

FREDERICK J. CAVANAGH

Navy

*St. Francis Prep, Holy Cross College
Varsity Baseball; Glee Club; Le Cercle Francois; Voice; International Relations Club; Third Order.*

Fred, "Lefty" to his many friends, was outstanding as a hurler with the Holy Cross team and later with our own Terriers. His abilities, however, are not limited to athletic endeavors. A keen mind and a sharp intellect coupled with dry humor and a dash of Irish wit is a combination not often found in one man. In and out of class Fred is "one of the boys", though his scholastic record can attest to his seriousness when he applies himself.

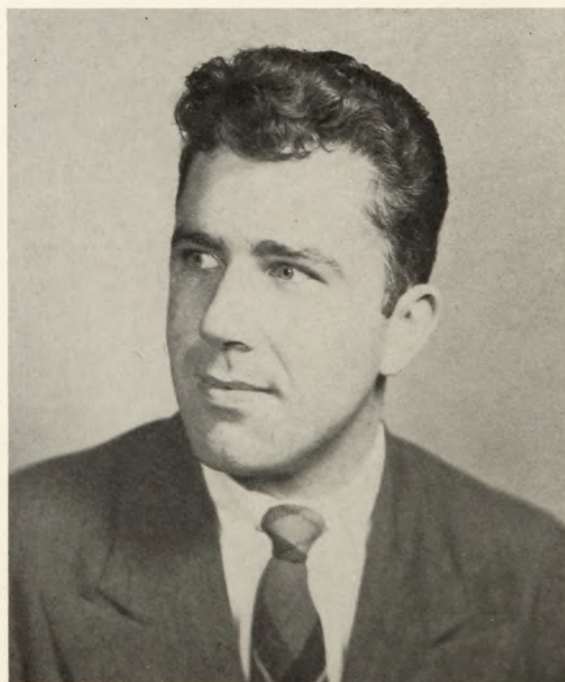

EPSODENT SMILE...

J. RUSSELL CLUNE

*Valley Stream Central High School
Math Club; Pres. Religion Club; Student Council
Rep.; Indicator Club; Vice Pres. Senior Class.*

"Light up the White Owl Russell." God's gift to St. Francis is noted for his ready smile and wit. He answers to the name "Pepsodent Kid." If his wild dreams could only come true. Doc Blanchard has nothing on Russ when it comes to plunging through these crowded hallways. Mr. Mahoney's classes will miss him because of his frequent quotes from the Catholic Encyclopedia. There never seems to be a dull moment when Russ is about. Aside from setting the world on fire with his looks and personality, he intends to pursue a degree in law. It will be tough sledding without

Russ around, won't it Russ?

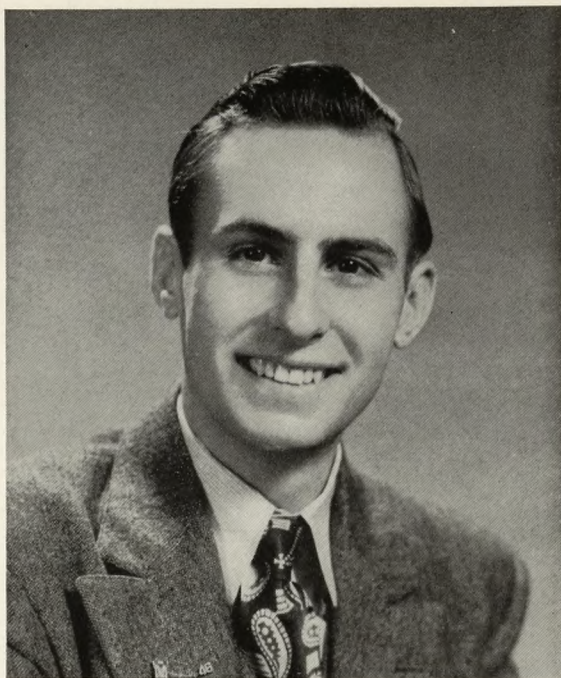

MARTIN JOHN COAN

Army

St. Frances Prep

Duns Scotus; French Club Pres.; Third Order Prefect; CWV.

Marty needs no introduction. Anyone who doesn't know him just hasn't frequented the corridors, student's room, or social events. Marty is a French major, honor student, and part-time employee. He has always found time to be extremely active in activities any and all student functions. Marty will continue his French at Columbia Graduate School, hoping eventually to become a teacher, and a good one he'll be.

PAUL P. COVIELLO

Cathedral High School

Philosophy Club; Glee Club; Interclass Basketball; Third Order; Sodality; Vocation Club.

A good singing voice and a strong liking for multi-colored bow ties characterizes the Sinatra of St. Francis. Rated a quick witted metaphysician and a sharp dresser, Paul is an excellent handball player and a fine shortstop to boot. His interests include dancing, swimming, chess, detective and philosophical books, and girls, though not necessarily in that order. Paul is undecided as to his future, but he does have leanings towards a career as a Public Accountant or a Philosophy Prof.
