

MICHAEL REDMOND
President

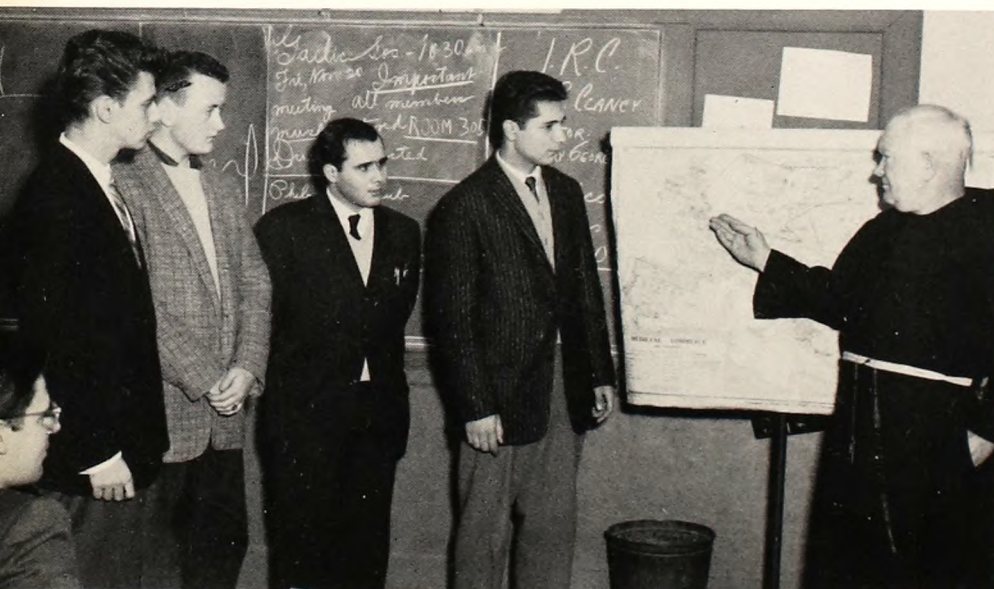

GAELIC SOCIETY

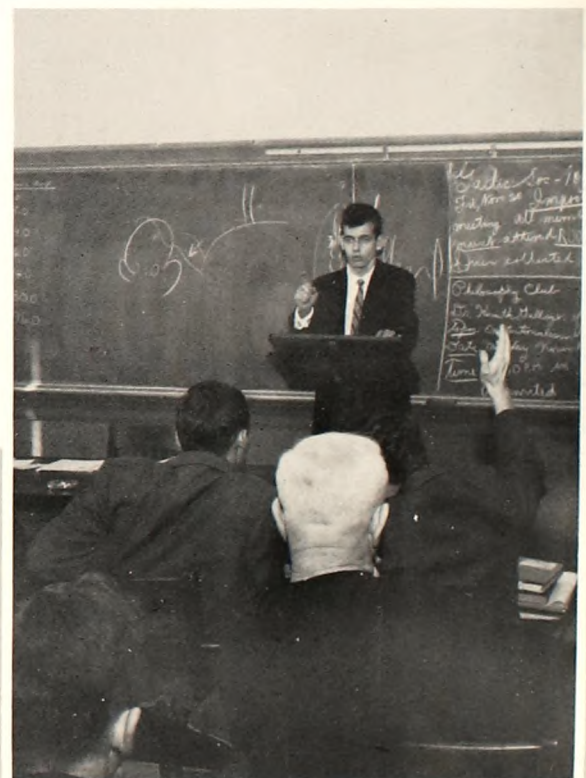

Mike Redmond and John McCormick thrash out a problem concerning the St. Patrick's Day Parade. Jim Murray and Danny O'Connor measure both proposals.

The Gaelic Society consists of a group of students interested in the study and promulgation of Irish culture and lore. The Society aims to inculcate an appreciation of the value of Irish contributions to our American culture, and to strengthen in the members a spirit of pride in their Gaelic heritage.

Lectures and exhibits depicting various aspects of Irish life and history were presented during the year. The club marched as a unit in the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

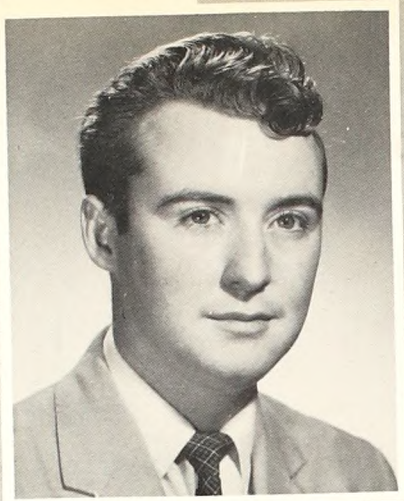

A major point of interest to the society is the partition of Ireland. Brother Joseph, Moderator, discusses the implications of a welding of north and south.

Mike Redmond seeks suggestions from the members on plans to invite a guest speaker to lecture the group.

VETERANS CLUB

JAMES O'DONNELL
President

Jim O'Donnell discusses plans for the annual Christmas Toy Drive with members of the committee.

The Veterans Club has set two primary goals: to assist returning servicemen in re-orientating themselves to college life and keep them abreast of changing policy regarding veterans' benefits, and to help the students prepare themselves for future military service.

To realize these goals, the club maintains contact with the Veterans Administration and various branches of the Armed Services in order to obtain the latest information regarding changes in policies.

The club calls upon the experience of its members to give the non-veterans a concise idea of the daily routines of military life.

Unable to depend solely upon donations of toys, the members made an appeal for finances to local merchants and the families of the students. Jim O'Donnell and Wayne Wisdom get the campaign underway by distributing donation cans.
