

Cyclaughs

CLASS-BREAK SNACKS were dispensed by machines in the Monsignor Kelly Lounge. Here Mike Jewell (left) and Tom Sadler admire the efficiency of the coffee machine.

THE SWEETHEART CONTEST was revived this year by the VOICE. This entrant was eliminated in the final judging.

THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE housed the offices of the Student Council, the newspaper and the yearbook. All worked harmoniously to keep activities functioning smoothly while respecting the privacy of the other offices.

WELL-INFORMED STUDENTS are chosen for the positions of leadership in the student government and publications. The Student Council President must speak for the entire student body; the VOICE Editor must be on the alert for information of interest to the students; the Franciscan Editor must keep his eyes open for good yearbook photographs throughout the year.

THE OFFICERS of the Business Club are (1st Row) Dominic Molignano, and Vincent Tizio; (Back Row) Bernard Morgan, Thomas Hassett and Timothy Courtney.

Business Club

BUSINESS CYCLES, buying trends, price scales, economic stability . . . these are the things the Business Club members are concerned with. They follow their interest through research into the hows and the whys of the New York Stock Exchange, through study of government-published statistics, through lectures by prominent businessmen and through reports on current averages and business publications. While the Business Club was plagued this year by problems of reorganization and membership, still the members strove to utilize its possibilities to prepare themselves for their eventual careers in the world of business by familiarizing themselves beforehand with the cycles in which it moves.

COURTNEY BRIEFS MEMBERS concerning the officers' plans for guest speakers and also gives details of the members' trip to the New York Stock Exchange.

MEMBERS INCLUDE (1st Row) John Adams and Ronald Langell; (2nd Row) Ken Cummings and Vincent Chianese; (3rd Row) Gene Cella, Mike Gagliardi and John Aversa; (4th Row) Bill Callaghan, Joe Harte and Jim Hudson. Although the club has a large membership, cancellation and previous commitments by speakers has kept activity at a minimum.

TYPICAL SOPHOMORIC HUMOR on the part of Joe Desidue draws reactions ranging from tolerant smiles (Vinny Emilio and John Adams in the first row) to quizzical disgust (Dave Boland on the left end of the last row).

PONDERING THE WORTH of President Courtney's remarks, Brother Cormack and Dominic Molignano wonder if cycle repetition in business is any criterion for positive conclusions.

