Paradise

*This is a poem I'll try to write describing a place so beautiful and bright
It has fresh pure clean air, the kind you can't see.
You can stare into the horizon and glare past the sea
The sky is so clear that when it rains you can still run and play in the sun all day
No worries, sorrow or fears are known Just joy, friendship and loving are grown Still I cannot, but only try to describe This world of peace called Paradise.
Paradise what a world to describe The wonderful unique essential of life*

*What pictures and words come to your mind?
Maybe beauty, loving and no telling of time?
Such a pretty word for a pretty place When you say the word it shows on your face
A dreamland of things to never come true
A dreamland you see, would never be blue Everything so pure and pictured right Never afraid for there'd be no fights Loving would be the only one thing to do That's fine with me, how about you?
Ten true summers and more to spare Stars would always sparkle and glare*

*The sun and moon a wonderful sight The sun in its brightness, the moon in the night. All your fantasies would be no lies In the dreamland world of Paradise
This is a place that I will meet The one I have loved, and will love for eternity.
See you in Paradise this I promise
You with all my heart There we can run free without troubles or fears Like a free bird flying high out past the sea — PROMISE!!
