

Under the leadership of George Ansalone and Brother Anton Moran, O.S.F., the Sociology Club of St. Francis College pursued a most active and diversified program of activities this year. A schedule ranging from slides and films to intercollegiate seminars was put into effect and well received by the student body.

Through the cooperation of the City of New York Educational Advancement Department, a series of sociological films was obtained on topics ranging from 'Juvenile Delinquency' to 'Social Problems and Prostitution.' Perhaps the newest and most popular idea introduced were the intercollegiate seminars. These meetings and discussions offered the college students of the metropolitan area an opportunity to discuss such topics as 'The Buddhists, and the Viet Nam Crisis', 'The Negro Revolt' and 'Drug Addiction and Prostitution.'

Rounding out this comprehensive program were various speakers representing the Mobilization for Youth, Alcoholics Anonymous and the Department of Parole and Probation of the City of New York. Many of the problems discussed at these meetings were viewed first-hand in a series of field trips.

President George Ansalone and Moderator James O'Kane discuss future club activities.

A joint concert held with Molloy College for Women in the spring semester highlighted the program of activities for the Glee Club of St. Francis College this year. Several presentations at school assemblies and an increased repertoire were presented for the benefit of the college's students at Christmas and at a special spring assembly.

Under the leadership of President Rudy Maurizio and Conductor Nicholas Fiorenza, the Molloy Concert was well planned and well received by the student body. It is hoped that this will be the signal concert of many more to come.

A late-night practice in the music room is coming to a close and tired glee clubbers prepare to go home.
