

Fear Factor

Modeled after the popular television show, "Fear Factor" is an exciting mini-daredevil experience held here at St. Francis College in the Genovesi Center and Gormon Dining Hall. Students were pitted against the odds in different challenges to prove their endurance. Either through testing their limits to see how fast they could navigate an obstacle or by eating what most would consider to be disgusting food, students were able to beat the odds and truly show school spirit. Students were able to compete for different prizes and just take a break from their stressful class schedules.

Halloween

Tradition is one the most important and well remembered parts of life. The annual Halloween Dance is one of those traditions that students look forward to time and time again here at St. Francis. This year, for the first time, the party moved to the Genovesi Center to a bigger room and audience. Whether they came to dance, meet up with friends or compete for best costume, students had a great time this year. With the music controlled by the school's resident disc jockey Cern Hector, the SFC community celebrated Halloween until the late hours of the night. Students and faculty alike came out for this event showing off their different costume ideas and school spirit. With good food, music and people, students had a chance to unwind and have a good time.
