

itself, the library, and the faculty to Integrity, a publication that is very "gad-flyish." It also had in mind a Saint Patrick's Day Parade, but due to two factors (March 17th was a Saturday; and the "Terriers" were playing in the finals of the NCIT), the student representation at the affair was far below that of any of the three previous years. And as usual the Council took care of the social calendar for the various clubs and organizations of the college. Despite the lower registration, the calendar was full—and the students could let go.

But perhaps the biggest achievement of the year was the voice of the Council in obtaining the guest speakers for our semi-monthly assemblies. This year for the first time the Council has been able to suggest to the Administration whom they would like to hear. And in most cases the students have concurred with our selection.

There is yet one item of note which the Council will undertake in the near future. That is the Student Conference on Public Affairs to be held at Albany. This is the big meeting for the College in Student Government Affairs, since we are able to bring to the minds of others the viewpoints of the Catholic Colleges. In the past few years the College has won recognition as the staunch leader of the downstate and Catholic minorities. And it is the purpose of the Council to continue this enviable reputation.

Such were the gains and the efforts of the Council this year. But we did work under several severe handicaps which bedeviled and arrested the progress of the Council. The lack of funds, the spread of war cynicism, and the withdrawal of men from the college for one or more reasons have forced us to make concessions.

First, the lack of funds has prohibited it from taking the proper ads in the "Voice" and the "Franciscan" and the Basketball Brochure. It has compelled us to relegate NFCCS and NSA to an inferior position in the inter-collegiate league of Saint Francis. These obligations are of paramount importance to the existence of student government.

Secondly, the outbreak of the Korean "Police Action" has brought with it the ravages of discontent, disillusionment, willy-nilly cynicism, and apathy. This completely negative approach has seeped into the sinews of the political life of the college and has most definitely affected student government which is dependent upon a freedom of mind and spirit, not found in these times.

Thirdly, the Council has been deprived of one of its most important constitutive parts: the student. The draft has hit us hard, and will continue to do so. We are again living in abnormal times.

Although the past year has not been an overwhelming success for the Council, it has not been a failure. Even if it has suffered losses, it still feels that the cause of student government is worth the fight. Student Government and Democracy—free and untrammelled—that is our legacy to next year's Council. All is in the balance.
