

HISTORY AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

THE objectives of the Department of History and Social Sciences of Saint Francis College is to acquaint the students with the development of the past in so far as it has contributed to the formation of his cultural heritage. Particular stress is laid upon these subjects as constituting a stream of man's growing awareness of his position in the political, social and economic world and his relationship both to his fellowmen and to the state.

REV. BROTHER
CHRISTOPHER, M.A.

Instructor in Social Science

LOUIS J. GREGORY, M.A.

Associate Professor of History

JOHN C. LE CLAIR, M.A.

Professor of History

FRANK W. NAGGI, Ph.D.

Professor of History

ENGLISH

THE English Department attempts to develop a capacity for clear thinking combined with skill in correct and effective expression; a broader and more intimate familiarity with truth, goodness and beauty; and, finally, finer sensibilities for appreciation and interpretation.

To promote the synchronous growth of right thinking and effective expression becomes the practical function of the courses in composition. But it becomes more properly the cultural intent in teaching upper-class courses to stimulate high thinking, to arouse worthy emotions, and to purify conduct through a careful study of the lives and selected works of great writers in the English tongue.

FRANCIS A. DELANEY, M.A.

Instructor in Speech

WARREN GIBBS, M.A.

Instructor in English

WILLIAM V. O'CONNOR, M.A.

Instructor in English

WILLIAM E. SCHWENDEMAN,
M.A.

Professor of English