

BROTHER EDMUND HOLMES, O.S.F., B.A., M.A.
Head of Department of Classical Languages

MR. JOHN CLIFFORD, B.A., M.A.

Brother Edmund persevered with his unpopular but not unrewarding courses in the Greek and Latin languages and their masterpieces of literature.

The English Department, while lacking something with the absence of Brother Giles who remained on leave at Yale University, nevertheless managed to improve in several directions. New courses, "Advanced Writing" and "History of the

Brother Giles returns from Yale Sabbatical

English Language" were added to the Department's offerings. Pleased with the quality of the Sillion, the Department campaigned for creative writing in its sophomore and freshmen classes, and helped to make the magazine's contest a success. Finally, Dr. Fox announced that English major, Robert Sawicki, received the high honor of a Woodrow Wilson Scholarship for graduate studies.

MR. FRANCIS CARICATO, B.S., M.A.

DR. ROBERT C. FOX, B.S., M.A., Ph.D.
Head of English Department

to lecture on modern theater.

