

ORGANIZATION PRESIDENTS

JOHN MURPHY	Sodality of the Blessed Virgin
ROBERT KIRWIN	Student Council
J. VINCENT GALLAGHER	Duns Scotus Honor Society
THOMAS MULRINE	Debating Club
JOHN MURPHY	Glee Club
J. VINCENT GALLAGHER	The Troupers
ROBERT KIRWIN	To Ka'lon K'Agathon
JOHN MURPHY	Arts Club
HOWARD QUINN	Burschenschaft Edelweiss
PAUL CARTIER	Le Cercle Francois
ALBERT PAGANINI	Indicator Club
DONALD FAULKNER	Aero Club
WARREN WARD	Mendel Club
WILLIAM FERRIS	International Relations Club

SODALITY

THE field of the Sodality is a vast one, concerning itself as it does with all the religious activities of college life. During the nine months of the college year, officers and members worked quietly and efficiently, formulating plans for the various committees to carry out.

Briefly, the Sodality or the Religion Club as it is known, is a national association approved by the Holy See, which aims at devotion to the Blessed Mother and personal sanctification, through which devotion they may achieve the salvation of their neighbor.

With the initiation of the new term an inexperienced group took over control of the Sodality and came face to face with new problems which had to be hurdled. First of all there was a feeling of apathy upon the part of the members which had to be overcome. Around its President John Murphy, as nucleus a group of students gathered. They planned a unit cell or group of interested sodalities whose aim it would be to produce a contagious feeling of personal responsibility in solving all problems of Catholic social life in regard to religious duties and in this way to stimulate the entire student body.

