Three years have passed and the last step is just ahead—but the Juniors think it all happened pretty fast. Looking back over another year, it might be noted that the Class of '51 took its ascent to higher ranks most graciously when September '49 rolled around. Behind were the confused Freshmen days of little red beanies, new surroundings, and the Sophomore days of just getting into the swing of things. It was the dawn of a new day and the Juniors took it in their stride.

Bill Weir of track fame was elected class president. Tom McHugh was voted vice president; Henry Zeigler and Steve Rusnak were elected treasurer and secretary respectively. The new officers took on their tasks with zest.

Class rings, and the Junior Prom arrangements kept them quite busy. The Prom offered its problems, but after much blood, sweat, and tears everything worked out very well under co-chairmen John Kenny and class president Bill Weir. The Astor Roof was the site of the Junior Prom and everyone had a good time.

The Juniors ruled in many of the College organizations during the past year. Bernie McQuillan, Ray Supino, Ed McDonnell, John DeVivo, and Don Regan sat on the Student Council. Bernie served as the Secretary of the Council. John Ryan was associate editor of the Yearbook, and was slated for the editorship next year.

The Voice found itself with three editors from the Junior Class—Bill Brooks as editor-in-chief, Frank McCormack as associate editor, and Ray Maloney as feature editor. Bernie McQuillan matched "As Pegler Sees It" with "The Viewpoint". Also many of the departmental and religious organizations had Juniors serving as officers.

For the Juniors only one year lies ahead, but with things as they are now, the Class of '51 won't be forgotten soon.
