

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

The love of wisdom means different things to different people. To some it means a quest for the truth and an understanding of the reality of things. To others, it is a way of thinking of things that aren't, and asking why they can not be. But, perhaps the most common factor that those who have an interest in philosophy share, is a desire to intelligently discuss matters of mutual interest.

This year, the Philosophy Club has attempted to make philosophical discussion more relevant to the students of St. Francis. It has done so by opening up discussion in such concretely meaningful areas of contemporary experience as "The New Left and Marcuse," and "Classical Political Philosophy and the Contemporary Crisis."