Oh, let me live abundantly this day;
I cannot go back to the ways of yesterday.
Let me step out bravely into the tomorrows.
Leaving behind all mistakes and sorrows.
May tomorrow hold blessings I cannot see;
Granting more happiness for you and me.
May we no longer yearn for lost yesterday.
Just that brighter tomorrows will come our way.

To reach the realm of birds was man's desire
And when attained gave way to other schemes;
Each time a goal was reached another called
And man was caught within his web of dreams.
The span of human life will run the gamut.
With all its victories forever gone.
The world will spin its course in empty splendor
To wait the rebirth of another dawn.
