

WILLIAM NICHOLAS BURKE

Army

St. John's Prep, Fordham; Catholic Univ.; Boston College

Arts Club, Pres.; Arts Letter, Editor

"Well timed silence hath more eloquence than speech." — Tupper. And a quotation was never more appropriate, for Bill says so little but has accomplished much. A Major in English, he is a graduate of Fordham's School of Education. Probably the only fellows who remember Bill are the few remaining pre-war students who will graduate with him at formal Graduation in June. To us Bill is easily one of the most popular fellows in the class.

Late Flash! Bill's teaching at St. Francis Prep. now, and will be married soon.

AUGUSTUS JOHN CAMMEYER

Navy

La Salle Academy, Holy Cross, Cornell Midshipman School.

Duns Scotus; IRC; Varsity Basketball; Sodality; Who's Who.

"To thine ownself be true—" , and as the great bard put it, it followed, for Gus quickly gained the respect, friendship and admiration of the entire school. Returning to St. Francis with three years of Navy experience, Gus continued as a leader, captaining the newly resurrected baseball team and earning a varsity berth in basketball. His admirable sense of gentlemanly propriety and good taste well becomes this studious leader. Duns Scotus membership attests to Gus' keen perspicacity and ability to explain the subtle distinctions of philosophy.

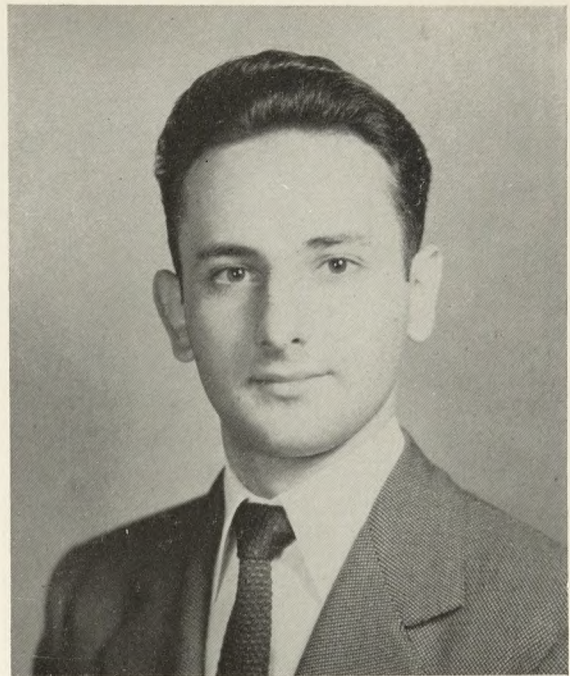

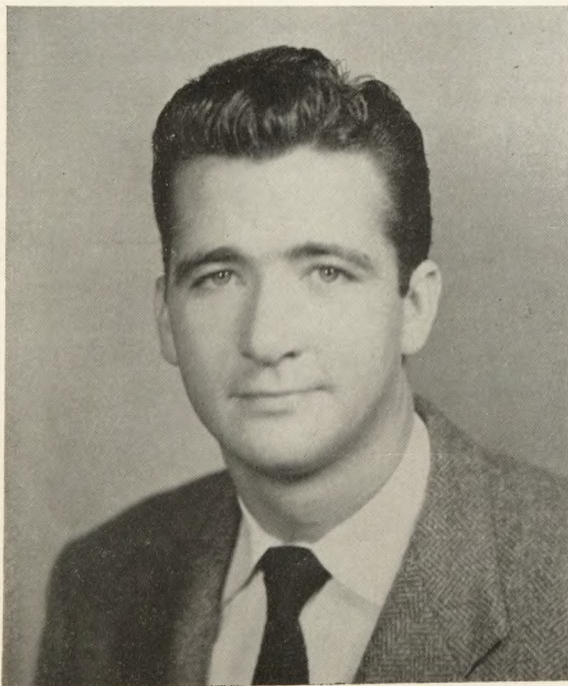

JAMES A. CAMPBELL

St. Simon Stock H. S.

Sodality; The Cord; I.R.C.; Varsity Basketball Co-Cap't, Capt.

"Gentleman Jim", most aptly tacked to the former basketball Captain, is a near-perfect summation of those qualities that endeared Jim Campbell to the entire student body. Unobtrusive and possessed of a self-effacing modesty, Jim however, did not shield his "light" under a bushel, but emerged as a steadying influence on the court and in the classroom.

Rather reserved, always considerate of other's feelings, a good listener and exponent of a high code of honor in athletics and living, a fine history student, Jim has been justifiably dubbed a true Franciscan.

ANTHONY NICHOLAS CANCELLARA

Boys High

Third Order; Indicator Club Sec'y; Math Club; Student Council Rep.; Religion Club; Intramurals.

Tony, as he is known by all, is a conscientious chap who is liked by all his acquaintances. He started at St. Francis College in 1945 and chose Chemistry as his major, but with time he discovered that Math held a greater interest for him. His main desire is to enter medical school. Although small in stature, he makes up for it by his personality and appearance. To a good "Joe" we wish lots of luck.
