Club

This past fall, the football club at St. Francis completed its fourth season, with a rather poor showing on the gridiron. The Terriers went into a tough nine game schedule, and after some devastating injuries at key positions, managed only one win, over Brooklyn College, 30—6.

Although the past season was dim in field performance, the club began to shape up as one of the few active and involved clubs on campus, with more than 40 full-time ballplayers, trainers, and administrative personnel. This is where the unique and special aspect of club football comes into view. The students are not just ballplayers in a school sport, they also run the activity administratively. These administrative positions are opened to any student on campus who wishes to undertake the responsibility that football bears.
