This is what it's all about;
Finding and being found.
Needing and being needed,
Whispering and being whispered to,
Caring and being cared about,
Understanding and being understood,
loving and being loved,
It seems so simple,
yet
It turns out so terribly complex.

Time is lost for those who have no hope for tomorrow
Or do not know where they have come from.
But yet, time stops as we remember our past sorrow.
For our past is all one thought now,
and time moves on.
I think now of hope for another day
By not looking back at thoughts that may delay.
