

DUNS SCOTUS HONOR SOCIETY

ARTHUR BEYER

Duns Scotus is the scholastic honor society which bestows honor and recognition on deserving students. Candidates, who must be Juniors or Seniors with an index of at least 3.00 and an outstanding record in activities, are voted on by a committee of faculty and student members. Acceptance entitles the members to wear the key of the society and a distinctive red and blue tassel at graduation. A permanent plaque bearing the names of all present and past members occupies a position of prominence in the main hall of the school.

ANTHONIAN CLUB

JAMES GREEN
President

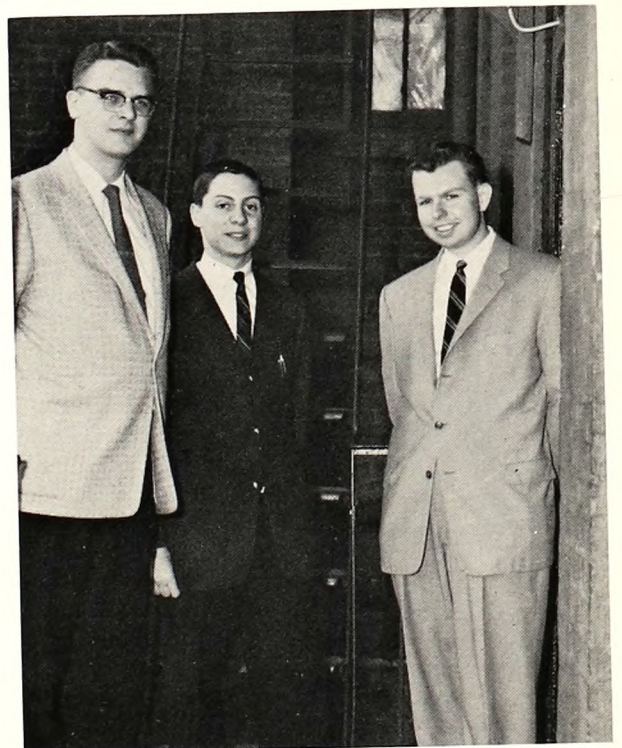

Father Salerno, club moderator, accompanies the group during Benediction.

The Anthonian Club is an organization which exists for the expressed purpose of developing and strengthening vocations to the religious life. Its members are students who are seriously contemplating taking vows, and seek encouragement and direction in making their decisions.

Monthly meetings are highlighted by conferences and discussion groups, and outings to various religious communities give members an accurate picture of what they may expect to encounter as servants of God.

Following each meeting, the members of the club join in prayer seeking God's assistance in their selection of a vocation.

Dennis Maher and Frank Perillo discuss a forthcoming outing to a Franciscan seminary with Jim Green.
