In order to provide an alternative form of entertainment and involvement for the students at St. Francis, a group of individuals began Treaty Stone five years ago. In the past the members have published a literary magazine and a newsletter. The club's most successful venture has been the Folk Fests.

Students and alumnae provide relaxing evenings of entertainment three or four times each year. The selections played include Pop and Country, Traditional and Contemporary. The performers are given the chance to present their talent free of the pressures of a professional engagement. The small but dedicated group of students are the key to Treaty Stone's success.
