DEDICATION

Brother Urban Gonnoud, O.S.F.

The advance of civilization is a relentless continuity of progressions towards the future. Likened to a bridge, it transcends the expanse of the old to the new.

The Verrazano-Narrows bridge is a unique example of structural progress. This progress not only takes a structural form, but may also shape both the mind and the spirit as well.

A bridge spans a physical gap—an obstacle of nature. Man, endowed with reason and an intellect is capable of much more: that of overcoming the reality of time, from blissful innocence to resplendent adulthood and all its resultant gifts of knowledge and experience.

With this in mind, we, the staff and the Class of 1965, dedicate this yearly journal to Brother Giles Turbee O.S.F.,
