying the score in the second half.

The traditional pep rally before the St. Francis-St. John's game was the cleverest to hit the campus in many years. The rally included an ample portion of good hearted downgrading of the "Redmen" and the happy display of the "missing" St. John's mat. The Terriers were edged by the N.I.T.-bound Redmen in their 49th meeting.

A job clinic was conducted by Mr. Stuart Campbell of the New York Life Insurance Company on February 19th. The clinic, under the direction of Brother Donald, aimed to acquaint the students with the type of interview they will receive after graduation.

A one act play, Mirbeau's The Epidemic, was presented by the Troupers on February 28th in the Lounge. The play, directed by John O'Connor and produced by Jim Green, featured Sal Allocco, John Richetti, Robert Peyton and Dick Flynn.

The Junior Class held its dance on February 26th at the Hotel New Yorker. Among the evening's festivities was a drawing for a basket of cheer. Frank Ferguson and Joe Walker eagerly await the lucky ticket.

The "luck o' the Irish" failed to sway the weatherman this St. Patrick's Day. Yet, the stouthearted sons of Erin braved the snow and the cold to represent St. Francis College in the parade. The contingent was led by Tim Courtney, Mike Henning, Joe Murphy and Bill McCormick carrying the College colors.

Commencement marked the termination of another year at St. Francis College, and the end of four years of Franciscan education for the graduates.

The Math Club enjoyed a successful year of activities. Meetings included group discussions, lectures by prominent men and practical application of learned principles. The club also conducted several field trips.
