

PSYCHIC RESEARCH ASSOCIATION

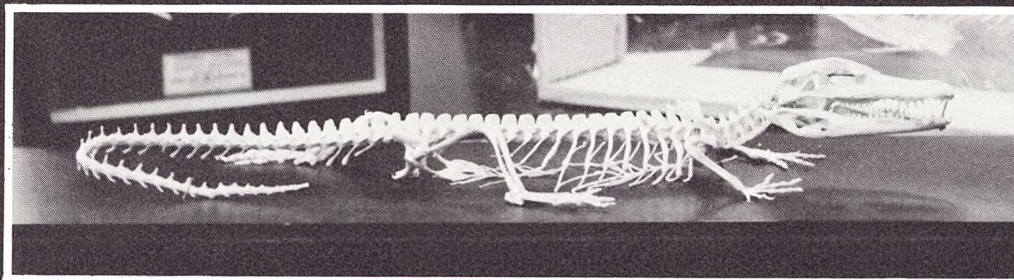

The purpose of the Association is to explore the various areas of the field of para-psychology, extra-sensory perception, or the sixth sense. This includes areas of human behavior and experience which we classify as telepathy, precognition, telekinesis, etc.

The Association carries out its goals with the help of both faculty and students through research, experimentation and demonstration. The Association holds regular meetings and is in the process of developing a library on this field which Sigmund Freud once remarked upon by saying, "If I had my life to live over again, I would devote my energies to the study of Parapsychology."

Chi Beta Phi

William Weber, Joseph Spence, Steven Russo, Charles Garbarino, Ronald Rance, Professor James Corrigan, Emil Bac-cash, and Gaetano Manzi.

Alpha Xi Chapter
National Science Honor Fraternity

