

Signaling the fellows to prayer: Dan Ryan.

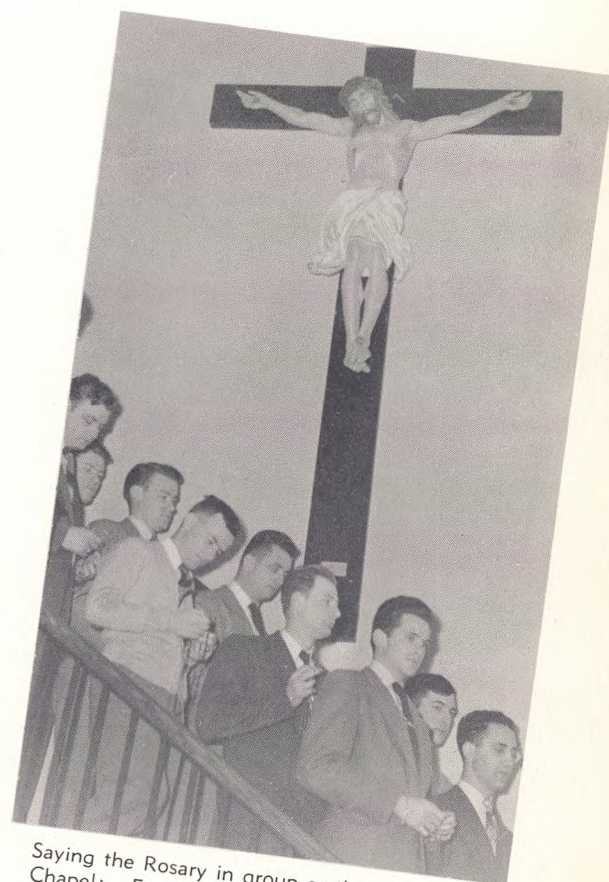

Keeping guard at Perpetual Exposition:
Tom Health and Frank Sweeney.

THE Senior Class of '49, having established many precedents already, started the first closed Retreat for the graduating class at Bishop Molloy Retreat during inter-term week. Thirty-five men withdrew themselves from the troubles of the world, in order that they might better themselves spiritually.

Father Cosmas and Father Alfred of the Passionist Fathers conducted the Retreat. The day began with Mass and Communion at 7 and ended with prayer in the evening at 10. During the day seniors served as honor guard at the Perpetual Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament; took part in outdoor Stations of the Cross; and in the retirement of their rooms meditated on spiritual reading.

At the close of the Retreat, the Seniors had not only a deeper appreciation of their Faith, but also the conviction that by living their Catholic religion they could help others as well as themselves.

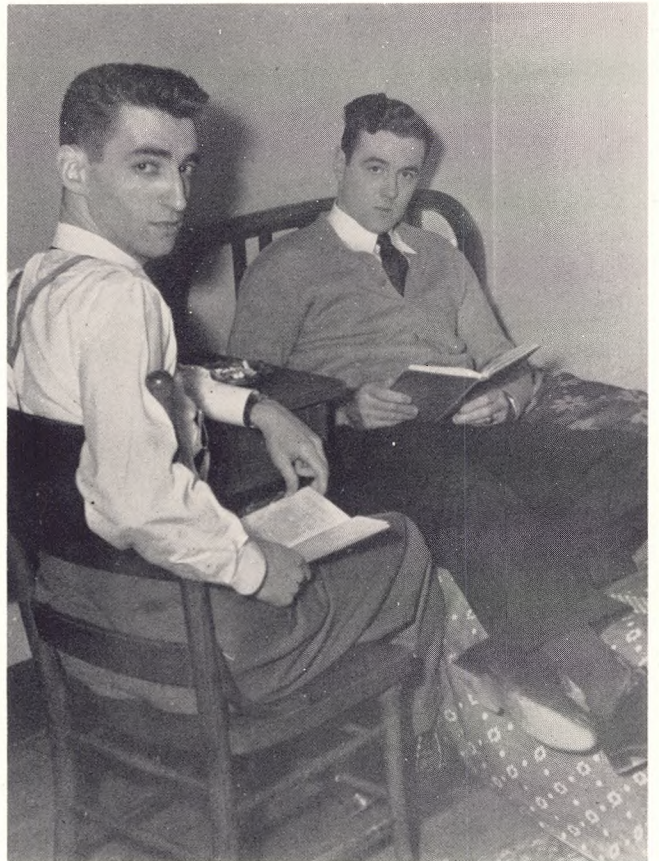

Saying the Rosary in group as they leave the Chapel: From top down: Bob Weth, Ed Martin, Gerard Betz, Ed Fountaine, John Walsh, Dan Beyer, Jim Brannigan, Bill Schmidt, Frank Spadafora.

Preparing for Stations of the Cross: Rog Egan and Gerard Fiorenza.

At spiritual reading: Vin Buccigrossi and Joe McCabe.

Writing questions for the Question Box: Frank Sweeney and Tom Heath.

At lunch: Al Markiewicz, Tom Tuite, John Connors.