

TROUPERS

On April 11 and 12, the SFC Troupers performed Ben Hecht's and Charles MacArthur's The Front Page, a dramatic comedy set in a 1920's Chicago newspaper room.

TROUPERS

The play, which featured a large ensemble of actors and actresses, directed by Greg Johnson, former director of Career Development at the college, was a tribute to Troupers director Joe Mongrone who due to medical necessity was unable to direct the organization's performance this year.

The last play constituted the last play for some of the SFC's best veteran actors and actresses. The senior members of the organization, Andrew Fisher, Rachel Kaminsky, and Nancy Marano began their SFC acting careers in the 1999 winter production of The Desperate Hours. Fisher is the current Troupers president. Dave Peters, who served as president of the Troupers last year, and debuted in the Spring 2000 production of Charlie's Aunt, also graduated in May 2003.

Senior members Michelle Susino and Steve Ryan made debuts in the 2001 Spring production of You Can't Take It With You. Among the five graduating seniors, many have received awards for their performances on the SFC stage. Fisher, who won Best Supporting Actor for his role as Hank in The Desperate Hours as well as Best Actor for his role as Hal in Picnic, and the amusing Elwood P. Dowd in last spring's production of Harvey, leads the group with three awards.

The graduating seniors, though sorry they could not work with director Joe Mongrone for their last performance, were glad to have worked with Johnson.
