

Brooklyn Accents 3: The Colors of Brooklyn is a symposium which explored various aspects of Brooklyn as a multi-ethnic community. The symposium began with Brooklyn writers and poets reading their work and discussing their writing lives and Brooklyn experiences. This session began with four winners of the St. Francis-sponsored high school writing contest, the topic which was "Race and Ethnic Relations in My Community," reading their essay. The closing of the symposium was a luncheon roundtable discussion on media coverage of race relations. A distinguished group of journalists and community leaders were at the college to discuss this important issue.

MOOT COURT

The St. Thomas More Law Society sponsors an annual Moot Court. Moot Court gives members the opportunity to use their knowledge of the law practically. It enables members to gain experience and knowledge of the mechanics of the court room. This year's Moot Court took place on November 4, 1989. Both the prosecution and defendants portrayed excellent ability. The final verdict was decided by the jury, which was compiled of members and students. The day proved to be meaningful as well as enjoyable to all who attended and participated.
