

Fluctuates

When the Club was not meeting, it was reading—the articles on business in the Voice. "Brooklyn Business—The Civic Center" was the title and it reported on—you guessed it . . . The articles showed how and why some of our leading banks, utilities, firms, and department stores settled and opened shop where they did. A&S, Korvettes, the T.A., the friendly First National City, Merrill, Lynch, Pierce and so on all had their say.

In early October the Club sponsored a Discothequé and although we didn't cover the rental cost of the juke box those that were there enjoyed it.

The first Friday in May is traditionally reserved for the annual Business Club dance. So it is again this year. This time the Business Club will move its shindig closer to a central location thus trying to make it more accessible and again successful.

Looking at the past year in quick review I would say it was hectic, trying at times, but satisfying. I would certainly welcome it again.

Dr. Charles L. Savage, Moderator of Business Club.

"... the outside world EAGERLY awaits you."
