Sometimes it is the little things
That tie one to a friend;
A glass of water, when in thirst,
Or a birthday card you send.
Sometimes it is a gentle word
That comforts a soul in need;
Sometimes it's a "Well done, sir."

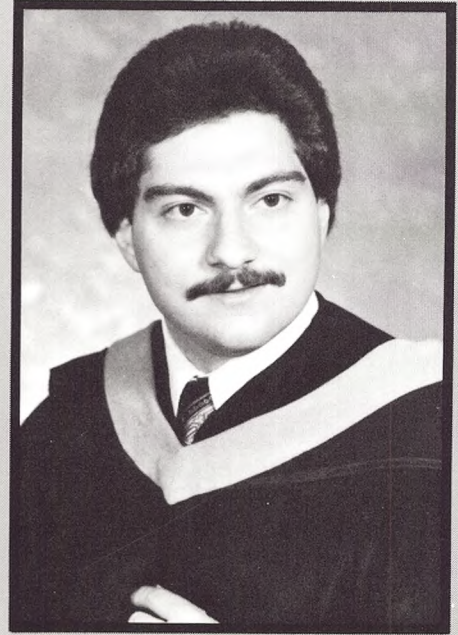

For a civic deed.
But sometimes too I think it is A smile to someone new
That quickly makes a stranger
Into a warm friend like you.

i find me hidden beneath myself and covering that half of my soul which gives me identity.
i find me hidden beneath myself and myself
is heavy.
i find me hidden beneath myself and yet
i am always looking elsewhere.
