

Veterans Club

PETER GAY

With the intention of giving the veterans at Saint Francis College an opportunity to channel their common interests in the field of extra-curricular activities, the Veterans Club was formed in 1955. Officially chartered in that same year, they have continued to grow until now they are one of the most active clubs in the school.

Club Officers: (l. to r.) Anthony Vallarino, Edward Reaney, Lester Bishop, Peter Gay, William Burns.

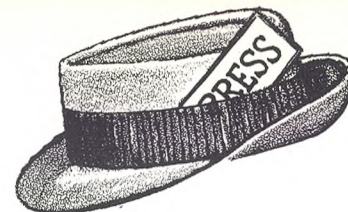

Ruth Murphy's desk is headquarters for veterans' affairs. John Marchisotto and Wayne Wisdom receive their vouchers from Mrs. Murphy.

Guard duty, K.P., Inspections, old memories keep a club meeting in high spirits.

Student Publicists

Notable among the guest speakers at Publicists' meetings was Bill Gilmartin, columnist of the New York Daily Mirror.

GOOD PUBLIC RELATIONS foster the name of the college and its students: with this in mind, the Student Publicists were organized as a student activity. This aim is carried out through the various communication outlets: press, radio, television, and educational periodicals. The members also act as representatives of Saint Francis at Industrial Career Conferences, sports activities, and in the public service of the communities of Metropolitan New York.

The Publicists are proud that they are the only student club in any college organized for the sole purpose of fostering good public relations.

Wayne J. Wisdom, Joseph Asta and Angelo Biviano thumb through "press releases that made the grade."

James O'Neill and Robert Morsut organize the material for a press release.
