

EDWIN F. CORLIS, Ph.D.
Professor of Biology

MARCEL E. DROZ, Ph.D.
Instructor in Chemistry

FREDERICK J. KENNY, Ph.D.
Professor of Chemistry

REV. BROTHER LEO, M.A.
Assistant Professor of Mathematics

STANLEY B. REDKA, M.A.
Instructor in Biology

REV. BROTHER SYLVESTER,
M.A.
Associate Professor of Biology

PHILOSOPHY

A PHILOSOPHER is a man humanly wise. He is a man who undertakes to express and act according to the sublimest views, at which man's understanding can arrive of the great problems which solicit the mind of the human race. Thus the philosopher's task is the acquisition of knowledge of all beings by their first principles; his tools, human reason.

Consequently, the philosopher is particularly interested in determining the nature of man, his submission to the Being above him. The philosopher completes his work with a practical study of human acts—the study of Ethics. . . .

REV. THOMAS I. CONERTY,
S.T.D.

Professor of Philosophy

REV. JOHN J. FLEMING, S.T.L.

Instructor in Philosophy

REV. BROTHER PASCAL, M.A.

Instructor in Philosophy

REV. THOMAS J.
SUTHERLAND, B.A.

Professor of Religion

