

When its construction is complete, a building's life is just commencing. Now it must stand against the wear of time and the elements. We, the graduates of St. Francis College, are like a building whose construction has just been completed. Time and the elements of life will now put us to the test.

GRADUATES

