Varsity Basketball

FOR the 1937-38 season the varsity basketball campaign of the Franciscans marked an exact duplication of the previous year so far as the record of games won and lost was concerned. The Terriers again chalked up fifteen victories as against eight defeats. The record may not be an enviable one, but an examination of the schedule speaks far more eloquently than the cold figures of the won and lost columns testify. Among those fifteen victories the Terriers humbled the mighty Green of Manhattan; overwhelmed Lincoln College, foremost of colored colleges in the country; twice subdued the Peacocks of St. Peter's College; stopped the crack Villanova quintet, and defeated Rider College of Jersey — not to mention victories over Upsala, Ithaca, Cortland State, Newark University, and Hudson College.

Coach Rody Cooney's squad consisted of six veterans and six sophomore aspirants from last year's successful Freshman team. The starting combination represented four seniors and one sophomore. Captain Herman Cordts, one of the best defense men in the city, lined up with Danny Lynch, an excellent shot and smart floorman, at the guard positions. Jim Naughton, 6 ft. 3 in. sophomore, captured the center position while Bob Carey, sensational pop shot artist, and Al Lenowicz, husky pivot man, took their places as forwards. The rest of the squad comprised Joe Dzienkiewicz, who, due to his stellar
