BROTHER ANTHELM
O.S.F., M.L.S.
Librarian

"NO, NO, THAT'S NON-FICTION!" Brother Anthelm's ready smile and efficient direction helped the students master the intricacies of the Dewey Decimal System. The constant expansion of library facilities kept St. Francis' favorite bibliophile more than busy, but he still found time to co-moderate the Troupers with Brother Giles.

ROBERT SCHWABACHER, M.L.S.
Assistant Librarian

IN THE FOUR YEARS since Brother Anthelm began his tenure as Librarian at St. Francis College, the Seniors who began their scholastic careers when he assumed this position have seen the Library double in size, staff and number of books. The entire second floor, save the Chemistry lab, is the site of a multi-thousand volume Library, staffed by seven faculty members, four faculty advisers and over five student assistants.

We have seen a similarity in thought of dedication in the last two cycles. Franciscan 1956, closing the last cycle, was dedicated to the late Brother Celestine; last year, the Library was renamed in his memory.

MISS EVELYN CUFF was a friend in need to students in the periodical room. This Assistant Librarian had her hands full helping young scholars compile background and research materials for the perennial and inevitable term papers.

BROTHER JOSEPH
O.S.F., B.S.
Assistant in Library

BROTHER DANIEL, O.S.F.
Assistant in Library

PUTTING HIS POINT ACROSS . . . As Director of Student Activities, Mr. McGinniss spoke both formally and informally to many students. The camera catches him as he emphasizes a strong need for organization to a group of Freshmen. An interesting speaker and an industrious worker, Mr. McGinniss efficiently performed the multitude of tasks delegated to his office.

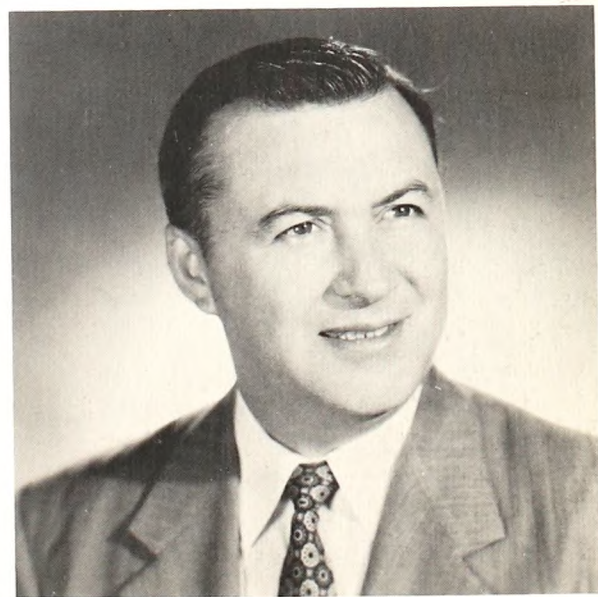

JAMES E. MCGINNISS, LL.M.
Director of Student Activities

BEGINNING A NEW SERIES of cycles this year as Director of Student Activities, Mr. James E. McGinniss had the difficult task of reorganizing the functions of his office to cope with the expanding cycle of activities. In his thirteenth year as Director of Athletics, Mr. Dan Lynch, coach of the Terrier basketball squads, must plan and execute the varied athletic program of St. Francis. With the addition of Mr. Peter Fazio to assist in his work, Mr. Lynch saw to it that the sports cycle for the year functioned smoothly and well.

LEANING ON THE FACTS . . . Dan Lynch takes a moment out to view the St. John's game rally from the rear of the lounge. Quoted as "Affable Dan Lynch" in the Voice, Mr. Lynch has passed through many cycles in his years at St. Francis. A competent teacher and a winning basketball coach, "Dan" effectively combined all of his assets in his role as Athletic Director.

DANIEL J. LYNCH, M.A.
Director of Athletics
